Benson Trims Supports Estimated $200 Million

U. S. Budget Cut Forecast By Knowland

Says Solons To Slash $2 Billion From Requests

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9 (UP)—Senate Republican Leader William F. Knowland predicted Saturday that Congress will cut "upwards of $2 billion" from the budget requests President Eisenhower has submitted this year.

He was talking of cuts in the appropriations which Congress will pass for the fiscal year beginning July 1. Those cuts are not necessarily translated directly into reductions in federal spending for that year. Some of the authorized spending projects into future years.

When Mr. Eisenhower presented his $71.8 billion spending budget to Congress last month, it proposed $73.3 billion in new "spending authority" for the next fiscal year.

"I think there will be some cuts made," Knowland told reporters.

"Substantial?" he was asked.

"Upwards of $2 billion," he replied.

EXPECTS AID CUT

Asked if he expected those cuts to apply only to non-defense agencies, he declined to be specific and said he was talking of overall cuts in appropriations. He did say he expected Congress to reduce the administration's $1.95 billion budget for foreign economic aid for the next fiscal year.

Knowland would not speculate on how much the federal spending total might be lowered if appropriations should be cut this year by more than $2 billion. However, he suggested that congressional reductions could "set off a kind of chain reaction" by causing executive departments to review their spending programs with an eye to cutbacks.

$1.8 BILLION SURPLUS

When the budget went to Congress, Secretary of the Treasury George M. Humphrey made it clear that he was disturbed by its size. He virtually invited Congress to make reductions but made no specific recommendations.

Mr. Eisenhower later defended the budget but said it was the duty of Congress to make savings if it could find ways to do so.

Knowland was asked if the reductions he forecast would not touch off congressional demands for a general tax reduction.

"Not necessarily," he answered. "There are still some people who want to make reductions in the national debt."

Solon Warns Reds Active Inside U. S.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9 (AP)—The chairman of the House committee on un-American Activities said today "the danger of communism is increasing, not receding."

"At this moment on American soil are the equivalent of 20 combat divisions of enemy troops engaging in propaganda, espionage, subversion, and loyal only to the Soviet Union," Rep. Walter (D-Pa) said.

Walter made his statement in a foreword to the committee's report for the year 1956, released today.

NUMERICAL DROP

Numerically the membership of the Communist party of the United States has declined considerably in the past few years as many "dilettantes" left the fringes, Walter said, but:

"Those remaining in the Communist apparatus comprise a hard core of revolutionaries who have consecrated themselves to accomplish the annihilation of our form of government."

LISTS FINDINGS

Walter said the committee's investigations and hearings in 1956 disclosed:

1. "A mammoth nationwide campaign of political subversion designed to paralyze the security programs of the executive and legislative branches of the United States government."

2. "The curious posture of a major United States 'educational' foundation, the Fund for the Republic, Inc., some of whose practices have provided great aid and comfort to the Communist apparatus, particularly in the vital area of mass communications and entertainment."

3. "The extensive use of American passports by the Communist conspiracy as a basic means of moving subversive agents in and out of the United States and other countries of the free world."

4. "The identity of four other agencies of the federal government in which Communist party

House Committee Sees Compromise In Guard Dispute

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9 (AP)—Shouting has given way to talk of compromise in the row between the Army and the National Guard as to whether new guardsmen should be ordered to six months active duty.

This is the argument that reached deafening pitch after Secretary of Defense Wilson dropped his now celebrated remark about a "sort of scandal" during the Korean War. The scandal, Wilson said and Guard spokesmen furiously denied, was the enlistment of some young men in the Guard to avoid being drafted for combat.

IN RECESS

A House Armed Services subcommittee which has been considering the issue is now in a week's recess. Some of its members, however, talked about two ways in which the issue might be resolved:

1. Split the six months training in two, so that it would fit into two summertime school vacations.

2. Let the Army agree to the Guard's preference — compulsory training for 11 weeks only—with the understanding that if it doesn't work the whole question will be reconsidered in a year.

READY TO SETTLE

Rep. Morris (D-Okla), a subcommittee member, said he is ready to settle for the split six-months arrangement.

Rep. Winstead (D-Miss), another member, plumped for the year's trial of the 11 weeks plan.

Rep. Norblad (R-Ore) indicated he is willing to consider either.

Seaton Called For Testimony

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9 (AP)—Sen. O'Mahoney (D-Wyo) said today that Secretary of the Interior Seaton will be asked by Senate investigators to say what recommendations he has for dealing with recent price increases in oil and gasoline.

Seaton has been asked to testify Thursday before a combined Senate Antimonopoly and Public Lands subcommittee headed by O'Mahoney.

Oil Tankers To Begin Use Of Suez Soon

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., Feb. 9 (AP)—In a little over two weeks oil tankers will begin moving once more through the Suez Canal. It was blocked in November by 42 scuttled vessels and blown-up bridges.

The clearance task is far from completed but the partial opening of the 103-mile desert ditch will sharply reduce staggering financial losses that have run to something like a quarter-billion dollars.

PACT PRESSURE

Reopening of the canal also will bring added pressure from canal users for negotiations with Egypt on a permanent solution of the controversy growing out of the nationalization of the Suez Canal Co by Egypt's President Nasser last July 26.

In addition, Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold will report to the General Assembly here next week that U.N. salvage operations will cost around 20 million dollars.

Who pays for the clearance remains to be decided. But it is generally accepted that the cost will have to be absorbed by the canal users—probably in the form of a surcharge on tolls.

FAST PACE

The operation directed by U.S. Lt. Gen. Raymond A. Wheeler (Ret.) has proceeded at a pace that amazes experts. Using a fleet of 31 salvage vessels, assembled from various parts of Europe, Wheeler already has done what originally was expected to take five or six months.

M'Carthy Denounces A-Treaty

CHICAGO, Feb. 9 (AP)—Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) today said "every major city" in the nation could be wiped out with bombs made from material the United States could give away under a proposed treaty.

McCarthy lashed out at the proposed "atoms for peace" treaty he said will come before the U.S. Senate soon. He said it would be similar to the Chicago police "offering to share guns with the hoodlum syndicate."

The Wisconsin senator shared the speaking platform with critics of various Eisenhower administration policies at a rally of old-line Republicans sponsored by the Abraham Lincoln National Republican Club.

McCarthy joined with Sen. Jenner (R-Ind), former Sen. Herman Welker of Idaho, and former Gov. J. Bracken Lee of Utah in calling for slashes in government spending.

1,500 APPLAUD

They were applauded by a crowd that filled most of the 1,500 seats in the grand ballroom of the Sheraton Hotel.

Under the proposed treaty, McCarthy said, nations with uranium-235 and a atomic know-how would share them with other nations through an international agency.

McCarthy said the atomic material can be converted into bombs and could go to 73 or 74 countries, including Russia and its satellites, and possibly Communist China.

McCarthy apparently referred to the projected 82-nation atomic energy agency now in final stages of organization after two years of negotiations which grew out of a proposal Eisenhower first made in the United Nations in December 1953.

TO BEGIN OPERATIONS

The agency, expected to begin operations next summer, is designed to provide a means by which nations with atomic materials and know-how can help other nations which don't have them to develop atomic energy for peaceful purposes.

The treaty providing for U. S. membership has not been submitted to the Senate for ratification. A Senate Foreign Relations Committee spokesman said in Washington that it probably will be in a week or so.

McCarthy said this country "is now committed" to contribute 5,000 kilograms of the material and could donate an additional 15,000 kilograms later. He estimated that much material—20,000 kilograms—could be used to build 2,200 atomic bombs—enough to "destroy every major city in the United States."

Partly cloudy today and Monday, was the official weather forecast for Louisiana issued last night.

Arkansas is expected to be partly cloudy and a little cooler today.

The maximum temperature in Monroe yesterday was 84 and the early morning low was 65, the C.A.A. at Selman Field reported.

Passage Of Rights Bill Seen By House Leader

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9 (AP)—Rep. McCormack of Mass., the House Democratic leader, said today that "all probabilities" point to passage of civil rights legislation by the present Congress.

"There is also a good probability, I would say, that both the House and Senate will pass some legislation at this session along the lines recommended by President Eisenhower," he told a reporter.

McCormack's prediction underlined quiet behind-the-scenes efforts by leaders of both parties to bring to a decision this year the civil rights battle that has waged so long in Congress.

DEMOS PUSH ISSUE

Democratic leaders particularly were represented as feeling this is the year to get the troublesome issue behind them once and for all and relieve the tensions that have split their party in the past.

With Republicans almost solidly behind Eisenhower's civil rights program, only the Southerners are waging a delaying action against the efforts of Northerners in both parties to pass some kind of a bill.

Hearings already are well under way before a House judiciary subcommittee, but leaders have refrained from setting a target date for House consideration so as to keep down a possible rise of congressional tempers.

QUICK ACTION SEEN

McCormack said the House will act "just as soon" as a bill is voted out of the Judiciary Committee and cleared to the floor by the Rules Committee.

"It ought not be too difficult," he said.

Senate Republican leader Knowland of California told newsmen it now appears unlikely that Senate committee work can be completed on a civil rights bill by March 1, a target he originally had set for consideration of such legislation in the Senate.

However, Knowland said he expects a civil rights measure to be brought up in the Senate ahead of Eisenhower's school aid proposal.

Both House and Senate committees will be busy with the proposed civil rights legislation in the coming week.

A Senate judiciary subcommittee headed by Sen. Hennings (D-Mo), opens hearings Thursday with Atty. Gen. Brownell as the first witness.

The House judiciary subcommittee, after four days of lively hearings last week, resumes next Wednesday for what Chairman Celler (D-NY) hopes will be the two-day windup sessions.

A number of Southerners are still waiting to oppose proposed civil rights legislation before Celler's group, and additional requests were still coming in from officials of southern states.

Among others, the committee has scheduled appearances next week for Atty. Gen. George F. McCanless of Tennessee and Atty. Gen. Jack P. F. Gremillion of Louisiana. Atty. Gen. Lindsay Almond of Virginia has asked to be heard Feb. 25.

Among those arguing against the legislation was Gov. J. P. Coleman of Mississippi, who contended its enactment would make the lot of the southern Negro, "harder, not easier."

Rep. Mason (R-Ill), one of the few Republicans opposing the legislation, told the House group that "the proposed civil rights program is a direct violation of states' rights as guaranteed by the constitution."

Brownell said enactment of the program would not mean any federal encroachment of states' rights.

The program calls for (1) creation of a bipartisan commission to investigate reported violations of civil rights; (2) establishment of a civil rights division in the justice department under an assistant attorney general; (3) new laws to protect voting rights and permit the government to use injunctive power to prevent violations; and (4) provision for civil damage suits where civil rights have been adjudged to have been violated.

Zhukov And Ike Come To Parting On Middle East

NEW DELHI, India, Feb. 9 (AP)—Soviet Marshal Georgi K. Zhukov came today to a public parting of the ways with President Eisenhower, his old soldier friend. He declared the Eisenhower doctrine for the Middle East "is a step toward war."

The touring Russian defense minister, who got acquainted with Eisenhower in the World War II campaigning that crushed Nazi Germany, voiced his criticism to reporters at a cocktail party.

"Eisenhower is my old friend as a soldier," Zhukov said, speaking with apparent deliberation through an interpreter. "I do not know what is left of him as a soldier—whether he is still the same man."

That was Zhukov's response when asked why he did not make his views on the Middle East known to Eisenhower "in a more intimate fashion"—a reference to the private messages they have exchanged sporadically since 1945.

Zhukov sent Eisenhower a "get well" cable, along with cordial best wishes, when the President underwent abdominal surgery in Washington last June. And Eisenhower sent his best wishes to Zhukov through Gen. Nathan S. Twining, U. S. Air Force chief, when Twining attended a Soviet air exhibit in Moscow a couple of weeks later.

Subsidy For Eight Major Crops Down

WASHINGTON, Feb. —Secretary of Agriculture Benson today slashed about 200 million dollars out of government price support commitments under farm aid programs.

Benson announced lower price supports this year for cotton, oats, rye, barley, sorghum grain, soy beans, flaxseed and cottonseed. However, he continued the present rates for dairy products.

Rates are yet to be set for corn, dry beans, and a few minor products. All of these are expected to be lower, too.

$6 A BALE

The reduction in cotton was nearly $6 a bale or a total of about 72 million dollars on an average size crop. The government's price support obligations would be reduced roughly these amounts on other average size crops: oats 70 million dollars; rye 2½ million; barley 21 million; sorghum grains 11 million; soy beans 15 million; flaxseed $4,600,000, and cottonseed 10 million.

This does not necessarily mean that grower returns from these crops will be reduced accordingly. It is possible that market prices themselves will average above the support rates—as they do now.

FEW NOT CUT

Of the supports announced by Benson so far, only those for dairy products, wheat, wool and mohair have not been lowered from last year.

The reductions are in line with the administration policy that price floors should be reduced in times of surpluses to discourage overproduction and increased in times of shortage to encourage greater production.

Benson held out a possibility that the cotton support rate might be raised. He said that if market prospects improve or supplies dwindle more than now expected by harvest time, he would make an upward adjustment.

After Benson's action was announced, Sen. Thurmond (D-SC) said he was urging reconsideration of the cut for cotton. He said he previously had suggested to Benson an increase in the support price.

Thurmond said, "This reduction

Car Plunges Into Miami River; 7 Die

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 9 (AP) — An automobile containing nine persons plunged into the Miami River tonight. Newsmen at the scene said seven drowned and two escaped.

The tragedy in Hileah Garden an Everglades suburb of Miami, was one of the worst of its type in Florida history.

The dead were identified as Teresa Evans, 22; George Evans, 5; Henry Evans, 4; Raymond Evans, 2; Louis and Anthony Evans, 6-months-old twins; and Charles Wright, 12.

Ralph Evans, 50, father of five of the children, and Edwin McDonough, 50, a friend, struggled to safety from the submerged machine.

Police were told the party of nine was driving from Hialeah Gardens, Evans' home, toward nearby Miami Springs when the car shot off a two-foot, grassy bank into the river.

$600 Million In Budget Requests Slated In May

By JAMES M'LEAN

BATON ROUGE, Feb. 9 (AP) — A state fiscal officer said today 600 million dollars in budget requests are piling up for the May Legislature, running nearly 74 million dollars higher than current budget spending.

The size of estimated government spending next year is sharply above anything the state ever has seen.

It's the job the next few weeks of Gov. Earl Long, his top budget officers, department heads and key legislative whips to hatchet the bulging requests within the limits of state revenue.

Otherwise the state in May could be shocked with the possibility of an unbalanced budget.

At the moment, the word from Gov. Long is a hardboiled "cut."

The key to all this, when it is ready, will be the official state budget estimate of state revenues, including expected federal grants, for the new fiscal year starting July 1.

This vital information won't be forthcoming until some time in March. Current state revenues, including 103 million in federal aid, run close to 552 million for the fiscal year ending next June 30.

Homer Russell, assistant state budget officer, gave the 600 million estimate, according to the sheets of budget figures dancing across his busy desk from nearly 150 state agencies. He said current budget spending, which means government operating expenses, will reach 526 million this year.

The 30-day Legislature in May is the place where the money will have to be found for the revised budget which, when it simmers down to its final form, will represent weeks of sweating by a score of officials. No one, not even the governor, has any idea what final shape the budget will take, what will give, what won't.

And all this doesn't even touch special money requests legislators themselves will be making.

Current state spending actually touches 544 million, when 18 million earmarked in special appropriations is included. This wraps in 103 million federal aid, for public welfare, highways and hospitals.

Russell, who has held his post under four governors, said total

U. S. Budget Cut Forecast By Knowland

Among others, the committee has scheduled appearances next week for Atty. Gen. George F. McCanless of Tennessee and Atty. Gen. Jack P. F. Gremillion of Louisiana. Atty. Gen. Lindsay Almond of Virginia has asked to be heard Feb. 25.

Among those arguing against the legislation was Gov. J. P. Coleman of Mississippi, who contended its enactment would make the lot of the southern Negro, "harder, not easier."

Rep. Mason (R-Ill), one of the few Republicans opposing the legislation, told the House group that "the proposed civil rights program is a direct violation of states' rights as guaranteed by the constitution."

Brownell said enactment of the program would not mean any federal encroachment of states' rights.

The program calls for (1) creation of a bipartisan commission to investigate reported violations of civil rights; (2) establishment of a civil rights division in the justice department under an assistant attorney general; (3) new laws to protect voting rights and permit the government to use injunctive power to prevent violations; and (4) provision for civil damage suits where civil rights have been adjudged to have been violated.

Completely wearied from housework duties and multiple other chores, a woman lay down on the family davenport the other day to catch 40 winks. She soon felt one of the youngsters patting her face and drowsily she enjoyed the little one's mark of affection. And then the doorbell rang. She hastened to the door and informed the salesman she did not desire any of his wares. But he gave her such a peculiar look that she hastened to a mirror to view herself.

Her face was well plastered with Green Trading Stamps.

Zhukov And Ike Come To Parting On Middle East

NEW DELHI, India, Feb. 9 (AP)—Soviet Marshal Georgi K. Zhukov came today to a public parting of the ways with President Eisenhower, his old soldier friend. He declared the Eisenhower doctrine for the Middle East "is a step toward war."

The touring Russian defense minister, who got acquainted with Eisenhower in the World War II campaigning that crushed Nazi Germany, voiced his criticism to reporters at a cocktail party.

"Eisenhower is my old friend as a soldier," Zhukov said, speaking with apparent deliberation through an interpreter. "I do not know what is left of him as a soldier—whether he is still the same man."

That was Zhukov's response when asked why he did not make his views on the Middle East known to Eisenhower "in a more intimate fashion"—a reference to the private messages they have exchanged sporadically since 1945.

Zhukov sent Eisenhower a "get well" cable, along with cordial best wishes, when the President underwent abdominal surgery in Washington last June. And Eisenhower sent his best wishes to Zhukov through Gen. Nathan S. Twining, U. S. Air Force chief, when Twining attended a Soviet air exhibit in Moscow a couple of weeks later.

Subsidy For Eight Major Crops Down

WASHINGTON, Feb. —Secretary of Agriculture Benson today slashed about 200 million dollars out of government price support commitments under farm aid programs.

Benson announced lower price supports this year for cotton, oats, rye, barley, sorghum grain, soy beans, flaxseed and cottonseed. However, he continued the present rates for dairy products.

Rates are yet to be set for corn, dry beans, and a few minor products. All of these are expected to be lower, too.

$6 A BALE

The reduction in cotton was nearly $6 a bale or a total of about 72 million dollars on an average size crop. The government's price support obligations would be reduced roughly these amounts on other average size crops: oats 70 million dollars; rye 2½ million; barley 21 million; sorghum grains 11 million; soy beans 15 million; flaxseed $4,600,000, and cottonseed 10 million.

This does not necessarily mean that grower returns from these crops will be reduced accordingly. It is possible that market prices themselves will average above the support rates—as they do now.

FEW NOT CUT

Of the supports announced by Benson so far, only those for dairy products, wheat, wool and mohair have not been lowered from last year.

The reductions are in line with the administration policy that price floors should be reduced in times of surpluses to discourage overproduction and increased in times of shortage to encourage greater production.

Benson held out a possibility that the cotton support rate might be raised. He said that if market prospects improve or supplies dwindle more than now expected by harvest time, he would make an upward adjustment.

After Benson's action was announced, Sen. Thurmond (D-SC) said he was urging reconsideration of the cut for cotton. He said he previously had suggested to Benson an increase in the support price.

Thurmond said, "This reduction

Car Plunges Into Miami River; 7 Die

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 9 (AP) — An automobile containing nine persons plunged into the Miami River tonight. Newsmen at the scene said seven drowned and two escaped.

The tragedy in Hileah Garden an Everglades suburb of Miami, was one of the worst of its type in Florida history.

The dead were identified as Teresa Evans, 22; George Evans, 5; Henry Evans, 4; Raymond Evans, 2; Louis and Anthony Evans, 6-months-old twins; and Charles Wright, 12.

Ralph Evans, 50, father of five of the children, and Edwin McDonough, 50, a friend, struggled to safety from the submerged machine.

Police were told the party of nine was driving from Hialeah Gardens, Evans' home, toward nearby Miami Springs when the car shot off a two-foot, grassy bank into the river.

$600 Million In Budget Requests Slated In May

By JAMES M'LEAN

BATON ROUGE, Feb. 9 (AP) — A state fiscal officer said today 600 million dollars in budget requests are piling up for the May Legislature, running nearly 74 million dollars higher than current budget spending.

The size of estimated government spending next year is sharply above anything the state ever has seen.

It's the job the next few weeks of Gov. Earl Long, his top budget officers, department heads and key legislative whips to hatchet the bulging requests within the limits of state revenue.

Otherwise the state in May could be shocked with the possibility of an unbalanced budget.

At the moment, the word from Gov. Long is a hardboiled "cut."

The key to all this, when it is ready, will be the official state budget estimate of state revenues, including expected federal grants, for the new fiscal year starting July 1.

This vital information won't be forthcoming until some time in March. Current state revenues, including 103 million in federal aid, run close to 552 million for the fiscal year ending next June 30.

Homer Russell, assistant state budget officer, gave the 600 million estimate, according to the sheets of budget figures dancing across his busy desk from nearly 150 state agencies. He said current budget spending, which means government operating expenses, will reach 526 million this year.

The 30-day Legislature in May is the place where the money will have to be found for the revised budget which, when it simmers down to its final form, will represent weeks of sweating by a score of officials. No one, not even the governor, has any idea what final shape the budget will take, what will give, what won't.

And all this doesn't even touch special money requests legislators themselves will be making.

Current state spending actually touches 544 million, when 18 million earmarked in special appropriations is included. This wraps in 103 million federal aid, for public welfare, highways and hospitals.

Russell, who has held his post under four governors, said total

"We plan to erect a building that will serve us for many years," stated President J. W. Roberson.

General and Mrs. Claire Lee Chennault have just returned from Washington where they participated in a reception accorded members of army, navy, air corps and other government officials. The affair held in the White House had been arranged by President and Mrs. Eisenhower, and was a highly enjoyable event, Mrs. Chennault assures.

The Central Savings Bank and Trust company blossomed forth with an amazing hash of colors as the second annual Camellia show was staged there on many tables in the main lobby which was all too small. In all we hear there were fully 1,700 gorgeous blooms that would defy the rainbow in versatility of coloring.

Last year's show would fade into insignificance in comparison with what President John Breard had arranged, and he is an expert when it comes to flowers and camellias especially. There were said to be some choice flowers that have always been extremely rare here.

The show lasted two days and throngs regretted when closing time Saturday — hours later than the usual closing time—arrived.

Friends of Dave Carter, well known, retired former postal clerk for many years, are amazed to see how youthful he appears after nearly a month's vacation in Phoenix, Ariz. His color has brightened his cheeks and he has seemingly made quite a return to youth. Says there's no place as good as Phoenix, unless it be Monroe.

W. A. Johnson, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Johnson Sr. of Owensboro, Ky., former Monroe residents, has just graduated having completed the pre-medical course at L.S.U. In September he will enter L.S.U. Medical school in New Orleans and the next few months will be at Tulane infirmary as intern.

$600 Million

spending this 1956-57 fiscal year will fall approximately four million short of the 1955-56 fiscal year, last spending period under the administration of former Gov. Robert Kennon.

The reason, Russell explained, is that although the 1955-56 budget amounted to only 496 million, the 1955 fiscal Legislature spent an extra 55 million that year. This brought the total to 548 million, or four million more than current estimated spending.

We are now in the 1956-57 fiscal year, and the 600 million in initial budget requests is aimed at the 1957-58 fiscal period beginning July 1. The new year will include roughly 110 million in federal aid, up seven millions.

The existing budget rested at approximately 510 million, until Gov. Long okayed an additional 16 million in anticipated surplus money for a temporary teachers pay boost.

And the governor, at his last news conference, said teachers would be "lucky" if they could get the same amount next year, considering the scope of government expansion.

According to Russell, the education budget for teachers pay raise drafted under the 1956 salary schedule approved by the Legislature calls for 45 million, not 16 million. And teachers retirement funds would add another five million. The 45 million would include all school employes.

Education, as usual, requires the lion's share of state money.

Long has voiced doubt state needs can be fashioned out of existing taxes. But he insists he won't come forward with any tax proposals — not after the scorching he got with four tax defeats in the 1956 session.

If such a thing as an unbalanced budget were allowed to pop up, a special session after May would be necessary because the May Legislature is prevented by law from boosting taxes. The budget in recent years always has been balanced.

The 600 million in initial cash requests will come in for considerable chopping.

The governor will have the main say on major items. He already has named a group of his legislative finance leaders to pry into the problem.

Budgets still are finding their way into Russell's office, although department heads originally were told Jan. 15 was the deadline. The delay is normal.

Most big spending agencies have prepared their budgets and submitted them.

Education is asking close to 234 million dollars, compared with 193 million this year.

This includes 185 million for public education, a gain of 35 million; 24.4 million for state colleges, up 5½ million; four million for trade schools, up ½ million, and 20½ million for Louisiana State University, a gain of slightly more than one million.

The state Department of Public Welfare, Russell said, is estimating it will need 154 million next year, 14 million above current spending.

State refunds to parishes for homestead exemptions will require 28 million, compared with 26 million now.

The Highway Department has a current budget of 72 million, which includes 40 million for road building.

Highway Director R. B. Richardson said this week the state actually needs 80 million a year for road construction, if it wants to stay in step with long range highway planning. This would mean a new budget of 112 million or more.

Sen. James Sparks of Monroe who floor managed the long range highway program under Kennon this week was named to head a new legislative group to work with Richardson.

State hospital requests, which should reflect expanding construction and expense of new facilities, have not been completed.

In the Institutions Department, fiscal officers have decided to seek: $2,264,679 for the state Colony and Training School at Pineville, $3,177,538 for Angola, up $712,952; $570,522 for the State Industrial School for Colored Youths up $146,755; $546,260 for the Louisiana Training Institute, Monroe, up $99,874, and $312,697 for the state Industrial School for Girls, Pineville, up $83,485. Expenses for the new Louisiana Correctional Institute at DeQuincy are not ready.

Scores of smaller state budgets are showing up asking for money. Civil service pay raises will boost the total six or seven million.

For more than a decade, Louisiana has coasted comfortably on climbing state revenues with spending just barely keeping up. The state actually has reached the stage where surplus revenues have been pulled into use for normal operating expenses.

Long and his lieutenants, unless they yell "whoa" real loud, will have to scramble to keep things in balance. Long, in his campaign, emphasized he was the most experience state administrator in the crowd. Now he has a chance to prove it.

House Committee

La) advised newsmen not to get out on a limb speculating about compromises, but indicated he thinks something satisfactory will be worked out.

Rep. Devereux (R-Md), a retired Marine general, said in his opinion the split six months arrangement would be militarily preferable to the single 11-week training period, but less desirable than a continuous six months tour. But Devereux added he wants to hear more testimony before endorsing any solution.

BEATS RESERVE

The National Guard at present has a substantial competitive advantage over the federal reserve units in seeking recruits: it alone offers a program of part-time training entirely. No extended active duty is required, yet youngsters under 18½ who enlist are draft-deferred so long as they remain active in the Guard. If the Army order stands, men enlisting after March 31 will have to take six months' active duty.

The present advantage is all the more important since all the reserve units are finding most young men today inclined to take their chances of being missed in the current, reduced draft calls rather than assume an obligation of drills and summer camps for years ahead.

$600 Million

spending this 1956-57 fiscal year will fall approximately four million short of the 1955-56 fiscal year, last spending period under the administration of former Gov. Robert Kennon.

The reason, Russell explained, is that although the 1955-56 budget amounted to only 496 million, the 1955 fiscal Legislature spent an extra 55 million that year. This brought the total to 548 million, or four million more than current estimated spending.

We are now in the 1956-57 fiscal year, and the 600 million in initial budget requests is aimed at the 1957-58 fiscal period beginning July 1. The new year will include roughly 110 million in federal aid, up seven millions.

The existing budget rested at approximately 510 million, until Gov. Long okayed an additional 16 million in anticipated surplus money for a temporary teachers pay boost.

And the governor, at his last news conference, said teachers would be "lucky" if they could get the same amount next year, considering the scope of government expansion.

According to Russell, the education budget for teachers pay raise drafted under the 1956 salary schedule approved by the Legislature calls for 45 million, not 16 million. And teachers retirement funds would add another five million. The 45 million would include all school employes.

Education, as usual, requires the lion's share of state money.

Long has voiced doubt state needs can be fashioned out of existing taxes. But he insists he won't come forward with any tax proposals — not after the scorching he got with four tax defeats in the 1956 session.

If such a thing as an unbalanced budget were allowed to pop up, a special session after May would be necessary because the May Legislature is prevented by law from boosting taxes. The budget in recent years always has been balanced.

The 600 million in initial cash requests will come in for considerable chopping.

The governor will have the main say on major items. He already has named a group of his legislative finance leaders to pry into the problem.

Budgets still are finding their way into Russell's office, although department heads originally were told Jan. 15 was the deadline. The delay is normal.

Most big spending agencies have prepared their budgets and submitted them.

Education is asking close to 234 million dollars, compared with 193 million this year.

This includes 185 million for public education, a gain of 35 million; 24.4 million for state colleges, up 5½ million; four million for trade schools, up ½ million, and 20½ million for Louisiana State University, a gain of slightly more than one million.

The state Department of Public Welfare, Russell said, is estimating it will need 154 million next year, 14 million above current spending.

State refunds to parishes for homestead exemptions will require 28 million, compared with 26 million now.

The Highway Department has a current budget of 72 million, which includes 40 million for road building.

Highway Director R. B. Richardson said this week the state actually needs 80 million a year for road construction, if it wants to stay in step with long range highway planning. This would mean a new budget of 112 million or more.

Sen. James Sparks of Monroe who floor managed the long range highway program under Kennon this week was named to head a new legislative group to work with Richardson.

State hospital requests, which should reflect expanding construction and expense of new facilities, have not been completed.

In the Institutions Department, fiscal officers have decided to seek: $2,264,679 for the state Colony and Training School at Pineville, $3,177,538 for Angola, up $712,952; $570,522 for the State Industrial School for Colored Youths up $146,755; $546,260 for the Louisiana Training Institute, Monroe, up $99,874, and $312,697 for the state Industrial School for Girls, Pineville, up $83,485. Expenses for the new Louisiana Correctional Institute at DeQuincy are not ready.

Scores of smaller state budgets are showing up asking for money. Civil service pay raises will boost the total six or seven million.

For more than a decade, Louisiana has coasted comfortably on climbing state revenues with spending just barely keeping up. The state actually has reached the stage where surplus revenues have been pulled into use for normal operating expenses.

Long and his lieutenants, unless they yell "whoa" real loud, will have to scramble to keep things in balance. Long, in his campaign, emphasized he was the most experience state administrator in the crowd. Now he has a chance to prove it.

House Committee

La) advised newsmen not to get out on a limb speculating about compromises, but indicated he thinks something satisfactory will be worked out.

Rep. Devereux (R-Md), a retired Marine general, said in his opinion the split six months arrangement would be militarily preferable to the single 11-week training period, but less desirable than a continuous six months tour. But Devereux added he wants to hear more testimony before endorsing any solution.

BEATS RESERVE

The National Guard at present has a substantial competitive advantage over the federal reserve units in seeking recruits: it alone offers a program of part-time training entirely. No extended active duty is required, yet youngsters under 18½ who enlist are draft-deferred so long as they remain active in the Guard. If the Army order stands, men enlisting after March 31 will have to take six months' active duty.

The present advantage is all the more important since all the reserve units are finding most young men today inclined to take their chances of being missed in the current, reduced draft calls rather than assume an obligation of drills and summer camps for years ahead.

PARRIS ISLAND BRUTALITY

Marine's Father Reports Seeing Long Scar On Son's Head

PARRIS ISLAND, S.C. Feb. 9 (UP)—The father of a Marine recruit said yesterday he saw a one-and-one-half inch fresh scar on his son's head four weeks ago but added that he felt like a "squealer and betrayer" for making public charges that the boy was slugged with a steel bar.

Nelson R. Porter, 44, of Hartford, Vt., said that "brutality" must be eliminated from Marine Corps training but he was willing to have a second son become a Marine.

A letter from Porter's son, Pvt. David Lee Porter, 18, touched off a fresh investigation of alleged mistreatment of recruits at this big "boot camp."

The elder Porter, who said he had a headache from watching a parade in the sun here Friday, talked to reporters outside the office of Brig. Gen. Wallace M. Greene Jr., commander of the Parris Island Recruit Training Command.

The newsmen were not permitted to interview the son. Earlier, however, the six foot, three inch, 200 pound Marine had refused to comment except to say he had "started something I didn't want to start."

Porter said he first arrived at Parris Island Jan. 12, and at that time his son had a "one and a half inch fresh scar on his head and a sore ridge across the back of his head. He was very upset."

"Although I realize I'm getting a soft soap job here," Porter said after being escorted to Friday's parades by Marine officials, "I still think the Marine Corps is a good outfit and that tough training is required—but brutality such as this must be eliminated."

Boughton told Sheriff E. L. Hinton he awoke shortly after midnight and noticed the five-foot cross burning.

Arkansas Swinging From Apathy Toward Intergration To Segregationist Stand

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Feb. 9 (AP) — Arkansas, often accused of apathy toward intergration by some other southern states, will move unequivocally into the pro-segregation camp if projected legislation is passed by the current Legislature.

A series of bills designed to prevent integration in public schools and place rigid controls over the Arkansas branch of the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People are scheduled to be introduced next week.

The bills—there will be four or five of them—will have the backing of Gov. Orval Faubus and will be introduced by Rep. Lucien Rogers of Crittenden County in the Arkansas Delta.

Faubus said the general purpose of the proposed legislation is to implement the school assignment act and the interposition resolution, both approved by voters in the November, 1956, election.

The bills generally will:

1. Require "certain organizations" including the NAACP, to publish every three months its membership list, contributors and expenditures.

2. Create a state sovereignty commission similar to Mississippi's to fight public school integration. (Integration now exists in a few school districts with others scheduled to integrate at various future dates.)

3. Amend the compulsory attendance law so that parents will not be required to send their children to integrated schools, if the fight against integration is not successful.

4. Establish a fund to aid those schools financially in law suits arising under the pupil assignment act.

The far - reaching legislation makes it clear the authors intend to hedge against losing a legal battle over integration.

Faubus said the anti-NAACP bill would make it possible to outlaw the branch in Arkansas if it does not stay within its bounds as a non-profit organization

Rogers said the proposed legislation is aimed "at carrying out the mandate of the people" as expressed through the general election ballot.

It was his opinion that the measures were sufficient to permit a school to remain segregated if it wished.

The bulk of Arkansas' Negro population, outside of cities, is in the rich farmland of the eastern half of the state. The western hill country has no comparable portion of Negroes.

SECOND CALL FOR BIDS

MOBILE, Ala., Feb. 9 (AP) — Army engineers today issued a second call for bids on construction of a club building and patio for airmen at Greenville Air Force Base, Miss.

The building will have about 9,000 square feet of floor space, and the patio will be about 3,600 square feet. Bids will be opened March 5.

Bids opened Nov. 15 were rejected as unsatisfactory.

Compositions Of 14 Students To Be Heard

Works of fourteen student composers of Northeast State will form the program to be presented February 25 at 7:15 p.m. in Brown Auditorium on the campus.

The feature is being sponsored by Eta Chapter, Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia, national music fraternity, and is open to the public.

All selections to be included in the performance were written in theory classes, taught by James F. Monroe, assistant professor at Northeast.

Types of compositions appearing on the program will be figured bass realizations, woodwind trios, wind ensembles, vocal solos and duets, and instrumental solos. Each type is based upon a particular style period in music history.

Figured bass realizations represent the baroque era in music. Woodwind trios will be characteristic of the classical idiom of the 18th century. Vocal solos will reflect the influence of the Renaissance baroque and romantic eras, while instrumental solos will depict the romantic and 20th century idoms. Wind ensemble compositions will show idioms of the current century.

Represented in the vocal forms will be the hymn, chorale and motet, Monroe said. Instrumental forms will include the rondo, minuet, fantasie, toccata, and others, he added.

Student composers to be represented in the February performance include: Howard Jackson, Carolyn Pratt, DeJuana McCormick, Joe Naff, Stanley Burkett, Donald McGough, Bonita Tucker, Beverly Durden, Jack Kimball, Betty Spurlock, Jacqueline Jones, Fern Fogleman, Janet Cash and Marion Crain.

makes clear the great need for fixed price support levels on the basic farm crops." The South Carolinian said in a statement he would introduce legislation to fix supports "rather than to leave that important matter to the discretion of the secretary."

As in the past, the support program—if needed—will be carried out through government loans to farmers on stored supplies or government purchases.

The rates announced today compared with last year's and the average price farmers received for them in mid-January, included:

Cotton—28.15 cents a pound for the middling ⅞ inch base grade compared with 29.34 cents last year and the average producer price of 29.21 cents in mid-January.

Oats—60 cents a bushel compared with 65 cents last year and the grower average of 75 cents in mid-January.

Barley—94 cents a bushel compared with $1.02 and the mid-January average of $1.05.

Rye—$1.15 a bushel compared with $1.27 and the mid-January average of $1.22.

Sorghum grain—$1.83 a hundred pounds compared with $1.97 and the mid-January average of $2.12.

Soy beans—$2.09 a bushel compared with $2.15 and the mid-January average of $2.31.

Flaxseed—$2.92 compared with $3.01 and the mid-January average of $3.04.

Cottonseed—$46 a ton for cottonseed stored under loan compared with $48.60 last year, and $42 a ton for cottonseed bought from producers compared with $44 last year. Grower prices averaged $40.40 in mid-January.

Milk used for manufacturing purposes—$3.0[illegible] a hundred pounds, the same as last season. The mid-January producer average was 3.56.

Butterfat—58.6 cents a pound, the same as last year. The mid-January price average was 59.1 cents.

A support rate for cotton was designed to reflect 77 per cent of parity compared with 82.5 per cent last year. The rates for the small grains were designed to reflect 70 per cent of parity compared with 76 per cent last year.

The rate for soybeans was set at 70 per cent of parity compared with 75 per cent last year. The cottonseed and flaxseed rates were put at 65 per cent compared with 70 per cent last year.

Parity is a standard for measuring farm prices declared by law to be fair to farmers in relation to prices they must pay.

The support for milk was designed to reflect 83 per cent of parity compared with 84 per cent last year, and butterfat 80 per cent compared with 81 per cent last year. Because of increases in the parity prices since a year ago, the same dollar-and-cents rates represent a slightly lower percentage of parity now.

Ex-Dictator Of Hungary Horthy Dies At Age 88

ESTORIL, Portugal, Feb. 9 (UP)—Admiral Nicholas Horthy, dictator of Hungary for 24 years, died in his sleep at his $50 a month home in exile here Saturday. He was 88.

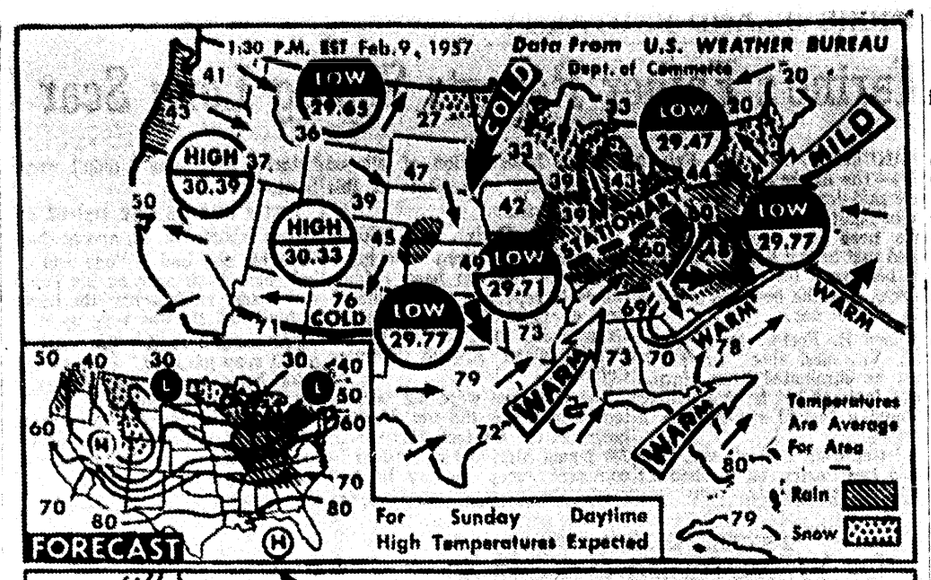
His wife, Magda, and his last son, Nicholas, were in vigil at his bedside when the onetime Hungarian strongman succumbed to a heart attack brought on by an asthmatic seizure 10 days ago.

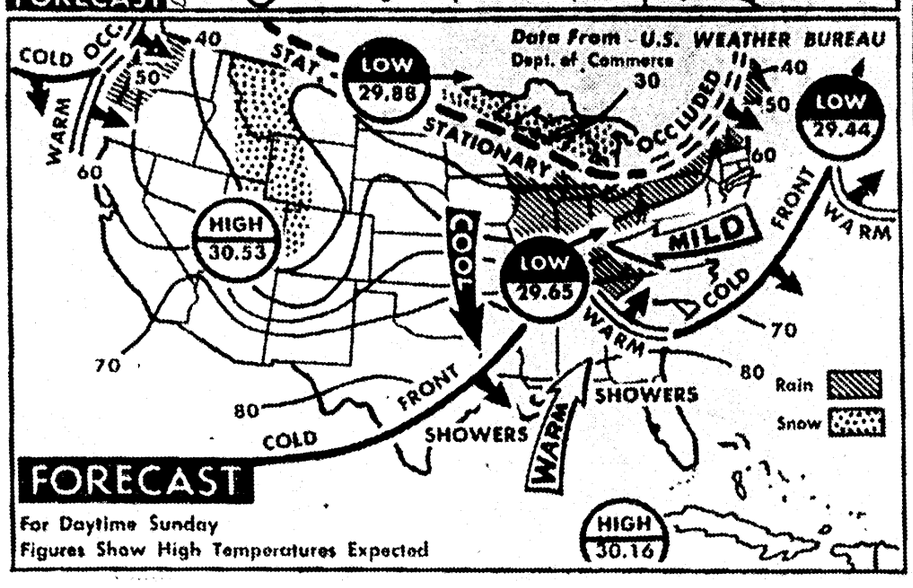
Horthy, a ramrod straight man of noble family, was the first ruler of modern Hungary and lived to see his homeland overrun by the Nazis he had first tried to do business with and then by the Communists who condemned him as a "Fascist."

He spent his last days in the comfortable but modest home on a backstreet of his resort town listening to reports of the Soviet intervention that crushed his people's dream of freedom last November.

He listened in silence to Soviet denunciations of rebels as "Horthy Fascists." Any word admiral himself would only have added weight to the Communist claims.

All measurements for cakes and cookies should be level. Even a small variation can cause failure.





WEATHER BUREAU FORECAST—Precipitation is expected from the northern portions of the northeast states westward across the Great Lakes region to the upper Mississippi valley and southward into the Ohio and Tennessee river valleys. Scattered snow flurries are due for the northern and central Rockies and rain should move into the north Pacific Coast. There is a possibility of showers in the Gulf states and parts of Florida. underground cells operated during the 1940s." It listed these as the Railroad Retirement and the Social Security Boards, the Rural Electrification Administration and the Department of Labor."

5. "The treasonable activities of American citizens in a Save Our Sons Committee established to disseminate Communist propaganda among American prisoners of war in Korea and their families in the United States."

6. "The efforts of the Communist party to expand its operations in Connecticut, North Carolina and the West Coast through colonization of basic industries in those areas, proselytization of youth and students, and organization of large numbers of non-Communists for political action of benefit only to the Communist party."

Among the organizations, the report named the American Committee for the Protection of Foreign Born which it said was "the oldest creation of the Communist party still active in the United States."

On the Fund for the Republic, the report said staff investigations have not been completed and general public hearings have been held on phases of the fund's activities.

The Fund for the Republic was set up in 1953 with a 15 million dollar endowment from the Ford Foundation, but operates independently of the foundation. The fund's president, Robert M. Hutchins, has defined its objectives as "to study and disclose the facts about all threats to civil liberties, including communism." Elmo Roper, the fund's board chairman, has said that "Soviet Russia is the basic threat to freedom in the world today."

Roper in New York, today sent Chairman Walter a telegram saying in part:

"The Fund's total program in the civil liberties field represents a record of great achievement. Our grantees include numerous church organizations — Catholic, Jewish and Protestant, bar associations, veterans groups, law schools, universities and social service organizations.

"The policies of the Fund are determined by the board of directors, of which I now have the honor of being chairman.

"The directors include Paul G. Hoffman, now serving by presidential appointment as a member of the U.S. Delegation to the United Nations; George N. Shuter, president of Hunter College; Harry S. Ashmore, executive editor of the Arkansas Gazette, Little Rock, Ark.;

"Bruce Catton, Pulitzer prize-winning historian; Charles W. Cole, president of Amherst College; Russell L. Dearmont, vice president of the Missouri Pacific Railroad; Erwin N. Griswold, dean of the Harvard Law School; playwright Oscar Hammerstein II;

"William H. Joyce Jr. former chairman of the board of Joyce, Inc., Meyer Kestnbaum, president of Hart, Schaffner and Marx; Roger D. Lapham, former mayor of San Francisco; M. Albert Linton, chairman of the board of the Provident Mutual Life Insurance Co.;

"J. Howard Marshall, vice president of the Signal Oil and Gas Co.; Jubal R. Parten, president of the Woodley Petroleum Co., Houston, Tex.; Alicia Patterson, editor and publisher of the newspaper) Newsday, Garden City, N.Y.; Eleanor B. Stevenson, wife of William E. Stevenson, president of Oberlin College, and Robert M. Hutchins, former chancellor of the University of Chicago and president of the fund.

"To suggest that these Americans would give 'great aid and comfort to the Communist apparatus' is completely fantastic. Everything we have done is open to public inspection. We feel confident that anyone who takes a look at the Fund's record will see how ridiculous your charges are.

"These are the same old warmed-up charges which you made last summer—and which led the New York Times to declare editorially that it was time you were called up short for your 'arrogant hit-and-run tactics.'"

'Freedom Week' Proclaimed By Howard, Norris

In recognition of the valiant struggle for freedom by citizens of many Communist-dominated countries, Mayor W. L. Howard of Monroe and Mayor J. Allen Norris of West Monroe have designated the period February 12 through February 22 as "Freedom Week" and issued the following proclamation:

"Whereas the rulers of Soviet Russia still hold in subjugation and oppression more than 70 million people in the satellite countries behind the Iron Curtain despite solemn treaty obligations and agreements guaranteeing them their freedom at the end of World War II, and

"Whereas the world has been shocked in recent months in particular by the brutality and repressions employed by the Soviet Communists to enforce their will upon the captive peoples and their continued denial of the basic rights of self-determination and freedom of communications, religion and labor, and

"Whereas our President and other leaders have repeatedly declared there can be no honest or lasting peace in the world so long as these captive peoples are denied their promised freedom, and

"Whereas for the last six years Radio Free Europe has supported the efforts of these peoples to regain their freedom by peaceful means by providing truth and news otherwise denied them by their Communist masters—truth and news needed now more than ever in the continuing struggle for freedom,

Now, therefore, we W. L. Howard, Mayor of the City of Monroe, and J. Allen Norris, Mayor of the City of West Monroe, by the power in us vested, do hereby proclaim the period between February 12 and 22, 1957 as Freedom Week, and we urge all citizens of this city to help combat Communist tyranny and further the causes of freedom and peace by contributing generously to the Crusade for Freedom in support of the continued operations of Radio Free Europe.

"We further suggest that schools churches, civic, fraternal and service organizations conduct appropriate programs during this period to reaffirm faith in the concepts and principles of the free world, and offer prayers, publicly and privately, for the eventual peaceful liberation of the captive peoples now under Soviet domination in the satellite countries behind the Iron Curtain.

SUPPORTS ROCKET PLAN

SYDNEY, Australia, Feb. 9 (UP)—Oliver Humphreys, top British guided missiles expert, Saturday threw his support behind any plan whereby the United States would work with Australia and Britain in using the Woomera Rocket Range. He also said he believed replacement of fighter aircraft by guided missiles in the near future was inevitable but "I think it will be some time before fighter aircraft disappear altogether."

'Freedom Week' Proclaimed By Howard, Norris

In recognition of the valiant struggle for freedom by citizens of many Communist-dominated countries, Mayor W. L. Howard of Monroe and Mayor J. Allen Norris of West Monroe have designated the period February 12 through February 22 as "Freedom Week" and issued the following proclamation:

"Whereas the rulers of Soviet Russia still hold in subjugation and oppression more than 70 million people in the satellite countries behind the Iron Curtain despite solemn treaty obligations and agreements guaranteeing them their freedom at the end of World War II, and

"Whereas the world has been shocked in recent months in particular by the brutality and repressions employed by the Soviet Communists to enforce their will upon the captive peoples and their continued denial of the basic rights of self-determination and freedom of communications, religion and labor, and

"Whereas our President and other leaders have repeatedly declared there can be no honest or lasting peace in the world so long as these captive peoples are denied their promised freedom, and

"Whereas for the last six years Radio Free Europe has supported the efforts of these peoples to regain their freedom by peaceful means by providing truth and news otherwise denied them by their Communist masters—truth and news needed now more than ever in the continuing struggle for freedom,

Now, therefore, we W. L. Howard, Mayor of the City of Monroe, and J. Allen Norris, Mayor of the City of West Monroe, by the power in us vested, do hereby proclaim the period between February 12 and 22, 1957 as Freedom Week, and we urge all citizens of this city to help combat Communist tyranny and further the causes of freedom and peace by contributing generously to the Crusade for Freedom in support of the continued operations of Radio Free Europe.

"We further suggest that schools churches, civic, fraternal and service organizations conduct appropriate programs during this period to reaffirm faith in the concepts and principles of the free world, and offer prayers, publicly and privately, for the eventual peaceful liberation of the captive peoples now under Soviet domination in the satellite countries behind the Iron Curtain.

Alexandria City Attorney Dies

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 9 (AP)—Ben Thompson, 57, of Alexandria, La., died last night. Officials believe he suffered a heart attack.

He was identified as city attorney at Alexandria.

His sister in Alexandria was notified. The body is to be returned to Louisiana. It is now at the Gayosso Funeral Home.

Thompson died in the Hotel Plaza Hermosa, where he has been staying while on a visit to Mexico. A friend, who accompanied him, said Thompson had not complained of any illness prior to the attack.

SUPPORTS ROCKET PLAN

SYDNEY, Australia, Feb. 9 (UP)— Oliver Humphreys, top British guided missiles expert, Saturday threw his support behind any plan whereby the United States would work with Australia and Britain in using the Woomera Rocket Range. He also said he believed replacement of fighter aircraft by guided missiles in the near future was inevitable but "I think it will be some time before fighter aircraft disappear altogether."

Boy Scouts Of America Reach 47th Anniversary

Incident to the 47th anniversary of the Boy Scouts of America, it is interesting to note that about one-sixth of the total population of the United States has been enrolled at one time or another in the Boy Scout movement since its organization.

Since 1910, more than 26,000,000 boys and leaders have been identified with the Boy Scouts of America. Each successive year since organization there has been an increase in membership. The all-time membership peak was reached on Dec. 31, 1956, when 4,526,302 boys and adults leaders were enrolled. There are now 1,213,461 adults leaders in the movement. This is more than one-fourth of the total number of boys enrolled—an amazingly significant fact.

Although the number of well-trained, professional, paid Scout workers is fairly large and their work is invaluable, it is the tremendous number of volunteer workers that provides the real life-blood of the organization.

Scout leaders know that practically all Boy Scouts, Cub Scouts and Explorer Scouts are bursting with energy and that this energy must be expended. The duty of the Scout leaders is to see that such energy is directed into worthy, strengthening and ennobling channels.

One scout leader, who gets great enjoyment out of his troop says:

"Being a Scoutmaster is like riding herd on so many Commanche Indians," but we find it to be a rewarding service when these boys learn comradeship, unselfishness and self-confidence and get started on the right road in life.

Benefits obtained by the Boy Scouts are limitless and there are some who will go so far as to say that membership in the Boy Scouts is enough to guarantee a life free from crime.

A phase of Scouting that has received less attention than the benefit derived directly by the boys is the effect of the work on the Scout leaders themselves. All leaders of Scouts make a study of the high ideals they wish to instill into the boys. They must become imbued with these ideals.

In this field alone, 1,213,461 men are unselfishly working for the good of boys and of mankind. The cumulative effect of this devotion to unselfishness, helpfulness and wholesome living cannot be estimated.

The Bible stresses the power of concerted effort when it says, "If two or three of you shall ask anything . . . you shall receive."

Nearly one and one-quarter million men are engaged in a mighty movement to teach boys how to be better men.

This is Boy Scouting.

St. Valentine Sentiment Comes A Little Higher

Sweet sentiment comes a little higher this year, per unit sale. The swain who figures that the gal is worth it can spend as much as five bucks on a card valentine.

Proprietors of the greeting card establishment say that, from year to year, demand for the highly insulting calentine is falling off. Woman, by far, is the best customer for the stinker type of valentine they say. She will come into the shop and for as long as an hour pore through the specimens until she finds the one best suited to what she fancies is the need.

The woman generally choses a brutal number dealing with the personal appearance of the ultimate recipient, usually another woman. It probably goes to one of her neighbors, a coworker at the office, or perhaps to that old gossip at the bridge club.

Men, too, buy the things. Here, the shopkeepers believe, it is not so much a case of downright meanness as of some misplaced, pants-kicking type of humor. What the boys call "gag stuff."

Most of the major greeting card companies now specialize in the higher-priced numbers when it comes to the sweet variety of valentines. It is not unusual, clerks say, for some young chap to buy as many as a half dozen cards embellished with "To My Sweetheart." The boys may be a bit uncertain, so are playing the field.

Campaign Expenditures

An investigating Senate subcommittee discovers that last year's general election campaign cost a minimum of $33.2 million, but that expenditures for the presidential and congressional races far surpassed this figure.

Apparently the probers found the sums expended openly, but would be compelled to dig hard to unearth the subsidiary amounts which may have been as substantial.

Individuals and labor organizations were the heavy givers. Of the open amounts spent, the Republicans were found to have had a two-to-one advantage by the two Democrats on the committee. The Republican member refused to sign the report, asserting it is incomplete and inaccurate.

There is no method to get at the campaign spending situation except through a thorough study that discloses how much is spent and where it comes from. Then Congress can determine, as this subcommittee contends, whether there is need of effective laws sharply limiting both individual and mass contributions for the purpose of influencing policy after recipients of the donations are in office.

It is obvious that individuals or organizations do not always spend vast sums in campaigns for the general good. They seek special privileges. How to prevent that is a situation worthy of study, followed by action to curb the evils of the undue influence of money in elections.

More than 810,000 Americans died of the heart and blood vessel diseases in 1955, American Heart Association figures show. Cardiovascular diseases thus caused more deaths in the United States than all other causes combined. The Heart Fund supports a national crusade against the heart and blood vessel diseases. Give to it generously. When you help your Heart Fund, you help your heart.

Too Long At The Waterhole

BASCOM TIMMONS REPORTS

Shaken Communist Rulers Must Be Complacent About Situation In U.S.

WASHINGTON, D. C. —Hard as the going may be at the Kremlin, where the Soviet program for taking over the world is undergoing revision, the shaken Communist rulers there must be smugly complacent about what goes on in the United States, and notably in Washington.

At a time when the top Reds have suffered reverses which seemed impossible in Stalin's day, and may face further setbacks in the growing unreliability of their satellite stooges they can look across the Atlantic and see this country in its usual dither about how and when to oppose the spread of Communist influence, despite the evidence that it seems to be contracting as a result of its own violence.

A patomine might be written, burlesquing U.S. foreign relations, entitled "How to Make Enemies and Insult People," based on the material now available. That however, would be intended to amuse ourselves and not to ridicule our form of government. Sneering at the United States has been the custom in Europe, and to some extent in Asia, for so long that few of those who indulged in the practice have survived to continue it.

What gives concern to many here is that President Eisenhower is a harassed man, beginning to look drawn and a bit weary as a result of the necessity of defending his cabinet officers and carry out his own policy, as he sees it. Though there is no present indication that his vigor is diminished, his health background does not encourage observers to believe that he can put up indefinitely with the growing influx of problems, including some unjustifiable, which concentrate upon his office.

Undoubtedly the Kremlin is encouraged by this situation in the capital of its only formidable rival. But its more experienced bureaucrats probably recall that U.S. foreign policy has been confused since World War II, and that while this nation has experienced much embarrassment, it has effectively resisted Red domination, at a cost of billions of dollars and many thousand lives.

In that sequence of history, the United States has made enemies of government heads, but has won the lasting regard of their peoples. There is evidence, for example, that while the British and French governments and their newspaper spokesmen have bitterly attacked this government, the people of those nations are in general our friends.

The insults directed at heads of some other governments by Mayor Robert Wagner of New York and by some members of Congress coming at a time when the targets of attack visiting or have been invited to visit the United States demonstrates how U. S. minorities can complicate the problem of getting along with the rest of the world.

The Communist leaders, having totalitarian control, can order the populace to make impressive demonstration for foreign visitors. In this country, it's different. The right of free speech permits any individual or group to shout in protest against foreign visitors, and politicians may seize the opportunity to further their support among those minorities. But the President of the United States has the right to invite such foreign chiefs of state as he sees fit to come here for conferences.

The President summed up his view of the embarrassments resulting from the visit of King Saud of Saudi Arabia and the refusal of the mayor of New York to accord him an official welcome when he said that you have got to meet face to face with people with whom you disagree at times, to determine whether or not there is a way of working out the differences and reaching a better understanding.

As one State Department official remarked, that illustrates the difference between a statesman and a politician.

CONGRESSIONAL QUARTERLY

National Guard Fighting Life And Death Struggle Against Pentagon

WASHINGTON, Feb.9 (CQ) — The National Guard is fighting what it considers a life and death battle against the Pentagon.

The Guard's leaders see the Army's ruling that all 17 to 18½-year-olds who enlist in the Guard starting April 1 must take six months active duty as a death-blow. They fear it will discourage enlistments in the Guard by more than 65 per cent and all but put the organization out of business.

Coordinating the offensive aginst the ruling is the National Guard Assn. of the U. S. with headquarters practically in the shadow of the Capitol Dome. Maj. Gen. Ellard A. Walsh (ret.), a 69-year-old bass - voiced infantry veteran of World War I, is president of the group.

He terms the six month ruling "a determined move by the Department of Defense and Department of Army to relegate the National Guard to a second - string position in national defense, if not to destroy it. I cannot see the logic in forcing on the National Guard a program that has not achieved the desired results for the other reserve components unless there is an ulterior motive."

The Army maintains the Guard's program of giving 17 to 18½-year-olds weekly drills in their home communities and two weeks active duty in the summer until they reach the age of 28 is inadequate. So starting April 1, all those who join Army units of the Guard must take six months active duty training followed by 4½ years of weekly drills in ready reserve units near their homes. Air Froce units of the Guard are not affected.

The Guard vs. Pentagon battle is being fought before a House Armed Services subcommittee chaired by Rep. Overton Brooks (D La.), an Army World War I veteran. The subcommittee is reviewing the 1955 Reserve Forces Act, but the Guard controversy keeps erupting.

"SCANDAL"

Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson has put himself squarely behind the Army six months ruling and even went so far as to say that the Guard "was sort of a scandal during the Korean war, a draft dodging business. A boy of 17 to 18½ could enlist in the National Guard and not be drafted to fight in Korea." President Eisenhower backed up the six months ruling but not Wilson's charges.

Can the association stand up against the administration's united front?

On the surface, it looks as though the Association is outgunned. It has a total membership of only 44,089 National Guard officers. But the bulk of its strength does not show up on the membership rolls — it is back home at the grass roots.

There are 424,557 enlisted men in the Guard, 367,454 in Army and 57,103 in Air units, spread over all 48 states. Association officials estimate that there is Guard activity in practically every Congressional district. It is a maxim of lobbying that the best place to influence your Congressman is back home.

The Association already has taken steps to mobilize this grass roots strength. For example, its February edition of the National Guardsman contained an article on the most effective way to write a Congressman.

In Washington itself, Association officers have been coordinating the campaign against the six month ruling through press conferences, testimony before committees and calls at the White House. The association's liaison man, Brig. Gen. Mark H. Galusha, formerly was a staff assistant on the Senate Armed Services committee.

Inside the Capitol the Association has many friends and six members: Sens. Theodore Francis Green (D R. I.), Barry Goldwater (R Ariz.) and Edward Martin (R Pa.), a past president of the association; and Reps. William C. Bray (R Ind.), Vincent J. Dellay (R N. J.) and Paul C. Jones (D Mo.).

At the state level, the association can muster mighty political strength since a governor is commander - in - chief of his Guart units until the federal government activates them. The state adjutant general, appointed by the governor in most states, administers the Guard for the state.

Everybody Skittish When Immigration Is Discussed

Everybody gets so skittish when you open the subject of immigration. Why?

I mean it. Few areas of discussion are so sensitive as this one. Only one Congressional voice has been raised in opposition to the President's newest recommendations for "liberalized" immigration legislation, and that one only to advise "caution." Why?

If everybody is cowed by this vote-getting power, who is left to speak for the minorities?

Anyway, let's you and I talk about it today whatever eyebrows are raised and see if we can figure out why all is so still on the Hill.

The President asks extension of the Refugee Relief Act under which thousands of fugitives from communism have entered the United States. He wants their residence here made permanent. And he wants us to continue to offer asylum to such persons.

He is asking permission to raise refugee quotas to whatever level he, the President, considers necessary "to meet emergency situations."

The President insists that changes in our immigration laws are necessary "in the light of our world responsibilities."

Specifically, the new legislation would sharply increase the number of "quota immigrants" (not emergency situations) from Italy and Greece and other parts of southern and eastern Europe.

First, let us accept these truths to be self-evident:

Our immigration law has not been altered for 30 years. It was modified only slightly by the McCarran-Walter Act.

Also, there is no purified strain of the "American breed," and any smug claim to the contrary is rather pitifully ridiculous.

We are mongrel people — a hybrid — our vigorous physical strength lies in the fact that all Americans are mostly something else.

Immigration, under the quota system, has promoted and perpetuated this virility.

What the President is requesting, however, is quite something else. A blank check to invite whomever he pleases and in whatever numbers he considers appropriate.

Whatever the advantages of a benevolent dictatorship, you never know how "benevolent" the successor might be. Such authority, by-passing even the Congress, is not to be entrusted to the hands of any one individual, unless we are to be a republic in name only.

President Eisenhower, since his thumping victory in that last popularity contest, has been inclined to overconfidence in himself and underconsideration for traditional checks and balances.

The present parolees, he wants made permanent residents.

Congressman Walter is "thoroughly convinced that some Communists have been admitted to the United States under the Hungarian Relief Program." He says he means "puppets and stooges of Moscow" who simply can't be screened properly by "one interview at Camp Kilmer."

We admitted 50,000 legal immigrants to the United States last year. The largest number since 1925. The number of "illegal" ones Washington doesn't even want to talk about.

Whether these economic digits cost jobs or create them, history must determine.

But of greater immediate importance in today's intense cold war climate is whether fugitives are always desirables.

John Edgar Hoover has said: "In our much-vaunted tolerance for all peoples, the Communist has found our Achilles' heel."

James Frances Colvin has said: "Beside those 'Warmly Welcome' mats,
Bright scatter-rugs of Uncle Sam,
Where pilgrims cross and hang their hats,
Who lately grabbed their hats and ran,
Let's post a sign; to read at once
Both cordial, yet discreet:
Immigrants from Iron Curtain fronts, enter.
But first wipe your feet."

ILLEGITIMATE BIRTH

Forest, La.

Editor, Morning World:

Dear Sirs:

Re the meeting on Tuesday with reference to illegitimate births.

I beg to submit the following conclusions I have reached in the hope that some of them can be of benefit to our law makers.

First, all women who have the second illegitimate child should be barred from voting and the father should also be barred. Up here the Negro women had rather have illegitimate children because it actually increases her and her man's income without increasing their income tax, much of which money is spent in barrel houses, juke joints and for gambling and whiskey.

The vote of a poor, irresponsible citizen counts just as much at the polls as that of the best informed and most intelligent of our people.

The early Greeks set us a worthy example. A man had to be not only 30 years of age but married. Any people to be able to vote right must have an interest in the future. Low class citizens, both white and black, have an interest only in the immediate present.

The early Greeks had an organization for locating the father of any illegitimate child and forcing him to take care of the child. If necessary here they could be sent to the pen under pay, but the pay going to the mother for care of the child and if she failed to do it, jail her and take the children away.

To start, it would undoubtedly cost the state more, but in the long run it would increase marriages and reduce illegitimacy and ultimately cost the state less and produce better citizens.

Secretary Humphrey Gains More Tax, Budget Worries

BY SYLVIA PORTER

As if Secretary Humphrey didn't have enough headaches, now comes LIFO to add to his tax and budget miseries.

For these four letters — which stand for "Last In — First Out" and which describe a method of accounting I'll try to explain in your language and mine — well may:

Cut the Treasury's tax take from businesses by countless millions of dollars in coming years

Compel the Treasury to refund many millions of dollars in taxes to some of the biggest corporations in the nation;

Make the balance in the Federal budget even more precarious than it already is, and it's plenty precarious right now.

"LIFO" went off the financial pages and onto the front pages with a bang this week — and with reason.

For a Federal Court in the Southern District of New York handed down a decision ruling that the giant department store, R. H. Macy & Co., was entitled to use the accounting method in a test year, and therefore was entitled to tax refunds amounting over the years involved to a thumping $9 million.

The details of the case are definitely complex, but in essence the government had claimed that Macy's couldn't use the method Macy's fought the claim and in this instance it was fighting for retailers the nation over. Macy's has won an important round.

Before this story is finished, you'll read and hear much more about LIFO. On the basis that you'd like a simple explanation, here goes.

As far back as 1938, "Last In-First Out" as an accounting method was written into our tax laws, but only during the postwar years of great price rises has it become a favored method among businessmen.

When you see how it works, you'll understand why.

Let's say you're head a business which sells widgets. In January 1956, you bought a carload of widgets at $3 each, put them on your shelves at a price markup which gave you a comfortable profit.

In June, you bought another carload of widgets at $3.50 each, for prices of widgets had gone up. Again you sold them at a profit. In November, you restocked with a third carload at $4 each and went through the same process.

Now it's tax - settling time and you're using the LIFO method.

For tax payment purposes, you figure that the cost of the widgets to you was the cost of your last carload — $4 a widget.

Even though you actually paid less for the widgets you bought in January and June, you figure the cost of each widget as the "last in".

That means that, on paper, you show a smaller profit than you in fact made and thus you pay a smaller tax.

In a period of rising prices, LIFO saves taxes for businessmen — and the savings for big corporations can run into millions.

Which is the reason why more and more corporations are adopting the method and more are using it today than ever before.

Which is the reason the Treasury never has been happy about it and it has figuratively dragged its feet on the law whenever it could.

At this point, you well might ask, "If it's this good, why don't all businessmen take advantage of it and use LIFO?"

The answer is: Because prices can go down too. And if and when prices do go down, a corporation using LIFO would, theoretically at least, have to pay more taxes. If your last carload of widgets cost you $3 and the others cost you more, you'd have to pay your taxes on the basis of that last carload. (And you couldn't stop using LIFO without the Treasury's permission.)

But with all the emphasis today on the long - term outlook for rising prices, the odds are more and more companies will adopt the method. And the Treasury will be increasingly unhappy about it.

Oh, yes, in case you have another question: The answer is, no, it's not for you. This is a method only businesses can use. Your costs can go up and up and up, but as an individual, you'll get no LIFO benefits.

Boy Scouts Of America Reach 47th Anniversary

Incident to the 47th anniversary of the Boy Scouts of America, it is interesting to note that about one-sixth of the total population of the United States has been enrolled at one time or another in the Boy Scout movement since its organization.

Since 1910, more than 26,000,000 boys and leaders have been identified with the Boy Scouts of America. Each successive year since organization there has been an increase in membership. The all-time membership peak was reached on Dec. 31, 1956, when 4,526,302 boys and adults leaders were enrolled. There are now 1,213,461 adults leaders in the movement. This is more than one-fourth of the total number of boys enrolled—an amazingly significant fact.

Although the number of well-trained, professional, paid Scout workers is fairly large and their work is invaluable, it is the tremendous number of volunteer workers that provides the real life-blood of the organization.

Scout leaders know that practically all Boy Scouts, Cub Scouts and Explorer Scouts are bursting with energy and that this energy must be expended. The duty of the Scout leaders is to see that such energy is directed into worthy, strengthening and ennobling channels.

One scout leader, who gets great enjoyment out of his troop says:

"Being a Scoutmaster is like riding herd on so many Commanche Indians," but we find it to be a rewarding service when these boys learn comradeship, unselfishness and self-confidence and get started on the right road in life.

Benefits obtained by the Boy Scouts are limitless and there are some who will go so far as to say that membership in the Boy Scouts is enough to guarantee a life free from crime.

A phase of Scouting that has received less attention than the benefit derived directly by the boys is the effect of the work on the Scout leaders themselves. All leaders of Scouts make a study of the high ideals they wish to instill into the boys. They must become imbued with these ideals.

In this field alone, 1,213,461 men are unselfishly working for the good of boys and of mankind. The cumulative effect of this devotion to unselfishness, helpfulness and wholesome living cannot be estimated.

The Bible stresses the power of concerted effort when it says, "If two or three of you shall ask anything . . . you shall receive."

Nearly one and one-quarter million men are engaged in a mighty movement to teach boys how to be better men.

This is Boy Scouting.

St. Valentine Sentiment Comes A Little Higher

Sweet sentiment comes a little higher this year, per unit sale. The swain who figures that the gal is worth it can spend as much as five bucks on a card valentine.

Proprietors of the greeting card establishment say that, from year to year, demand for the highly insulting calentine is falling off. Woman, by far, is the best customer for the stinker type of valentine they say. She will come into the shop and for as long as an hour pore through the specimens until she finds the one best suited to what she fancies is the need.

The woman generally choses a brutal number dealing with the personal appearance of the ultimate recipient, usually another woman. It probably goes to one of her neighbors, a coworker at the office, or perhaps to that old gossip at the bridge club.

Men, too, buy the things. Here, the shopkeepers believe, it is not so much a case of downright meanness as of some misplaced, pants-kicking type of humor. What the boys call "gag stuff."

Most of the major greeting card companies now specialize in the higher-priced numbers when it comes to the sweet variety of valentines. It is not unusual, clerks say, for some young chap to buy as many as a half dozen cards embellished with "To My Sweetheart." The boys may be a bit uncertain, so are playing the field.

Campaign Expenditures

An investigating Senate subcommittee discovers that last year's general election campaign cost a minimum of $33.2 million, but that expenditures for the presidential and congressional races far surpassed this figure.

Apparently the probers found the sums expended openly, but would be compelled to dig hard to unearth the subsidiary amounts which may have been as substantial.

Individuals and labor organizations were the heavy givers. Of the open amounts spent, the Republicans were found to have had a two-to-one advantage by the two Democrats on the committee. The Republican member refused to sign the report, asserting it is incomplete and inaccurate.

There is no method to get at the campaign spending situation except through a thorough study that discloses how much is spent and where it comes from. Then Congress can determine, as this subcommittee contends, whether there is need of effective laws sharply limiting both individual and mass contributions for the purpose of influencing policy after recipients of the donations are in office.

It is obvious that individuals or organizations do not always spend vast sums in campaigns for the general good. They seek special privileges. How to prevent that is a situation worthy of study, followed by action to curb the evils of the undue influence of money in elections.

More than 810,000 Americans died of the heart and blood vessel diseases in 1955, American Heart Association figures show. Cardiovascular diseases thus caused more deaths in the United States than all other causes combined. The Heart Fund supports a national crusade against the heart and blood vessel diseases. Give to it generously. When you help your Heart Fund, you help your heart.

BASCOM TIMMONS REPORTS

Shaken Communist Rulers Must Be Complacent About Situation In U.S.

WASHINGTON, D. C. —Hard as the going may be at the Kremlin, where the Soviet program for taking over the world is undergoing revision, the shaken Communist rulers there must be smugly complacent about what goes on in the United States, and notably in Washington.

At a time when the top Reds have suffered reverses which seemed impossible in Stalin's day, and may face further setbacks in the growing unreliability of their satellite stooges they can look across the Atlantic and see this country in its usual dither about how and when to oppose the spread of Communist influence, despite the evidence that it seems to be contracting as a result of its own violence.

A patomine might be written, burlesquing U.S. foreign relations, entitled "How to Make Enemies and Insult People," based on the material now available. That however, would be intended to amuse ourselves and not to ridicule our form of government. Sneering at the United States has been the custom in Europe, and to some extent in Asia, for so long that few of those who indulged in the practice have survived to continue it.

What gives concern to many here is that President Eisenhower is a harassed man, beginning to look drawn and a bit weary as a result of the necessity of defending his cabinet officers and carry out his own policy, as he sees it. Though there is no present indication that his vigor is diminished, his health background does not encourage observers to believe that he can put up indefinitely with the growing influx of problems, including some unjustifiable, which concentrate upon his office.

Undoubtedly the Kremlin is encouraged by this situation in the capital of its only formidable rival. But its more experienced bureaucrats probably recall that U.S. foreign policy has been confused since World War II, and that while this nation has experienced much embarrassment, it has effectively resisted Red domination, at a cost of billions of dollars and many thousand lives.

In that sequence of history, the United States has made enemies of government heads, but has won the lasting regard of their peoples. There is evidence, for example, that while the British and French governments and their newspaper spokesmen have bitterly attacked this government, the people of those nations are in general our friends.

The insults directed at heads of some other governments by Mayor Robert Wagner of New York and by some members of Congress coming at a time when the targets of attack visiting or have been invited to visit the United States demonstrates how U. S. minorities can complicate the problem of getting along with the rest of the world.

The Communist leaders, having totalitarian control, can order the populace to make impressive demonstration for foreign visitors. In this country, it's different. The right of free speech permits any individual or group to shout in protest against foreign visitors, and politicians may seize the opportunity to further their support among those minorities. But the President of the United States has the right to invite such foreign chiefs of state as he sees fit to come here for conferences.

The President summed up his view of the embarrassments resulting from the visit of King Saud of Saudi Arabia and the refusal of the mayor of New York to accord him an official welcome when he said that you have got to meet face to face with people with whom you disagree at times, to determine whether or not there is a way of working out the differences and reaching a better understanding.

As one State Department official remarked, that illustrates the difference between a statesman and a politician.

National Guard Fighting Life And Death Struggle Against Pentagon

WASHINGTON, Feb.9 (CQ) — The National Guard is fighting what it considers a life and death battle against the Pentagon.

The Guard's leaders see the Army's ruling that all 17 to 18½-year-olds who enlist in the Guard starting April 1 must take six months active duty as a deathblow. They fear it will discourage enlistments in the Guard by more than 65 per cent and all but put the organization out of business.

Coordinating the offensive aginst the ruling is the National Guard Assn. of the U. S. with headquarters practically in the shadow of the Capitol Dome. Maj. Gen. Ellard A. Walsh (ret.), a 69-year-old bass - voiced infantry veteran of World War I, is president of the group.

He terms the six month ruling "a determined move by the Department of Defense and Department of Army to relegate the National Guard to a second - string position in national defense, if not to destroy it. I cannot see the logic in forcing on the National Guard a program that has not achieved the desired results for the other reserve components unless there is an ulterior motive."

The Army maintains the Guard's program of giving 17 to 18½-year-olds weekly drills in their home communities and two weeks active duty in the summer until they reach the age of 28 is inadequate. So starting April 1, all those who join Army units of the Guard must take six months active duty training followed by 4½ years of weekly drills in ready reserve units near their homes. Air Froce units of the Guard are not affected.

The Guard vs. Pentagon battle is being fought before a House Armed Services subcommittee chaired by Rep. Overton Brooks (D La.), an Army World War I veteran. The subcommittee is reviewing the 1955 Reserve Forces Act, but the Guard controversy keeps erupting.

"SCANDAL"

Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson has put himself squarely behind the Army six months ruling and even went so far as to say that the Guard "was sort of a scandal during the Korean war, a draft dodging business. A boy of 17 to 18½ could enlist in the National Guard and not be drafted to fight in Korea." President Eisenhower backed up the six months ruling but not Wilson's charges.

Can the association stand up against the administration's united front?

On the surface, it looks as though the Association is outgunned. It has a total membership of only 44,989 National Guard officers. But the bulk of its strength does not show up on the membership rolls — it is back home at the grass roots.

There are 424,557 enlisted men in the Guard, 367,454 in Army and 57,103 in Air units, spread over all 48 states. Association officials estimate that there is Guard activity in practically every Congressional district. It is a maxim of lobbying that the best place to influence your Congressman is back home.

The Association already has taken steps to mobilize this grass roots strength. For example, its February edition of the National Guardsman contained an article on the most effective way to write a Congressman.

In Washington itself, Association officers have been coordinating the campaign against the six month ruling through press conferences, testimony before committees and calls at the White House. The association's liaison man, Brig. Gen. Mark H. Galusha, formerly was a staff assistant on the Senate Armed Services committee.

Inside the Capitol the Association has many friends and six members: Sens. Theodore Francis Green (D R. I.), Barry Goldwater (R Ariz.) and Edward Martin (R Pa.), a past president of the association; and Reps. William C. Bray (R Ind.), Vincent J. Dellay (R N. J.) and Paul C. Jones (D Mo.).

At the state level, the association can muster mighty political strength since a governor is commander - in - chief of his Guart units until the federal government activates them. The state adjutant general, appointed by the governor in most states, administers the Guard for the state.

Compel the Treasury to refund many millions of dollars in taxes to some of the biggest corporations in the nation;

Make the balance in the Federal budget even more precarious than it already is, and it's plenty precarious right now.

"LIFO" went off the financial pages and onto the front pages with a bang this week — and with reason.

For a Federal Court in the Southern District of New York handed down a decision ruling that the giant department store, R. H. Macy & Co., was entitled to use the accounting method in a test year, and therefore was entitled to tax refunds amounting over the years involved to a thumping $9 million.

The details of the case are defiantly complex, but in essence the government had claimed that Macy's couldn't use the method Macy's fought the claim and in this instance it was fighting for retailers the nation over. Macy's has won an important round.

Before this story is finished, you'll read and hear much more about LIFO. On the basis that you'd like a simple explanation, here goes.

As far back as 1938, "Last In-First Out" as an accounting method was written into our tax laws, but only during the postwar years of great price rises has it become a favored method among businessmen.

When you see how it works, you'll understand why.

Let's say you're head a business which sells widgets. In January 1956, you bought a carload of widgets at $3 each, put them on your shelves at a price markup which gave you a comfortable profit.

In June, you bought another carload of widgets at $3.50 each, for prices of widgets had gone up. Again you sold them at a profit. In November, you restocked with a third carload at $4 each and went through the same process.

Now it's tax - settling time and you're using the LIFO method.

For tax payment purposes, you figure that the cost of the widgets to you was the cost of your last carload — $4 a widget.

Even though you actually paid less for the widgets you bought in January and June, you figure the cost of each widget as the "last in".

That means that, on paper, you show a smaller profit than you in fact made and thus you pay a smaller tax.

In a period of rising prices, LIFO saves taxes for businessmen — and the savings for big corporations can run into millions.

Which is the reason why more and more corporations are adopting the method and more are using it today than ever before.

Which is the reason the Treasury never has been happy about it and it has figuratively dragged its feet on the law whenever it could.

At this point, you well might ask, "If it's this good, why don't all businessmen take advantage of it and use LIFO?"

The answer is: Because prices can go down too. And if and when prices do go down, a corporation using LIFO would, theoretically at least, have to pay more taxes. If your last carload of widgets cost you $3 and the others cost you more, you'd have to pay your taxes on the basis of that last carload. (And you couldn't stop using LIFO without the Treasury's permission.)

But with all the emphasis today on the long - term outlook for rising prices, the odds are more and more companies will adopt the method. And the Treasury will be increasingly unhappy about it.

Oh, yes, in case you have another question: The answer is, no, it's not for you. This is a method only businesses can use. Your costs can go up and up and up, but as an individual, you'll get no LIFO benefits.

Week Brings Many New Problems For Business

NEW YORK, Feb. 9 (AP)—Talk of inflation, deflation and possible wage and price controls posed new questions for U.S. businessmen this week.

Former President Herbert Hoover, with first-hand knowledge of the 1919 boom - bust debacle, warned that it could happen again.

Pleading for more economy in government, Hoover repeated Treasury Secretary Humphrey's warning that big federal budgets, if long continued, will produce "a depression that will curl your hair."

"Mine has already been curled," said Hoover, "and I think I can detect the signs."

Questions about the boom's future were raised, too, by President Eisenhower.

The President said that if business and labor can't tame the inflation tiger on their own, the federal government will have to move in with controls of some kind. He did not say what kind. But many businessmen jumped to the conclusion that he meant controls on wages and prices.

Loud cries of protest from retailers brought this assurance from Commerce Secretary Sinclair Weeks: "There is no disposition in this administration" to crack down with wage and price controls.

Even so, the mere mention of inflation controls was enough to give many retailers a case of jitters.

Rowland Jones Jr., president of the American Retail Federation, said Eisenhower's warning is likely to have just the opposite effect from that which the President intended. Many merchants will cancel price cuts they had planned for special promotional events, he said, because they're afraid of controls that might freeze prices permanently at the abnormally low promotion levels. Said Jones:

"This kind of warning from the President makes every retailer look around to see whether the cyclone cellar is ready for occupancy."

William J. Cheney, commented: "The more crying the blues the President indulges in, the more the danger we'll be in." Gordon Dakins, executive vice president of the National Retail Dry Goods Assn. said retail merchants are "very much concerned."

Backgrounding the talk about inflation this week was a generally mixed business picture characterized by signs of weakness in some lines, and of sturdy strength in others.

Principal soft spots included: a decline in freight carloadings, lagging sales of appliances and TV sets, a continued slump in home building, and a shaky stock market.

Also, the latest reports on unemployment showed job totals slipping behind year - ago levels for the first time since early 1955.

On the plus side, the steel industry was still roaring along at near capacity and auto production was picking up. Spending on new construction in January touched a new high for that month despite the home building lag. New January records were set for construction of factories, office buildings, roads, schools, hospitals and churches.

Consumer spending in department stores continued to top the year - ago rate. An "extremely optimistic" forecast came from the head of General Electric Co.'s turbine department. GE, he said, has scheduled production of turbines and generators for 1957-58 at double the 1955 rate—a sure sign that the boom in industrial expansion is here to stay.

Cotton Futures Hold To Narrow Range For Week

NEW YORK, Feb. 9 (AP) —Cotton futures prices held to a relatively narrow range this week and closed with small net changes.

The over-all tone of the market was strong, and in marked contrast to the weakness that prevailed in securities dealings. Active futures contracts on the New York Cotton Exchange finished at prices ranging from $2.15 a bale higher to 20 cents a bale lower than at the close of the week before.

While the nearer months showed the most strength, all deliveries except December, 1957, scored new life-of-contract highs when at their best levels of the week.

Firmness in the nearer months was attributed to increasingly active profit-taking, and to short covering prompted by signs of a tightening supply of "free" stock. The distant months were bolstered by buying which reflected the possibility of a relatively short crop this year as a result of soil bank participation and drouth in the Southwest.

Later in the week, gains were pared by profit-taking. Some selling was attributed to weakness in the stock market.

The Commodity Credit Corporation reported it sold 47,264 bales of government-owned cotton to dealers for export against bids opened Feb. 5. This makes a total of 6,363,958 bales sold by the CCC under its cotton export program.

The average price on the Feb. 5 sale for middling one-inch cotton at average locations was 27.02 cents a pound, against an average price of 27.21 cents at the previous sale.

Exports of U. S. lint cotton for the week ended Tuesday were estimated by the New York Cotton Exchange at 216,000 bales. This compares with 275,000 bales the previous week, and only 24,000 in the like week a year ago.

Shipments abroad for the current season through Tuesday were estimated at 3,703,000 bales vs. only 767,000 bales at approximately the same time last year.

Paper Core Uses Told To Rotary Club In Crossett

CROSSETT, Ark., Feb. 9 (Special) — At their regular weekly luncheon meeting Thursday, the Crossett Rotary Club heard of the recent uses for spiral - wound paper cores in construction work.

Bob Smith, manager of Textile Paper Products Company's plants in Crossett, Ark., and Bogalusa, La., spoke on the newest uses for paper cores.

In the construction field, where cores are used up to 48 inches in diameter and 40 feet in length, he explained, they are used for concrete slab work, concrete forms, and for forming air conditioning and heating duct work in concrete slabs.

Smith said that one of the more interesting recent jobs for the spiral - wound paper tubes is in their use as voids in construction of the bridge being built across Mobile Bay. He said that some 125,000 lineal feet of paper tubes will be imbedded in the concrete roadbed of the bridge. The resulting honeycomb effect will lighten the weight of the roadbed and reduce the amount of concrete needed. This in turn will reduce the overall weight and cost of the structure. With reduction of roadbed weight the structural strength needed for support of the bridge will be proportionately reduced.

Ray Guy, February chairman of programs for the Rotary Club, announced that next Thursday the state commissioner of revenues from Little Rock will be the speaker.

MODERN DASH

VICTORIA, B. C., Feb. 9 (AP) — A modern dash is being added to the traditional rum issue to Royal Canadian Navy ratings. Now a man may have a soft drink instead of five ounces of water added to the 2½ ounces of high-powered rum in his daily grog. Rum for ratings always must be diluted to prevent hoarding up to bing proportions.

Holding Firm's Stockholders To Meet Here Mon.

Stockholders of Ouachita Securities Corporation, a holding company chartered in Monroe last year will attend an annual shareholders meeting Monday night at 7:30 at the amphi-theater building at Northeast State College, according to Nick Mantrozos, president.

Ouachita Securities was formed in May of last year to back the organization of an old line legal reserve life insurance company with a home office in Monroe. On January 23 of this year Ouachita Security Life Insurance Company was chartered as an old line legal reserve company.

The company first organized as industrial insurance company last year and wrote $400,000 in insurance as an industrial company, Mantrozos said. Since securing an old line legal reserve charter the company has pushed the total amount written in insurance to over $1 million, the company president said.

A great majority of the company's stock was subscribed to by persons in the Twin Cities and northeast Louisiana. Insurance sales operations are being organized throughout Louisiana, Mantrozos said.

Q. L. Cloninger, vice - president of the company, said two speakers connected with other life insurance companies will address Ouachita Security stockholders Monday night.

The speakers will be Dean Thomas, assistant secretary of Lincoln National Life Insurance Co. who will discuss "how a life insurance company will grow" and Earl Shelton, vice - president of Fidelity Standard Life Insurance Company of Baton Rouge. Shelton has selected for his topic, "how stockholders can help a life insurance company grow."

NO COMMENT

By JAMES W. DOUTHAT

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9 (Special) —There is a noticeable resurgence of conservative sentiment in Washington — but whether it will thrive or wither and die remains to be seen. Much depends upon "back home" reaction.

Submission of the record peacetime budget of $71.8 billion — opposition to early tax reduction — the resistance of bureaucracy to cutting down big government—all contributed to the rise in conservative sentiment.

Secretary of the Treasury George M. Humphrey remains the leader in the movement to halt the drive of New-Fair Dealers and "welfare state" advocates to keep spending and taxes at present confiscatory levels.

Developments include:

1. A drive is under way in Congress against a return to the "blank check method of appropriating — so prevalent in early New Deal and war days. Some restrictions on legislation granting the President authority to spend $200 million as a part of his Middle East Program likely will be imposed by Congress as a result.

2. The House Appropriations Committee cut $46,977,500 from budget requests of $382,067,500 in the first deficiency appropriation bills. While this is not a real test of economy, it indicated a desire to cut appropriations.

3. Demands for reduction in taxes have increased. Republican House Leader Joseph Martin, Jr. —who usually has an acute political pulse — is predicting a tax cut in the near future.

4. A hearty tribute was paid by President Eisenhower to former President Herbert Hoover for the latter's work to improve government through two "Hoover Commissions." And Mr. Eisenhower promised to seek much-needed reforms in government advocated by Mr. Hoover.

Demands for Tax Reduction — Recent demands for tax reduction have occasioned surprise in Washington — coming so soon after the White House and Treasury officials said a tax cut is impossible this year.

The House Ways and Means Committee is now considering extension of the 52 per cent corporation tax and a billion dollars in excise taxes — with chances of passage by April 1.

But there is some insistence upon cutting the tax load — perhaps next year.

Rep. Martin — as a recognized Republican leader — said:

"That we cannot have a tax cut this year is disappointing, but we will have one soon, and it will be a substantial one. It will come because we will carefully screen our spending and eliminate waste and extravagance."

Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey repeated his warning to the Joint Economic Committee against continued high taxation. He said:

"The most important change that could be made to promote steady economic growth is to reduce the rates for all taxpayers. The present rates are so high that they will in the long run hamper our economic growth."

Mr. Eisenhower's attitude — Some advocates of economy, who have been deeply disappointed over the huge Eisenhower budget, were encouraged by unexpected remarks he made in awarding former President Hoover a citation for distinguished civilian service.

Mr. Eisenhower said he knew something of the frustrations incident to installing new procedures in a huge bureaucracy — and he praised Mr. Hoovers continued enthusiasm for improvement in government.

Amending Taft - Hartley Act — The House Labor Committee has named Rep. Carl D. Perkins (D. Ky.), an avowed foe of the Taft-Hartley Act, as chairman of its labor - management subcommittee — with full authority to hold hearings and report to the full committee.

One of the first acts of Mr. Perkins — after being named chairman — was to introduce a bill to repeal the Taft - Hartley Act. The new chairman represents a Kentucky district where the United Mine Workers seek to exercise political influence.

Stocks Stagger Backward; Near '56 Low

NEW YORK, Feb. 9 The stock market staggered backward this week to within a hair's breadth of its 1956 low.

The market ended the week at its lowest closing point in 1957. Its general trend this year has been an irregular decline. The Associated Press average dropped $3.90 to $172.20.

It was the second successive weekly decline and the sharpest this year.

At noon yesterday the market reached its nadir. The AP average was at $172. This compared with $171.60, reached Jan. 23, 1956, last year's low. A recovery came yesterday but it was slight and on low turnover—scarcly enough of a comeback to raise any wild cheers on Wall Street.

The week saw many blue chips reach new 1956-57 lows. Among these was General Motors. The financial fraternity was started yesterday when GM broke below 40 to its new low, before it rebounded to 40⅛.

The market took its sharpest setback Tuesday. It had been declining slightly for the previous three sessions. Tuesday brought a quotation from former President Hoover, who stated that the current inflation shows signs of a depression "agony" like that which beset his own administration. The words from Hoover were pretty much of a paraphrase of what Treasury Sec. Humphrey said in mid-January that the danger of continued high spending by government could bring "a depression that will curl your hair."

The four most active issues were U.S. Hoffman Machinery off ⅝ at 12¾, General Motors up ⅛ at 40⅛, and Bethlehem Steel off 2 at 42⅞. General Dynamics off 1 at 58.

Corporate and U. S. government bonds continued to advance this week.

Liquidation In Grains Goes On

CHICAGO, Feb. 9 (AP)—The liquidating movement continued in grains on the Board of Trade this week.

With the exception of September and December wheat, representing the 1957 crop, all grains futures closed lower for the third straight week.

Many new seasonal lows were made throughout the list. But the losses for the full week were not as large as in the previous week. A better tone developed toward the finish.

Wheat closed 2¾ lower to ¼ higher, corn ¾-2⅝ lower, oats 1½-2⅝ lower, rye 3 to 4¼ lower, soybeans 4⅜-6½ lower and lard 47 to 87 cents a hundred pounds lower.

Emergency Program To Supply Oil For Europe Draws Protests

By MAX B. SKELTON

HOUSTON, Tex., Feb. 9 (AP)—The emergency program to supply oil to Western Europe drew fire from many sources this week.

Independent oil operators also called for an investigation of why imports of Venezuelan crude oil into the United States have increased sharply since the Suez Canal was closed Oct. 31.

President Eisenhower implied he might take action if state proration allowables fail to supply sufficient oil to relieve European shortages.

Governor Price Daniel of Texas replied the President first should take action to reduce excessive imports.

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles and Defense Mobilizer Arthur S. Flemming said shipments to Europe are lagging. Both placed part of the blame on Texas' failure to boost its crude production allowables. Dulles added, however, that no presidential appeal is needed at present.

Members of the Texas Railroad Commission replied that the nation's largest oil producing state will make oil available for Europe if the crude can be produced on an across-the-board basis and without waste.

Lt. Gen. Ernest O. Thompson, senior member of the commission, said available oil for shipment to Europe could be increased 325,000 barrels a day if United States refineries would reduce operations four per cent across-the-board.

Such action would help reduce gasoline storage that last week exceeded 196 million barrels, just short of an all-time record and over 14 million barrels above levels a year earlier.

Several major refiners already have reduced February crude runs at least four per cent below January. Included are Humble, Sinclair, Esso Standard, Skelly, and Socony Mobil.

While testifying before a Senate subcommittee, Flemming said crude and products shipments to Western Europe between Nov. 1 and Jan. 23 averaged 475,000 barrels a day. He said this was only 25,000 below the government's goal but that crude shipments were far too low while averaging 248,000 barrels a day.

The Independent Petroleum Assn. of America (IPAA) meanwhile asked Interior Secretary Fred Seaton to investigate the failure of the government's Middle East emergency committee to divert Caribbean oil from the United States East Coast to Western Europe.

Robert L. Wood, IPAA president from Midland, Tex., said the tanker run to Europe from the Caribbean area is substantially shorter than from the United States Gulf Coast.

Wood's letter to Seaton said Venezuelan crude oil imports at East Coast and Gulf Coast refineries in December averaged 496,700 barrels a day compared to 446,200 in October. December imports from the Middle East averaged only 87,100 barrels daily compared to 254,200 in October.

Daniel said excessive imports and domestic gasoline stocks combine with high refinery runs and inadequate pipe line connections for independent producers as reasons why the Texas crude allowable is not higher.

The Texas commission meets Feb. 19 to set the March allowable.

The American Petroleum Institute estimates that imports of crude and oil products the four weeks ending Jan. 25 averaged 1,347,700 barrels daily, only about 50,000 barrels below the October average.

Loud cries of protest from retailers brought this assurance from Commerce Secretary Sinclair Weeks: "There is no disposition in this administration" to crack down with wage and price controls.

Even so, the mere mention of inflation controls was enough to give many retailers a case of jitters.

Rowland Jones Jr., president of the American Retail Federation, said Eisenhower's warning is likely to have just the opposite effect from that which the President intended. Many merchants will cancel price cuts they had planned for special promotional events, he said, because they're afraid of controls that might freeze prices permanently at the abnormally low promotion levels. Said Jones:

"This kind of warning from the President makes every retailer look around to see whether the cyclone cellar is ready for occupancy."

William J. Cheney, commented: "The more crying the blues the President indulges in, the more the danger we'll be in." Gordon Dakins, executive vice president of the National Retail Dry Goods Assn. said retail merchants are "very much concerned."

Backgrounding the talk about inflation this week was a generally mixed business picture characterized by signs of weakness in some lines, and of sturdy strength in others.

Principal soft spots included: a decline in freight carloadings, lagging sales of appliances and TV sets, a continued slump in home building, and a shaky stock market.

Also, the latest reports on unemployment showed job totals slipping behind year - ago levels for the first time since early 1955.

On the plus side, the steel industry was still roaring along at near capacity and auto production was picking up. Spending on new construction in January touched a new high for that month despite the home building lag. New January records were set for construction of factories, office buildings, roads, schools, hospitals and churches.

Consumer spending in department stores continued to top the year - ago rate. An "extremely optimistic" forecast came from the head of General Electric Co.'s turbine department. GE, he said, has scheduled production of turbines and generators for 1957-58 at double the 1955 rate—a sure sign that the boom in industrial expansion is here to stay.

Cotton Futures Hold To Narrow Range For Week

NEW YORK, Feb. 9 (AP) —Cotton futures prices held to a relatively narrow range this week and closed with small net changes.

The over-all tone of the market was strong, and in marked contrast to the weakness that prevailed in securities dealings. Active futures contracts on the New York Cotton Exchange finished at prices ranging from $2.15 a bale higher to 20 cents a bale lower than at the close of the week before.

While the nearer months showed the most strength, all deliveries except December, 1957, scored new life-of-contract highs when at their best levels of the week.

Firmness in the nearer months was attributed to increasingly active profit-taking, and to short covering prompted by signs of a tightening supply of "free" stock. The distant months were bolstered by buying which reflected the possibility of a relatively short crop this year as a result of soil bank participation and drouth in the Southwest.

Later in the week, gains were pared by profit-taking. Some selling was attributed to weakness in the stock market.

The Commodity Credit Corporation reported it sold 47,264 bales of government-owned cotton to dealers for export against bids opened Feb. 5. This makes a total of 6,363,958 bales sold by the CCC under its cotton export program.

The average price on the Feb. 5 sale for middling one-inch cotton at average locations was 27.02 cents a pound, against an average price of 27.21 cents at the previous sale.

Exports of U. S. lint cotton for the week ended Tuesday were estimated by the New York Cotton Exchange at 216,000 bales. This compares with 275,000 bales the previous week, and only 24,000 in the like week a year ago.

Shipments abroad for the current season through Tuesday were estimated at 3,703,000 bales vs. only 767,000 bales at approximately the same time last year.

Paper Core Uses Told To Rotary Club In Crossett

CROSSETT, Ark., Feb. 9 (Special) — At their regular weekly luncheon meeting Thursday, the Crossett Rotary Club heard of the recent uses for spiral - wound paper cores in construction work.

Bob Smith, manager of Textile Paper Products Company's plants in Crossett, Ark., and Bogalusa, La., spoke on the newest uses for paper cores.

In the construction field, where cores are used up to 48 inches in diameter and 40 feet in length, he explained, they are used for concrete slab work, concrete forms, and for forming air conditioning and heating duct work in concrete slabs.

Smith said that one of the more interesting recent jobs for the spiral - wound paper tubes is in their use as voids in construction of the bridge being built across Mobile Bay. He said that some 125,000 lineal feet of paper tubes will be imbedded in the concrete roadbed of the bridge. The resulting honeycomb effect will lighten the weight of the roadbed and reduce the amount of concrete needed. This in turn will reduce the overall weight and cost of the structure. With reduction of roadbed weight the structural strength needed for support of the bridge will be proportionately reduced.

Ray Guy, February chairman of programs for the Rotary Club, announced that next Thursday the state commissioner of revenues from Little Rock will be the speaker.

MODERN DASH

VICTORIA, B. C., Feb. 9 (AP) — A modern dash is being added to the traditional rum issue to Royal Canadian Navy ratings. Now a man may have a sof' drink instead of five ounces of water added to the 2½ ounces of high-powered rum in his daily grog. Rum for ratings always must be diluted to prevent hoarding up to bing proportions.

Holding Firm's Stockholders To Meet Here Mon.

Stockholders of Ouachita Securities Corporation, a holding company chartered in Monroe last year will attend an annual shareholders meeting Monday night at 7:30 at the amphi-theater building at Northeast State College, according to Nick Mantrozos, president.

Ouachita Securities was formed in May of last year to back the organization of an old line legal reserve life insurance company with a home office in Monroe. On January 23 of this year Ouachita Security Life Insurance Company was chartered as an old line legal reserve company.

The company first organized as industrial insurance company last year and wrote $400,000 in insurance as an industrial company, Mantrozos said. Since securing an old line legal reserve charter the company has pushed the total amount written in insurance to over $1 million, the company president said.

A great majority of the company's stock was subscribed to by persons in the Twin Cities and northeast Louisiana. Insurance sales operations are being organized throughout Louisiana, Mantrozos said.

Q. L. Cloninger, vice - president of the company, said two speakers connected with other life insurance companies will address Ouachita Security stockholders Monday night.

The speakers will be Dean Thomas, assistant secretary of Lincoln National Life Insurance Co. who will discuss "how a life insurance company will grow" and Earl Shelton, vice - president of Fidelity Standard Life Insurance Company of Baton Rouge. Shelton has selected for his topic, "how stockholders can help a life insurance company grow."

NO COMMENT

By JAMES W. DOUTHAT

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9 (Special) —There is a noticeable resurgence of conservative sentiment in Washington — but whether it will thrive or wither and die remains to be seen. Much depends upon "back home" reaction.

Submission of the record peacetime budget of $71.8 billion — opposition to early tax reduction — the resistance of bureaucracy to cutting down big government—all contributed to the rise in conservative sentiment.

Secretary of the Treasury George M. Humphrey remains the leader in the movement to halt the drive of New-Fair Dealers and "welfare state" advocates to keep spending and taxes at present confiscatory levels.

Developments include:

1. A drive is under way in Congress against a return to the "blank check method of appropriating — so prevalent in early New Deal and war days. Some restrictions on legislation granting the President authority to spend $200 million as a part of his Middle East Program likely will be imposed by Congress as a result.

2. The House Appropriations Committee cut $46,977,500 from budget requests of $382,067,500 in the first deficiency appropriation bills. While this is not a real test of economy, it indicated a desire to cut appropriations.

3. Demands for reduction in taxes have increased. Republican House Leader Joseph Martin, Jr. —who usually has an acute political pulse — is predicting a tax cut in the near future.

4. A hearty tribute was paid by President Eisenhower to former President Herbert Hoover for the latter's work to improve government through two "Hoover Commissions." And Mr. Eisenhower promised to seek much-needed reforms in government advocated by Mr. Hoover.

Demands for Tax Reduction — Recent demands for tax reduction have occasioned surprise in Washington — coming so soon after the White House and Treasury officials said a tax cut is impossible this year.

The House Ways and Means Committee is now considering extension of the 52 per cent corporation tax and a billion dollars in excise taxes — with chances of passage by April 1.

But there is some insistence upon cutting the tax load — perhaps next year.

Rep. Martin — as a recognized Republican leader — said:

"That we cannot have a tax cut this year is disappointing, but we will have one soon, and it will be a substantial one. It will come because we will carefully screen our spending and eliminate waste and extravagance."

Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey repeated his warning to the Joint Economic Committee against continued high taxation. He said:

"The most important change that could be made to promote steady economic growth is to reduce the rates for all taxpayers. The present rates are so high that they will in the long run hamper our economic growth."

Mr. Eisenhower's attitude — Some advocates of economy, who have been deeply disappointed over the huge Eisenhower budget, were encouraged by unexpected remarks he made in awarding former President Hoover a citation for distinguished civilian service.

Mr. Eisenhower said he knew something of the frustrations incident to installing new procedures in a huge bureaucracy — and he praised Mr. Hoovers continued enthusiasm for improvement in government.

Amending Taft - Hartley Act — The House Labor Committee has named Rep. Carl D. Perkins (D. Ky.), an avowed foe of the Taft-Hartley Act, as chairman of its labor - management subcommittee — with full authority to hold hearings and report to the full committee.

One of the first acts of Mr. Perkins — after being named chairman — was to introduce a bill to repeal the Taft - Hartley Act. The new chairman represents a Kentucky district where the United Mine Workers seek to exercise political influence.

Stocks Stagger Backward; Near '56 Low

NEW YORK, Feb. 9 The stock market staggered backward this week to within a hair's breadth of its 1956 low.

The market ended the week at its lowest closing point in 1957. Its general trend this year has been an irregular decline. The Associated Press average dropped $3.90 to $172.20.

It was the second successive weekly decline and the sharpest this year.

At noon yesterday the market reached its nadir. The AP average was at $172. This compared with $171.60, reached Jan. 23, 1956, last year's low. A recovery came yesterady but it was slight and on low turnover—scarcly enough of a comeback to raise any wild cheers on Wall Street.

The week saw many blue chips reach new 1956-57 lows. Among these was General Motors. The financial fraternity was started yesterday when GM broke below 40 to its new low, before it rebounded to 40⅛.

The market took its sharpest setback Tuesday. It had been declining slightly for the previous three sessions. Tuesday brought a quotation from former President Hoover, who stated that the current inflation shows signs of a depression "agony" like that which beset his own administration. The words from Hoover were pretty much of a paraphrase of what Treasury Sec. Humphrey said in mid-January that the danger of continued high spending by government could bring "a depression that will curl your hair."

The four most active issues were U.S. Hoffman Machinery off ⅝ at 12¾, General Motors up ⅛ at 40⅛, and Bethlehem Steel off 2 at 42⅞. General Dynamics off 1 at 58.

Corporate and U. S. government bonds continued to advance this week.

Liquidation In Grains Goes On

CHICAGO, Feb. 9 (AP)—The liquidating movement continued in grains on the Board of Trade this week.

With the exception of September and December wheat, representing the 1957 crop, all grains futures closed lower for the third straight week.

Many new seasonal lows were made throughout the list. But the losses for the full week were not as large as in the previous week. A better tone developed toward the finish.

Wheat closed 2¾ lower to ¼ higher, corn ¾-2⅜ lower, oats 1½-2⅜ lower, rye 3 to 4¼ lower, soybeans 4⅜-6½ lower and lard 47 to 87 cents a hundred pounds lower.

Emergency Program To Supply Oil For Europe Draws Protests

By MAX B. SKELTON

HOUSTON, Tex., Feb. 9 (AP)—The emergency program to supply oil to Western Europe drew fire from many sources this week.

Independent oil operators also called for an investigation of why imports of Venezuelan crude oil into the United States have increased sharply since the Suez Canal was closed Oct. 31.

President Eisenhower implied he might take action if state proration allowables fail to supply sufficient oil to relieve European shortages.

Governor Price Daniel of Texas replied the President first should take action to reduce excessive imports.

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles and Defense Mobilizer Arthur S. Flemming said shipments to Europe are lagging. Both placed part of the blame on Texas' failure to boost its crude production allowables. Dulles added, however, that no presidential appeal is needed at present.

Members of the Texas Railroad Commission replied that the nation's largest oil producing state will make oil available for Europe if the crude can be produced on an across-the-board basis and without waste.

Lt. Gen. Ernest O. Thompson, senior member of the commission, said available oil for shipment to Europe could be increased 325,000 barrels a day if United States refineries would reduce operations four per cent across-the-board.

Such action would help reduce gasoline storage that last week exceeded 196 million barrels, just short of an all-time record and over 14 million barrels above levels a year earlier.

Several major refiners already have reduced February crude runs at least four per cent below January. Included are Humble, Sinclair, Esso Standard, Skelly, and Socony Mobil.

While testifying before a Senate subcommittee, Flemming said crude and products shipments to Western Europe between Nov. 1 and Jan. 23 averaged 475,000 barrels a day. He said this was only 25,000 below the government's goal but that crude shipments were far too low while averaging 248,000 barrels a day.

The Independent Petroleum Assn. of America (IPAA) meanwhile asked Interior Secretary Fred Seaton to investigate the failure of the government's Middle East emergency committee to divert Caribbean oil from the United States East Coast to Western Europe.

Robert L. Wood, IPAA president from Midland, Tex., said the tanker run to Europe from the Caribbean area is substantially shorter than from the United States Gulf Coast.

Wood's letter to Seaton said Venezuelan crude oil imports at East Coast and Gulf Coast refineries in December averaged 496,700 barrels a day compared to 446,200 in October. December imports from the Middle East averaged only 87,100 barrels daily compared to 254,200 in October.

Daniel said excessive imports and domestic gasoline stocks combine with high refinery runs and inadequate pipe line connections for independent producers as reasons why the Texas crude allowable is not higher.

The Texas commission meets Feb. 19 to set the March allowable.

New Technology Makes Oil Easier To Find, And Production Persist Longer

By MAX B. SKELTON

WICHITA FALLS, Feb. 9 (AP)—A former aeronautical engineer has developed a gadget he believes will make oil well completions easier and prolong the lives of many wells.

David Edwards already has three of his new slot perforating units in operation in North Texas and southern Oklahoma. He plans to have three more by Dec. 31.

Edwards is confident his new perforating gun simplifies well completions, reduces overhauls and aids in getting production from troublesome or non-commercial wells. He believes the gun also can be adapted for other purposes inside and outside the oil industry.

The new gun punctures well pipe with slots three inches wide and one inch deep. Each slot is 23 times the size of convention bullet or jet perforations one-half inch in diameter.

Perforating guns are lowered into wells and discharged at depths opposite oil sands. The charges perforate the pipe to permit oil to enter the casing to flow or to be pumped to the surface.

On the average, only two slot perforations are used for each commercial production from a new well and require cleaning or overhauls after becoming clogged with mud, oil, sand and other reservoir materials.

Under the slot method, he said, the holes are difficult to clog and there is less cleaning out of perforations. Slots reduce greatly mud and water blocks which frequently do not allow a well to produce.

"Some people think our slot method will replace the conventional methods but I tell them they are wrong," Edwards said. "The jet was patterned after the wartime bazooka and now is in wide use but it didn't replace the old bullet perforator. I believe each type has its place."

Edwards has been working on his slot perforator four years. He obtained a broker's license and handled his own financing while continuing experiments on carefully selected wells that offered comparisons with other methods.

"We were contacted by a North Texas operator who had found an oil sand at 380 feet but was getting no production with conventional perforations," he said of one experiment. "The operator had another well that had been producing on the same lease at 800 feet. We plugged the second well to just below the 380-foot sand and shot that zone with the slot perforator. The operator was getting production the next day and within three days was getting 10 barrels a day."

Edwards said a number of companies have been experimenting with slot perforators but have been discouraged by inability to obtain uniform openings and failure to obtain the desired penetration of the casing, cement and oil formation.

His slot perforator, he said, produces a uniform, clean opening and gives positive penetration with ar average depth the same as conventional methods.

Edwards is president of Advanced Oil Tools Inc. Working with him on the new perforator is Dr. Ralph Hatch, professor of chemistry at Arlington State College.

The young executive said he became interested in developing the slot perforator while "trying to get into the field of oil industry work where I felt there was no limit as to what we could do."

The first truck unit went into service last April, the second in May, the third in December. The trucks are outfitted in Houston, Arlington and Wichita Falls.

Financing was completed last June. Edwards had definite ideas on how he wanted the matter handled.

"All of our stock is held by Texans and at least 95 per cent is held by people in the oil industry," he said. "The other 5 per cent is held by close friends or relatives of those who are in the oil business."

Edwards said he rejected a single offer to be backed by a five million dollar investment.

"I turned it down because that would have made us just another perforating outfit," he said. "The way I sold the stock the company is owned by oilmen who know what our slot perforator will do. They'll use our equipment on their own wells and tell their friends what our equipment can do."

Slashing Of Red Tape In Postal Operation Cited

Much of the red tape involved in conducting postal business in this community has been eliminated by forms control program during the past four years, Monroe Postmaster Woodrow Hathorn said yesterday:

In addition to chopping off many different forms which once plagued the public and postal personnel alike, the control program has simplified use of many old forms and restricted the use of others, Hathorn reported.

The local simplification program is part of a nation-wide revision which will result in the use of 174 standard forms instead of over 8,000 local variations.

One of the largest paper work reductions in postal history occurred when the new money-order form was accepted, he said. Two other examples of the simplification program are the old-type four-page claims form for damaged or lost packages which has been reduced to only one page, and new applications for second-class mailing privileges, also greatly shortened.

"In addition to providing new convenience for our postal patrons," the postmaster added, "the forms control program has cut down substantially on processing steps for paper work required in the postal establishment, and has thus provided many internal improvements in efficiency."

LONGER SCHOOL DAY

WINNIPEG, Feb. 9 (AP) — School Supt. W. C. Lorimer told his board the time is coming when it must seriously consider prolonging the school day or week because homework is being neglected for TV and other distractions.

THIS BROUGHT HER A BAN FOR LIFE — Mrs. Jo Ann Mashburn appeared from out of nowhere to hop onto a Tampa, Fla., parade float. Mothers of six school girls—the girls wore dainty evening gowns—protested strongly the appearance of Mrs. Mashburn who also rode uninvited in the 1952 parade. So parade officials decreed they would toss her out of any future parade. (AP Wirephoto.)

NAMED DIRECTOR

NEW YORK, Feb. 9 (AP)—Ruth Rowland Nichols, a famous early aviatrix, has been named director of field services and counseling for the National Assn. for Retarded Children. In the early 1930s, Miss Nichols held WOM's flying records for speed, distance flight and altitude.

High Fidelity

By PRESTON MCGRAW
United Press Staff Correspondent

Fisher Radio Corporation, one of the pioneers in High Fidelity, is producing a new basic FM tuner as a successor to its well-known FM-80 series. The new tuner is the Fisher FM-90.

A trial under conditions that probably hit around normal for the urban hi-fi listener show that it is a pretty hot job, able to reject noise and interference and deliver a pure, wide-range signal.

Manufacturer's Claims

The manufacturer claims for it full limiting on signals as low as one microvolt. He also claims a frequency response, uniform within one decibel, from 20 to 20,000 cycles per second.

There is no reason to suspect these claims. One of the FM-90s was tried in an area served by four FM stations. Three of these stations devote their nighttime broadcasting to high fidelity transmissions. The fourth simply rebroadcasts whatever programs its AM station is carrying.

Powerful Reception

With a folded dipole antenna—the one that came with the tuner—tossed behind a sofa, the FM-90 received, with full limiting, these four stations, a 10-watt college outlet and a station 45 miles away with less than a kilowatt of power.

Attaching a TV antenna, by using a coupler, to the tuner increased its range slightly, but also seemed to result in a slight loss in quality. A check showed a feedback from a TV set which was in operation.

Outside Antenna

It may be that blindly tying a TV antenna to an FM tuner, even one with all the devices built into this one to reject noise and spurious signals, is a mistake. Optimum FM reception calls for an outside FM antenna.

But with an inside folded dipole, this tuner will deliver a signal to a pre-amplifier that will sound as good as what comes out of the best cartridges. That is predicated, of course, upon the signal that comes from the transmitter being of equal quality.

Squelch Control

The FM-90 also has variable automatic frequency control and muting controls to quiet the hissing between FM channels. The muting (squelch) control also is variable.

On the left side of the front panel is a meter showing signal strength. On the right side is a meter showing center-of-channel. There are 10 tubes and four crystal diodes in the tuner.

The user has a choice of a 72-ohm or a 300-ohm antenna inputs and this is apparently the least handy part of the design. The inputs are through a four-pronged plug.

Input Impedance Change

The input impedance is changed by varying a jumper arrangement on the prongs of the plug. If there is much movement of the tuner or lead, the wires break off at the top of the plug.

The FM-90 comes in chassis and front panel form for installation in a cabinet with other components, or with a cabinet of its own at additional cost.

New Steel Plant Planned In Texas

HOUSTON, Feb. 9 (AP) —A new steel plant for the Gulf Coast area seemed more in prospect today after Jones & Laughlin Steel Co. filed options on 3,490 acres of land in the Cedar Bayou area of west Chambers County.

Some 100 landowners shared in the total of $114,381.17, which is 3 per cent of the purchase price.

New Technology Makes Oil Easier To Find, And Production Persist Longer

By MAX B. SKELTON

WICHITA FALLS, Feb. 9 (AP)—A former aeronautical engineer has developed a gadget he believes will make oil well completions easier and prolong the lives of many wells.

David Edwards already has three of his new slot perforating units in operation in North Texas and southern Oklahoma. He plans to have three more by Dec. 31.

Edwards is confident his new perforating gun simplifies well completions, reduces overhauls and aids in getting production from troublesome or non-commercial wells. He believes the gun also can be adapted for other purposes inside and outside the oil industry.

The new gun punctures well pipe with slots three inches wide and one inch deep. Each slot is 28 times the size of convention bullet or jet perforations one-half inch in diameter.

Perforating guns are lowered into wells and discharged at depths opposite oil sands. The charges perforate the pipe to permit oil to enter the casing to flow or to be pumped to the surface.

On the average, only two slot perforations are used for each commercial production from a new well and require cleaning or overhauls after becoming clogged with mud, oil, sand and other reservoir materials.

Under the slot method, he said, the holes are difficult to clog and there is less cleaning out of perforations. Slots reduce greatly mud and water blocks which frequently do not allow a well to produce.

"Some people think our slot method will replace the conventional methods but I tell them they are wrong," Edwards said. "The jet was patterned after the wartime bazooka and now is in wide use but it didn't replace the old bullet perforator. I believe each type has its place."

Edwards has been working on his slot perforator four years. He obtained a broker's license and handled his own financing while continuing experiments on carefully selected wells that offered comparisons with other methods.

"We were contacted by a North Texas operator who had found an oil sand at 380 feet but was getting no production with conventional perforations," he said of one experiment. "The operator had another well that had been producing on the same lease at 800 feet. We plugged the second well to just below the 380-foot sand and shot that zone with the slot perforator. The operator was getting production the next day and within three days was getting 10 barrels a day."

Edwards said a number of companies have been experimenting with slot perforators but have been discouraged by inability to obtain uniform openings and failure to obtain the desired penetration of the casing, cement and oil formation.

His slot perforator, he said, produces a uniform, clean opening and gives positive penetration with ar average depth the same as conventional methods.

Edwards is president of Advanced Oil Tools Inc. Working with him on the new perforator is Dr. Ralph Hatch, professor of chemistry at Arlington State College.

The young executive said he became interested in developing the slot perforator while "trying to get into the field of oil industry work where I felt there was no limit as to what we could do."

The first truck unit went into service last April, the second in May, the third in December. The trucks are outfitted in Houston, Arlington and Wichita Falls.

Financing was completed last June. Edwards had definite ideas on how he wanted the matter handled.

"All of our stock is held by Texans and at least 95 per cent is held by people in the oil industry," he said. "The other 5 per cent is held by close friends or relatives of those who are in the oil business."

Edwards said he rejected a single offer to be backed by a five million dollar investment.

"I turned it down because that would have made us just another perforating outfit," he said. "The way I sold the stock the company is owned by oilmen who know what our slot perforator will do. They'll use our equipment on their own wells and tell their friends what our equipment can do."

Slashing Of Red Tape In Postal Operation Cited

Much of the red tape involved in conducting postal business in this community has been eliminated by forms control program during the past four years, Monroe Postmaster Woodrow Hathorn said yesterday:

In addition to chopping off many different forms which once plagued the public and postal personnel alike, the control program has simplified use of many old forms and restricted the use of others, Hathorn reported.

The local simplification program is part of a nation-wide revision which will result in the use of 174 standard forms instead of over 8,000 local variations.

One of the largest paper work reductions in postal history occurred when the new money-order form was accepted, he said. Two other examples of the simplification program are the old-type four-page claims form for damaged or lost packages which has been reduced to only one page, and new applications for second-class mailing privileges, also greatly shortened.

"In addition to providing new convenience for our postal patrons," the postmaster added, "the forms control program has cut down substantially on processing steps for paper work required in the postal establishment, and has thus provided many internal improvements in efficiency."

LONGER SCHOOL DAY

WINNIPEG, Feb. 9 (AP) — School Supt. W. C. Lorimer told his board the time is coming when it must seriously consider prolonging the school day or week because homework is being neglected for TV and other distractions.

THIS BROUGHT HER A BAN FOR LIFE — Mrs. Jo Ann Mashburn appeared from out of nowhere to hop onto a Tampa, Fla., parade float. Mothers of six school girls—the girls wore dainty evening gowns—protested strongly the appearance of Mrs. Mashburn who also rode uninvited in the 1952 parade. So parade officials decreed they would toss her out of any future parade. (AP Wirephoto.)

FOR BOY SCOUTS

Religious Services Mark Anniversary

As thousands of Scouts file into their respective churches over the nation this morning, the Boy Scouts of America celebrate their 47th anniversary with National Boy Scout Week.

The Ouachita Valley Council, which covers 14 Northeast Louisiana parishes, will add something extra today with its commeration of the worthy event—a telecast of an Eagle Court of Honor.

Scheduled for today at 1 p.m. the Eagle Court of Honor will bring to the public's eye throughout the area 15 outstanding young Americans who during the past year achieved Scouting's highest goal—the Eagle Scout award.

The half-hour program will feature six Eagles from Farmerville, five from Monroe and two each from Bastrop and Jonesboro.

Supervised by District Executive H. L. McCoggins, the program will also introduce past presidents of the Council Ben Parnell of Monroe and the recently elected president for 1957—Dr. Marvin T Green of Ruston.

Also to appear on the program are council commissioner J. C. Crawford of Monroe and chairman of the advancement committee J. W. Webster, also of Monroe.

Father Dennis Curren of Monroe and Scout Executive Jack E. Pankey will participate also.

But the highlight will be the presentation of the 15 Scouts who reached the Eagle rank in the Ouachita Valley Council during 1956.

They include Eugene Preaus, Johnny Tettleton, Tommy Joe Malone, Paul Palmer, Johnny Norris and Dale Ramsey, all of Troop 16, Farmerville; Gary Riels and David Duncan, both of Troop 2, Bastrop; Ronald H. Lane, Troop 22, and Donald Allen Williams, Troop 189, both of Jonesboro; Mike Boykin, Troop 31, Ronnie Rushing and Richard Trimble, Troop 32, John Vance, Troop 34, and Karey Warren Prewitt, Troop 131, all of Monroe.

WHY GROW OLD

How To Put It On Not Take Off

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Every once in a while I have to harass my underweight readers. Actually, underweight may be very frustrating for a woman, especially in this day when a premium seems to be placed on curves. The lady with too few pounds may have a flat bust or extremely thin legs. Many write to me wanting to know how to increase the hips. So, today I would like to give you a few rules for gaining weight and a couple of exercises for building curves.

1. Eat a well-balanced diet but do not "stuff" at meals. Instead eat five smaller ones.

2. Drink a quart of milk daily and add a little cream to one or two glasses.

3. Get at least eight hours sleep as a habit.

4. Take a vitamin capsule or two which gives you all the vitamins. (Vitamin B complex seems to be an aid in pound gathering.)

5. Take a few short rest periods during the day—lie down and relax completely.

6. Take mild exercises. Swimming is a wonderful way to build lovely curves and put on pounds. Deep breathing exercises and walking are good for you.

7. Avoid hurrying and worrying.

8. Whenever you can, eat in a happy and relaxing atmosphere.

9. When feasible lie down for a short rest before your largest meal.

EXERCISES

For bust development — stand or sit in front of a mirror. Bend your elbows and raise your arms forward, a little above shoulder height. Grasp the left forearm with the right hand and the right forearm with the left hand. Push the elbows toward one another as you resist with the hands. Relax and continue. If you see and feel your chest muscles move you are doing the exercise correctly.

For calf development — stand erect. Rise high on the toes. Slowly lower the heels to the floor. This is one of the simplest and most effective exercises. Start out slowly and increase gradually until you are doing this exercise 50 times in the morning and 50 times before going to sleep at night. You can take little rest periods in between every 10 times.

If you would like to have my exercises for increasing the bust measurement send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 7. Address Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Tomorrow: "Five Point Program for Prolonging Youthfulness."

Past And Present

By MARIE T. KENT

Members of the Ouachita Genealogical and Historical Society are proud to announce that two members of the local group were elected to serve as executive officers of the Louisiana Genealogical and Historical Society at the meeting held in Baton Rouge, January 12th. They are Fred Culver of Monroe as vice - president, and Mrs. H. T. Van Fossen of Lake Providence, as secretary. Mr. Culver also holds the office of treasurer of the local society.

Other officers of the state society for 1957 are as follows: Mrs. St. John Chilton, Baton Rouge, president; Mrs. Norma Core, Covington, treasurer; trustees, Mrs. M. R. Matta, Baton Rouge, Mrs. Amos Neff, Covington, Mrs. S. J. Nation, Shreveport, Lester White, Shreveport, Miss Sydney Kilpatrick, Alexandria, and Mrs. Edgar Hull, New Orleans; Mrs. Amos Neff, curator.

Editor of the Genealogical Register will be Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Sanders, of New Orleans.

The state society, which was organized three years ago, shows a membership record as follows: 1954, 148 members; 1955, 259 members; 1956, 300 members. There must be many more who desire to help collect and preserve the records of our unwritten history. We welcome you to join us.

A clipping of this column, the subject "An Archival Program For Louisiana," was read to the group attending the state meeting. The Ouachita Genealogical and Historical Society was praised for the great amount of progress being made toward the organization of a society and the establishment of a museum for this area. It is the only group that has been accepted as a chapter of the state society thus far.

Mrs. Doris Tynes of Monroe, was appointed to serve as chairman of a committee in charge of rewriting the by-laws of the state society. Mrs. Tynes has also been appointed curator of our local museum. She played a major role in the organization of the local society and much of the credit for the success of our museum collection goes to her.

Mrs. Tynes passes the credit for our success on to the people of this area. We have a long way to go. In fact we have just started and we need each and every one of you. Have you made your donation yet? If you lack in relics of historic value and you would like to pay tribute to a loved one we suggest you do so in form of a book to be used in our research room. It was decided at a recent meeting that the society would purchase copies of the Louisiana Cemetery Records which are being published by the D. A. R.'s. The cost of these books is very reasonable. If you are interested please call Mrs. Tynes, phone 2-6476.

There is still a large back log of donations that have not been acknowledged but we plan to do so as soon as sufficient information is obtained. We also plan to list, in this column, the names of all donors.

The bidding:
South, 1 spade; West, 2 clubs; North, 2 spades; East, Pass.
South, 3 spades; West, Pass; North, 4 spades; East, Pass.
South, Pass; West, Pass.
Opening lead: Queen of clubs.

Without delving into the mysteries of mathematics, South in today's hand followed his instincts to select the best percentage play to bring home his game contract.

The auction was conducted on a quantitative basis. North made a free raise to two spades with a hand worth 11 points in support of partner. South was not strong enough to barge directly into game. His hand had an original value of 14 points but is revalued at 15 when a point is added for the fifth spade after partner supports the suit.

South cannot be sure that the partnership has 26 points for North's free raise could have been made on nine points. He therefore tests the situation by bidding three spades, which North is glad to take to four.

West cashed two top clubs and shifted to a heart. Declarer won with the king, extracted trumps, then played the ace of hearts and ruffed the small one. At this point both hands had been stripped of clubs and hearts, and declarer's problem was to clear up the diamond suit with the loss of only one trick. This was anything but a bright prospect, for apparently success would depend upon finding East with both the king and queen of diamonds. Declarer was all set to establish the jack of diamonds for his tenth trick when a somewhat better line of play suggested itself to him. There were six diamonds outstanding, and it had been impressed upon him that an even number of cards will probably not break, so that the chances favored a four-two division of the suit. If the doubleton contained one of the honors, declarer might easily get away with the hand.

So he played the ace of diamonds, and West could not escape the noose. Aware that if he won the next trick he would be compelled to give declarer a ruff and a discard, West heroically tossed the king in the hope that partner held the queen and the jack, whereupon declarer crossed to dummy with a trump and led a diamond to the jack. The defense could cash only the queen, and the contract came home.

If East plays low on the second lead of diamonds, South goes up with the jack. Even if he should lose to a doubleton king-queen of diamonds, he wins the hand, for West must lead a club or a heart. If East held an honor and one in diamonds, his proper play would be to unblock under the ace, but it is declarer's place to keep him on his toes. Sometimes they slip.

Warm Temperatures Prevail Over Wide Areas Of Nation

By UNITED PRESS

Tons of earth, loosened by heavy rain, rumbled down across U.S. 460 near Glen Lynn, Va., Saturday and warm air from the south pushed a breath of spring-like temperatures into parts of the north.

Drizzle and fog, however, covered a broad area from Kansas into the Upper Mississippi Valley and Western Great Lakes region and was expected to be a persistent feature over the area through Sunday.

The landslide buried an area 100 feet long on the major artery leading through Southwest Virginia to the West Virginia turnpike, blocking all traffic which was rerouted to roads nearby.

The rain that caused the landslide was part of a broad band of precipitation which preceded the advance of mild temperatures extending through the Ohio Valley and Great Lakes region into the Mid-Atlantic states and North Carolina.

Thunderstorms swept the Ohio Valley, the mountains of West Virginia and moved into Pennsylvania. Meanwhile, lighter rain wet the region northward through New York state and New England.

Although milder weather moved northward, temperatures along the northern border still were quite cold, ranging from the 20s in the Upper Great Lakes region to near zero in Northern Maine. Freezing rain and drizzle also iced parts of Wisconsin and Michigan.

In contrast, temperatures in the 60s occurred along the Gulf Coast line from Texas to Florida and readings near or just below the 60-degree mark reached into Southern Illinois and Kentucky.

Showers of rain and snow extended over the Pacific Northwest into Montana, and a few sprinkles were scattered over Southern California.

Jury Fails To Reach Decision In Yaun Trial

PORT ALLEN, La., Feb. 9 (UP)—The trial of C. Granville Yaun for the 11-year-old murder of Mrs. Gladys Galloway Billingsley ended today with the jury deadlocked after deliberating more than four hours.

District Attorney Ferd C. Claiborne said he would "definitely" bring the case up for trial again.

Jurors deliberated two and one half hours last night and another hour and a half today before District Judge Paul B. Landry Jr. declared a mistrial.

Yuan went on trial Monday tor the strangulation slaying of the 16-year-old Baton Rouge girl June 2, 1945. The state contended Yuan was on board the towboat where he worked the night of the slaying.

Yaun was sent to the East Louisiana State Hospital, Jackson, shortly after the slaying and remained there until recently. He was ruled sane enough to aid in his defense.

After the mistrial was declared, Yaun was asked if he "felt better now?"

He replied, "not too much. Now we've got to go through all this over again." Yaun did not take the stand in his own defense.

Judge Landry indicated the case probably would be retired in May or June.

FILE DAMAGE SUIT

OPELOUSAS, La., Feb. 9 (UP)—An Evangeline parish couple Beise McCauley and his wife, have filed a $133,200 damage suit in St. Landry district court.

The action named as defendants the Standard Wood Preserves of Shreveport, Inc., The Louisiana and Arkansas Railroad Co.; and the Illinois Central Railroad Co., of New Orleans.

The couple alleged their son, John McCauley, 24, was killed in an accident in March, 1956, while working for a construction company unloading high line poles which they said the Shreveport firm loaded on a flat car owned by the Louisiana-Arkansas Railroad company.

FOR BOY SCOUTS

Religious Services Mark Anniversary

As thousands of Scouts file into their respective churches over the nation this morning, the Boy Scouts of America celebrate their 47th anniversary with National Boy Scout Week.

The Ouachita Valley Council, which covers 14 Northeast Louisiana parishes, will add something extra today with its commeration of the worthy event—a telecast of an Eagle Court of Honor.

Scheduled for today at 1 p.m. the Eagle Court of Honor will bring to the public's eye throughout the area 15 outstanding young Americans who during the past year achieved Scouting's highest goal—the Eagle Scout award.

The half-hour program will feature six Eagles from Farmerville, five from Monroe and two each from Bastrop and Jonesboro.

Supervised by District Executive H. L. McCoggins, the program will also introduce past presidents of the Council Ben Parnell of Monroe and the recently elected president for 1957—Dr. Marvin T Green of Ruston.

Also to appear on the program are council commissioner J. C. Crawford of Monroe and chairman of the advancement committee J. W. Webster, also of Monroe.

Father Dennis Curren of Monroe and Scout Executive Jack E. Pankey will participate also.

But the highlight will be the presentation of the 15 Scouts who reached the Eagle rank in the Ouachita Valley Council during 1956.

They include Eugene Preaus, Johnny Tettleton, Tommy Joe Malone, Paul Palmer, Johnny Norris and Dale Ramsey, all of Troop 16, Farmerville; Gary Riels and David Duncan, both of Troop 2, Bastrop; Ronald H. Lane, Troop 22, and Donald Allen Williams, Troop 189, both of Jonesboro; Mike Boykin, Troop 31, Ronnie Rushing and Richard Trimble, Troop 32, John Vance, Troop 34, and Karey Warren Prewitt, Troop 131, all of Monroe.

WHY GROW OLD

How To Put It On Not Take Off

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Every once in a while I have to harass my underweight readers. Actually, underweight may be very frustrating for a woman, especially in this day when a premium seems to be placed on curves. The lady with too few pounds may have a flat bust or extremely thin legs. Many write to me wanting to know how to increase the hips. So, today I would like to give you a few rules for gaining weight and a couple of exercises for building curves.

1. Eat a well-balanced diet but do not "stuff" at meals. Instead eat five smaller ones.

2. Drink a quart of milk daily and add a little cream to one or two glasses.

3. Get at least eight hours sleep as a habit.

4. Take a vitamin capsule or two which gives you all the vitamins. (Vitamin B complex seems to be an aid in pound gathering.)

5. Take a few short rest periods during the day—lie down and relax completely.

6. Take mild exercises. Swimming is a wonderful way to build lovely curves and put on pounds. Deep breathing exercises and walking are good for you.

7. Avoid hurrying and worrying.

8. Whenever you can, eat in a happy and relaxing atmosphere.

9. When feasible lie down for a short rest before your largest meal.

EXERCISES

For bust development — stand or sit in front of a mirror. Bend your elbows and raise your arms forward, a little above shoulder height. Grasp the left forearm with the right hand and the right forearm with the left hand. Push the elbows toward one another as you resist with the hands. Relax and continue. If you see and feel your chest muscles move you are doing the exercise correctly.

For calf development — stand erect. Rise high on the toes. Slowly lower the heels to the floor. This is one of the simplest and most effective exercises. Start out slowly and increase gradually until you are doing this exercise 50 times in the morning and 50 times before going to sleep at night. You can take little rest periods in between every 10 times.

If you would like to have my exercises for increasing the bust measurement send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 7. Address Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Tomorrow: "Five Point Program for Prolonging Youthfulness."

Past And Present

By MARIE T. KENT

Members of the Ouachita Genealogical and Historical Society are proud to announce that two members of the local group were elected to serve as executive officers of the Louisiana Genealogical and Historical Society at the meeting held in Baton Rouge, January 12th. They are Fred Culver of Monroe as vice - president, and Mrs. H. T. Van Fossen of Lake Providence, as secretary. Mr. Culver also holds the office of treasurer of the local society.

Other officers of the state society for 1957 are as follows: Mrs. St. John Chilton, Baton Rouge, president; Mrs. Norma Core, Covington, treasurer; trustees, Mrs. M. R. Matta, Baton Rouge, Mrs. Amos Neff, Covington, Mrs. S. J. Nation, Shreveport, Lester White, Shreveport, Miss Sydney Kilpatrick, Alexandria, and Mrs. Edgar Hull, New Orleans; Mrs. Amos Neff, curator.

Editor of the Genealogical Register will be Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Sanders, of New Orleans.

The state society, which was organized three years ago, shows a membership record as follows: 1954, 148 members; 1955, 259 members; 1956, 300 members. There must be many more who desire to help collect and preserve the records of our unwritten history. We welcome you to join us.

A clipping of this column, the subject "An Archival Program For Louisiana," was read to the group attending the state meeting. The Ouachita Genealogical and Historical Society was praised for the great amount of progress being made toward the organization of a society and the establishment of a museum for this area. It is the only group that has been accepted as a chapter of the state society thus far.

Mrs. Doris Tynes of Monroe, was appointed to serve as chairman of a committee in charge of rewriting the by-laws of the state society. Mrs. Tynes has also been appointed curator of our local museum. She played a major role in the organization of the local society and much of the credit for the success of our museum collection goes to her.

Mrs. Tynes passes the credit for our success on to the people of this area. We have a long way to go. In fact we have just started and we need each and every one of you. Have you made your donation yet? If you lack in relics of historic value and you would like to pay tribute to a loved one we suggest you do so in form of a book to be used in our research room. It was decided at a recent meeting that the society would purchase copies of the Louisiana Cemetery Records which are being published by the D. A. R.'s. The cost of these books is very reasonable. If you are interested please call Mrs. Tynes, phone 2-6476.

There is still a large back log of donations that have not been acknowledged but we plan to do so as soon as sufficient information is obtained. We also plan to list, in this column, the names of all donors.

Mrs. D. C. Allen, of Winnfield, La., is attempting to organize a chapter in that area. We urge all citizens living in that area to lend her a helping hand. The members of the Ouachita Genealogical and Historical Society wish you a huge success, Mrs. Allen.

Mrs. Marguerite Vincent

Leadership Art Will Be Related At Pioneer Meet

The art of leadership will be underscored by Mrs. Marguerite Vincent at the Founders' Day program of the Parent-Teacher Association chapter at Pioneer. The special meeting is scheduled Monday, February 18 at 7:30 p.m. in the high school auditorium.

Founders' Day also will mark the fifth anniversary of the Pioneer P-TA unit headed by Mrs. Ben Ross.

Besides Mrs. Vincent, speakers for the event will include two from Northeast State, according to Mrs. Estelle Smith, of the Pioneer school faculty and program chairman.

Mrs. Annie Lee West Stahl, associate professor of journalism, will emphasize the value of publicity to a Parent-Teacher chapter, and Bobby Joe Oden, senior journalism major and student body president, will discuss Pioneer student leadership on the Northeast campus.

Other features of the evening will be special music by the sixth and seventh grades, a business session, and social hour to further emphasize Founders' Day.

Mrs. Vincent, principal of Sherrouse School, is a past president of the Louisiana Parent-Teacher Association and she has continued to play active roles in P-TA work. She has held the presidency of the Twin City Council and other offices in the organization.

When Northeast State sponsored a Parent-Teacher Leadership Conference in 1954, Mrs. Vincent was invited by the college to serve as coordinator of the first conference of its kind to be held in Louisiana.

The success of the meeting influenced Northeast administrators to introduce during the summer of 1955 a P-TA Leadership Conference for which college credit was given. Mrs. Vincent was appointed director of the meeting and again for the following summer's conference.

An outgrowth of the original conference which Mrs. Vincent coordinated was the introduction of a Parent-Teacher unit of study in teacher education courses at Northeast.

Participation in local, state and regional Parent - Teacher workshops and conferences has been included in her experiences with the organization's activities.

PT-A Debates Jackson Feud

BATON ROUGE, Feb. 9 (AP)—The board of managers of the Louisiana Parent-Teachers Assn. held a closed meeting here today.

Indications were the board's dispute with education Supt. Shelby Jackson over an appointive superintendent took the spotlight.

One professional member of the board told a reporter the real issue was a Jackson versus anti-Jackson member fight.

For many years the board has sought appointive education superintendents rather than elective. Jackson strongly opposes the plan.

Mrs. George Walther of Lake Charles, state president, resigned recently, protesting the "running feud" between the board and Jackson had bypassed her office.

She contended there were more important things for the P-TA to concentrate on rather than politics.

Various local P-TA groups have demanded Mrs. J. H. Stringer of Baton Rouge, anti-Jackson leader, resign from the board.

Mrs. Stringer opposed Jackson in the last election. Her friends insist she did it merely to point out no professional qualifications are required to be elected superintendent.

Today Mrs. Stringer again flatly refused to resign. "I'm not going to do it," she said. "I may be standing all by myself before this is over but I'm not going to resign."

Before today's session opened, the board voted to exclude reporters. One member protested recent publicity attributed to board members had been detrimental to the P-TA and said she believed full coverage would be in order, but a majority of the 39 members present voted her down.

Execution Of Two Slayers Set For Week

PARCHMAN, Miss., Feb. 9 (AP)—Two of three convicted murderers in state penitentiary's death row are scheduled to be executed next week.

The third, scheduled to die Feb. 7, received a stay of execution pending outcome of an appeal to the U.S. Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans.

The first of the three scheduled to die—Tuesday—is Robert Lee Goldsby, 30-year-old Canton, Miss. and St. Louis, Mo., Negro, convicted of murder in the 1954 pistol slaying of a white woman at her husband's roadside cafe near Vaiden.

Goldsby lost his appeal today to the U.S. Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals.

The next to die—Wednesday—is Nauldon Belina, 48-year-old Long Beach, Miss., Negro, convicted of stabbing another Negro to death during an argument over automobile difficulties in 1955.

The third occupant of death row is William A. Wetzel, 30-year-old native of Seneca Falls, N.Y., who was convicted of murder in the throat cutting of a fellow inmate at state penitentiary in the spring of 1953.

Wetzel, scheduled to die Feb. 7, won his stay of execution Jan. 21.

Trial testimony showed Goldsby and a car load of friends drove into the parking lot of a cafe owned by Bryant Nelms. Nelms ordered him out and Goldsby shot him.

When Mrs. Nelms ran to her wounded husband, Goldsby killed her and fled.

Leadership Art Will Be Related At Pioneer Meet

The art of leadership will be underscored by Mrs. Marguerite Vincent at the Founders' Day program of the Parent-Teacher Association chapter at Pioneer. The special meeting is scheduled Monday, February 18 at 7:30 p.m. in the high school auditorium.

Founders' Day also will mark the fifth anniversary of the Pioneer P-TA unit headed by Mrs. Ben Ross.

Besides Mrs. Vincent, speakers for the event will include two from Northeast State, according to Mrs. Estelle Smith, of the Pioneer school faculty and program chairman.

Mrs. Annie Lee West Stahl, associate professor of journalism, will emphasize the value of publicity to a Parent-Teacher chapter, and Bobby Joe Oden, senior journalism major and student body president, will discuss Pioneer student leadership on the Northeast campus.

Other features of the evening will be special music by the sixth and seventh grades, a business session, and social hour to further emphasize Founders' Day.

Mrs. Vincent, principal of Sherrouse School, is a past president of the Louisiana Parent-Teacher Association and she has continued to play active roles in P-TA work. She has held the presidency of the Twin City Council and other offices in the organization.

When Northeast State sponsored a Parent-Teacher Leadership Conference in 1954, Mrs. Vincent was invited by the college to serve as coordinator of the first conference of its kind to be held in Louisiana.

The success of the meeting influenced Northeast administrators to introduce during the summer of 1955 a P-TA Leadership Conference for which college credit was given. Mrs. Vincent was appointed director of the meeting and again for the following summer's conference.

An outgrowth of the original conference which Mrs. Vincent coordinated was the introduction of a Parent-Teacher unit of study in teacher education courses at Northeast.

Participation in local, state and regional Parent - Teacher workshops and conferences has been included in her experiences with the organization's activities.

Phone Skyway Grows

Relay Tower Located In West Monroe

By YVONNE HERRON
State Editor

A new telephone skyway is the latest addition to the fast growing network of radio relay facilities used for telephone conversations from point to point throughout the nation.

A connecting link in the rapidly advancing skyway is the 250 foot tower of the telephone system located on the old Natchitoches road in West Monroe.

The West Monroe tower is one of the milestones in the advancing network using microwaves in the transmission of telephone communications. The giant size steel tower supports large lens - type antennas of unusual design. The sensitive antennas give the impression of "listening ears" waiting to carry the messages of thousands of individuals in the Twin Cities and the immediate area throughout the nation.

JOINT OPERATION

L. S. Reteneller, commercial representative from New Orleans of the long lines department of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, said that the radio relay towers are a joint operation of Southern Bell and the American Telephone and Telegraph Co. The use of microwaves in the transmission has added five channels to the present route, Reteneller explained.

C. B. Burnett, transmission supervisor of the A. T. and T. of Shreveport, is in charge of the West Monroe installation. Burnett said that an individual's voice is transmitted at 186,000 miles per second over the microwaves. The voice is transmitted in accordance with the speed of light, Burnett added.

At the present time the capacity of one channel is 600 conversations and over the entire network the capacity is 3,600 conversations at one time, Burnett estimated. "With the growth of the system nationwide, some day in the future lines for long distance calls will be abolished," Burnett said.

In explaining the operation Burnett said the system employs super - high radio frequencies called microwaves. The waves are focused like the rays of a search light and relayed from tower to tower which are spaced above 30 miles apart. At each station the beam is collected by a receiving horn, is amplified and sent on its way. At the distant end, the individual telephone messages carried by the same microwave signal are separated. Each call is then placed on conventional telephone facilities and carried to its destination, Burnett explained.

PRECAUTIONS TAKEN

Billy E. Crenshaw, of Shreveport equipment maintenance man with the A. T. and T. explained that every precaution has been made in case trouble should develop at the tower. The instant that trouble occurs with the machinery an alarm is set off. In case of power failure a special generator is ready for emergency use.

A separate building is located at the base of the tower to house amplifying and testing equipment. Superintendent Burnett explained that the radio relay route makes use of many tubes specially designed for application in microwave systems and without which such transmission would be impossible. Some of the parts in these tubes are so small that making them is a triumph of manufacturing skill, Burnett said.

There are seven steel towers and equipment buildings which comprise the Louisiana link in the systems. Other towers are located at Tendall, 300 feet; Oak Ridge, 275 feet; Vienna, 175 feet; Athens, 262 feet; Haughton, 150 feet; Shreveport, 37 foot tower atop the Shreveport Telephone Building.

COMPLETED IN DECEMBER

The West Monroe radio relay tower was completed in December, 1955. Officials estimated that the installation cost beween $150,000 and $200,000.

Operation of the telephone skyway is a reality that was accomplished by Southern Bell and A. T. and T. after many years of research.

Quake Reported

NEW YORK, Feb. 9 (UP)—The Lamont Geological Observatory at Columbia University recorded a "fairly severe" earthquake Saturday. The disturbance was located about 2,760 miles northwest of New York, possibly in British Columbia or off the coast of that Canadian province.

TUGLESS LINER SAILS AGAIN

NEW YORK, Feb. 9 (UP)—The big liner United States, which docked here successfully Thursday without benefit of tugs, sailed for Europe Saturday, again tugless and with the added handicap of a thick fog.

Woman Rejoins Family After 32 Years

HOBART, Okla., Feb. 9 (UP)—A 39-year-old California business woman returned here Saturday with the feeling that she was at home "for the first time" since the Babbs Switch, Okla., fire that killed 36 or 37 in 1924.

Mrs. Grace Reynolds, who operates a dress shop in Barstow, Calif., began a week-long visit with the E. L. Edens family in belief she was a member of it and the missing 37th victim of the tragic fire.

Edens, a retired farmer living near here, definitely said she was his missing daughter. Mrs. Reynolds agreed.

The Edens' daughter, 3 1-2-year-old Mary Elizabeth, vanished in the fire which leveled the rural school house and badly injured her parents.

For 33 years, Edens and his wife have believed their child was carried from the building and may have been adopted by a passerby who believed she was orphaned by the fire.

Many motorists stopped at the charred school house, which was located on a highway, to help with removal of bodies from the building.

The child was sitting in the lap of her aunt, Alice Noah, watching a Christmas program at the school when the Christmas tree caught fire. The small frame building went up in flames in minutes. Most of the victims were trapped behind the only door because it opened to the inside.

The aunt, who died two days later of burns, said she carried the child to safety, but she was never found.

Last fall a search was started for the missing daughter, and after numerous telephone calls and correspondence, the Edens decided Mrs. Reynolds, a mother of two children, could be their daughter.

They met her Friday at Oklahoma City, where the family visited with two more daughters.

One bit of conclusive evidence was a scar on Mrs. Reynolds' right foot which was like one the Eden girl had received in her early childhood, Eden said.

Mrs. Reynolds said she remembered living in Arkansas as a child and later at San Diego, Calif., and Los Angeles, where a woman adopted her when she was 15. She said she was never told how she became an "orphan."

Some 5,000 Persons See Camellia Show

Approximately 5,000 persons viewed hundreds of camellia blooms which were on display at the Central Savings Bank and Trust Company Friday and Saturday. Visitors were reported from throughout the Twin Cities area and Alexandria, Shreveport, Farmerville, Columbia and Ruston

R. C. Sparks, vice-president, said more than 3,000 persons took advantage of the large display Friday. Originally the bank had planned to remain open until 5 p.m.; however, with the large crowd the doors were not closed for another hour.

Yesterday the bank stayed open until shortly after 5 p.m.

More than 1,700 blooms were on display. Last year, the bank had on display approximately 1,000 blossoms.

Mrs. J. Kugler Is Heart Sunday Drive Director

Mrs. J. B. Kugler, prominent Monroe civic worker, has been appointed Heart Sunday chairman in the current Fund Campaign. Mrs. Kugler will coordinate activities of the month-long drive with the special events on Heart Sunday, Feb. 24.

In receiving the appointment Mrs. Kugler pointed out that the work "will of necessity involve the full cooperation of all persons in the parish, if we are to continue the wonderful work being done in the fight against the number one killer, heart disease."

Mrs. Kugler's past activities in civic endeavors have included all phases from the various capacities of the local Red Cross to a member of the board of directors of the Twin Cities Community Concerts. In the past she served as executive secretary of the Town Hall organization, president of the Young Women Christian Association, member of the Community Chest board, leader in the League of Women Voters and various offices in a number of civic clubs. She is also active in the Daughters of the American Revolution.

Wiley Blasts Sanctions Attempt Against Israel

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9. (UP)—Sen. Alexander Wiley said Saturday that U.N. sanctions against Israel for failure to withdraw her troops from Egypt would not be "either a fair, justified or an effective answer" to the Egypt-Israel dispute.

The Wisconsin Republican, ranking GOP member of the Senate Foreign Relations committee, said such an action without similar sanctions against Russia would be a "double standard of punishing a small power's violation and ignoring a big power's infinitely worse violations."

"I feel strongly, as I'm sure Congress does, against any double standard in applying international law," he said in a prepared statement.

A similar stand was taken by Sens. Irving M. Ives (R-N.Y.) and Jacob K. Javits (R-N.Y.) in a joint letter to Secretary of State John Foster Dulles.

They said "we believe it would be a serious error of policy to vote sanctions against Israel because it will run contrary to the basic principle of enforcing international law upon which we have been proceeding since hostilities first broke out on Oct. 29, 1956."

The protests came as the United Nations considered possible sanctions against Israel for her failure to comply with a resolution for her forces to withdraw from the powder keg areas of the Gaza Strip and the Gulf of Aqaba.

The Senate Armed Services and Foreign Relations committees hope to wind up hearings Monday on President Eisenhower's Middle East "doctrine" resolution and to finish committee action on the proposal by the end of the week.

Mr. Eisenhower asked for authority to use U.S. forces if necessary to halt Communist aggression in the Middle East. He also asked a free hand to spend $200 million of already - appropriated funds on Middle East economic aid.

U. S. Communists Urge President To Enforce Race Desegregation

NEW YORK, Feb. 9 (AP) — The first American Communist party convention in seven years called on President Eisenhower today to issue "a new Eisenhower doctrine for enforcement of Supreme Court desegregation decisions."

The opening session, closed to the press, sent a telegram to the President before taking up its differences as to whether the party will continue to follow the Moscow line or an independent course.

The telegram, which a spokesman said was adopted overwhelmingly, was sent to the President at Thomasville, Ga., where he is vacationing. It said in part:

"Your rejection of a request of outstanding southern Negro leaders that you speak in the South against the immorality of racist violence has shocked millions of Americans, Negro and white. . . .

"We, over 350 delegates to the 16th national convention of the Communist party, believe we express the wishes of the majority of the American people in urging you to issue in the South a new Eisenhower doctrine for enforcement of the Supreme Court desegregation decisions and against the racist advocates and practitioners of force and violence."

The telegram was presented to the convention by Carl Winter, of Detroit, the Michigan Communist chairman.

The convention, for the first time in history, admitted nonparty observers. The observers have been identified with non-Communist liberal and civil rights causes.

The four-day convention is being held in the Chateau Gardens, a red and white stone structure which formerly was a Protestant church. Located about a block from the Bowery on the lower East Side, it is now used largely as a hall for wedding receptions and other social and club affairs. More than 60 other places had refused to house the convention.

The singing of the Star Spangled Banner opened the convention, the spokesman said. He told reporters, who were admitted to a small press room but not to the meeting hall itself, that an American flag hung over the podium. He said there was no other flag. Nor were there any photographs of Communist leaders.

LONDONDERRY, Northern Ireland, Feb. 9 (UP)—Irish extremists believed to be members of the Irish Republican Army blew up an electricity transformer unit in Maghera County, last night, plunging a large area into darkness.

'Gripe Day' Idea Gains Support

DALLAS, Feb. 9 (UP)— A group of Dallas businessmen said Saturday that a campaign to turn Washington's birthday into "National Gripe Day" is spreading.

The idea is for citizens all over the country to write President Eisenhower on February 22 and tell him what they don't like about the government.

Jack Breard, who manages a magazine circulation service, and who is spokesman for the group, said the movement is unorganized and has no financing.

He said it is being spread by businessmen and by secretaries who are making multiple copies of appeals to their friends to write to the President about what they don't like about the government.

Breard said "Gripe Day" movements had been started in Birmingham, Ala., Kansas City, Mo., and Cincinnati, O., by Dallas residents who went to those cities on conventions or business.

Breard said other founders of the movement in Dallas are C. C. Benson, who runs the local office of the National Auto Theft Bureau; James DeLoache, an advertising executive, and Charles Kain, a real estate man.

Breard said that the movement is non-political, but the founders all have three main gripes they are going to write to the President about: Income taxes, foreign aid and the administrative cost of government.

Hit-And-Run Driver Kills 2 Teen-Agers

SUMNER, Miss., Feb. 9 (AP)—Police in four states were alerted to watch for a vehicle that struck down and killed two teen-aged boys today as they walked along highway 49, near here on a hunting trip.

The truck did not stop, highway patrolmen said.

Patrol headquarters in Jackson broadcast a statewide alert for what they believed to be a "heavy transport truck, judging by the condition of the bodies which were mangled and torn."

The patrol also alerted Louisiana, Tennessee and Alabama and service stations and truck stops on all major roads in the area to watch for a blood-smeared or freshly cleaned truck.

Patrolman M. O. Harris, who investigated the accident, identified the boys as James Lewis Thomas, 16-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Thomas of Sumner, and Gerald Sullivan, 14-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Sullivan of Webb.

He said the impact knocked or dragged one body 40 feet and the other body 100 feet. No skid marks were found, he said, indicating the vehicle did not try to stop either before or after hitting the youths.

The time of the accident was estimated at 4:30 a.m. A motorist identified only as Red Nabors, found the bodies about two hours later and notified Tallahatchie County Sheriff Harry Dogan.

Phone Skyway Grows

Relay Tower Located In West Monroe

By YVONNE HERRON
State Editor

A new telephone skyway is the latest addition to the fast growing network of radio relay facilities used for telephone conversations from point to point throughout the nation.

A connecting link in the rapidly advancing skyway is the 250 foot tower of the telephone system located on the old Natchitoches road in West Monroe.

The West Monroe tower is one of the milestones in the advancing network using microwaves in the transmission of telephone communications. The giant size steel tower supports large lens - type antennas of unusual design. The sensitive antennas give the impression of "listening ears" waiting to carry the messages of thousands of individuals in the Twin Cities and the immediate area throughout the nation.

JOINT OPERATION

L. S. Reteneller, commercial representative from New Orleans of the long lines department of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, said that the radio relay towers are a joint operation of Southern Bell and the American Telephone and Telegraph Co. The use of microwaves in the transmission has added five channels to the present route, Reteneller explained.

C. B. Burnett, transmission supervisor of the A. T. and T. of Shreveport, is in charge of the West Monroe installation. Burnett said that an individual's voice is transmitted at 186,000 miles per second over the microwaves. The voice is transmitted in accordance with the speed of light, Burnett added.

At the present time the capacity of one channel is 600 conversations and over the entire network the capacity is 3,600 conversations at one time, Burnett estimated. "With the growth of the system nationwide, some day in the future lines for long distance calls will be abolished," Burnett said.

In explaining the operation Burnett said the system employs super - high radio frequencies called microwaves. The waves are focused like the rays of a search light and relayed from tower to tower which are spaced above 30 miles apart. At each station the beam is collected by a receiving horn, is amplified and sent on its way. At the distant end, the individual telephone messages carried by the same microwave signal are separated. Each call is then placed on conventional telephone facilities and carried to its destination, Burnett explained.

PRECAUTIONS TAKEN

Billy E. Crenshaw, of Shreveport equipment maintenance man with the A. T. and T. explained that every precaution has been made in case trouble should develop at the tower. The instant that trouble occurs with the machinery an alarm is set off. In case of power failure a special generator is ready for emergency use.

A separate building is located at the base of the tower to house amplifying and testing equipment. Superintendent Burnett explained that the radio relay route makes use of many tubes specially designed for application in microwave systems and without which such transmission would be impossible. Some of the parts in these tubes are so small that making them is a triumph of manufacturing skill, Burnett said.

There are seven steel towers and equipment buildings which comprise the Louisiana link in the systems. Other towers are located at Tendall, 300 feet; Oak Ridge, 275 feet; Vienna, 175 feet; Athens, 262 feet; Haughton, 150 feet; Shreveport, 37 foot tower atop the Shreveport Telephone Building.

COMPLETED IN DECEMBER

The West Monroe radio relay tower was completed in December, 1955. Officials estimated that the installation cost beween $150,000 and $200,000.

Operation of the telephone skyway is a reality that was accomplished by Southern Bell and A. T. and T. after many years of research.

Probe Diggers, Discover Meter

OPORTO, Portugal, Feb. 9 (UP)—Police thought they had a real mystery on their hands when a report came in that two men were seen burying something behind the Bonfim Church.

Police rushed to the churchyard and started digging. They found a water meter, well wrapped in brown paper.

Quake Reported

NEW YORK, Feb. 9 (UP)—The Lamont Geological Observatory at Columbia University recorded a "fairly severe" earthquake Saturday. The disturbance was located about 2,760 miles northwest of New York, possibly in British Columbia or off the coast of that Canadian province.

TUGLESS LINER SAILS AGAIN

NEW YORK, Feb. 9 (UP)—The big liner United States, which docked here successfully Thursday without benefit of tugs, sailed for Europe Saturday, again tugless and with the added handicap of a thick fog.

Woman Rejoins Family After 32 Years

HOBART, Okla., Feb. 9 (UP)—A 39-year-old California business woman returned here Saturday with the feeling that she was at home "for the first time" since the Babbs Switch, Okla., fire that killed 36 or 37 in 1924.

Mrs. Grace Reynolds, who operates a dress shop in Barstow, Calif., began a week-long visit with the E. L. Edens family in belief she was a member of it and the missing 37th victim of the tragic fire.

Edens, a retired farmer living near here, definitely said she was his missing daughter. Mrs. Reynolds agreed.

The Edens' daughter, 3 1-2-year-old Mary Elizabeth, vanished in the fire which leveled the rural school house and badly injured her parents.

For 33 years, Edens and his wife have believed their child was carried from the building and may have been adopted by a passerby who believed she was orphaned by the fire.

Many motorists stopped at the charred school house, which was located on a highway, to help with removal of bodies from the building.

The child was sitting in the lap of her aunt, Alice Noah, watching a Christmas program at the school when the Christmas tree caught fire. The small frame building went up in flames in minutes. Most of the victims were trapped behind the only door because it opened to the inside.

The aunt, who died two days later of burns, said she carried the child to safety, but she was never found.

Last fall a search was started for the missing daughter, and after numerous telephone calls and correspondence, the Edens decided Mrs. Reynolds, a mother of two children, could be their daughter.

They met her Friday at Oklahoma City, where the family visited with two more daughters.

One bit of conclusive evidence was a scar on Mrs. Reynolds' right foot which was like one the Eden girl had received in her early childhood, Eden said.

Mrs. Reynolds said she remembered living in Arkansas as a child and later at San Diego, Calif., and Los Angeles, where a woman adopted her when she was 15. She said she was never told how she became an "orphan."

Mrs. J. Kugler Is Heart Sunday Drive Director

Mrs. J. B. Kugler, prominent Monroe civic worker, has been appointed Heart Sunday chairman in the current Fund Campaign. Mrs. Kugler will coordinate activities of the month-long drive with the special events on Heart Sunday, Feb. 24.

In receiving the appointment Mrs. Kugler pointed out that the work "will of necessity involve the full cooperation of all persons in the parish, if we are to continue the wonderful work being done in the fight against the number one killer, heart disease."

Mrs. Kugler's past activities in civic endeavors have included all phases from the various capacities of the local Red Cross to a member of the board of directors of the Twin Cities Community Concerts. In the past she served as executive secretary of the Town Hall organization, president of the Young Women Christian Association, member of the Community Chest board, leader in the League of Women Voters and various offices in a number of civic clubs. She is also active in the Daughters of the American Revolution.

Some 5,000 Persons See Camellia Show

Approximately 5,000 persons viewed hundreds of camellia blooms which were on display at the Central Savings Bank and Trust Company Friday and Saturday. Visitors were reported from throughout the Twin Cities area and Alexandria, Shreveport, Farmerville, Columbia and Ruston

R. C. Sparks, vice-president, said more than 3,000 persons took advantage of the large display Friday. Originally the bank had planned to remain open until 5 p.m.; however, with the large crowd the doors were not closed for another hour.

Yesterday the bank stayed open until shortly after 5 p.m.

More than 1,700 blooms were on display. Last year, the bank had on display approximately 1,000 blossoms.

Wiley Blasts Sanctions Attempt Against Israel

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9. (UP)—Sen. Alexander Wiley said Saturday that U.N. sanctions against Israel for failure to withdraw her troops from Egypt would not be "either a fair, justified or an effective answer" to the Egypt-Israel dispute.

The Wisconsin Republican, ranking GOP member of the Senate Foreign Relations committee, said such an action without similar sanctions against Russia would be a "double standard of punishing a small power's violation and ignoring a big power's infinitely worse violations."

"I feel strongly, as I'm sure Congress does, against any double standard in applying international law," he said in a prepared statement.

A similar stand was taken by Sens. Irving M. Ives (R-N.Y.) and Jacob K. Javits (R-N.Y.) in a joint letter to Secretary of State John Foster Dulles.

They said "we believe it would be a serious error of policy to vote sanctions against Israel because it will run contrary to the basic principle of enforcing international law upon which we have been proceeding since hostilities first broke out on Oct. 29, 1956."

The protests came as the United Nations considered possible sanctions against Israel for her failure to comply with a resolution for her forces to withdraw from the powder keg areas of the Gaza Strip and the Gulf of Aqaba.

The Senate Armed Services and Foreign Relations committees hope to wind up hearings Monday on President Eisenhower's Middle East "doctrine" resolution and to finish committee action on the proposal by the end of the week.

Mr. Eisenhower asked for authority to use U.S. forces if necessary to halt Communist aggression in the Middle East. He also asked a free hand to spend $200 million of already - appropriated funds on Middle East economic aid.

U. S. Communists Urge President To Enforce Race Desegregation

NEW YORK, Feb. 9 (AP) — The first American Communist party convention in seven years called on President Eisenhower today to issue "a new Eisenhower doctrine for enforcement of Supreme Court desegregation decisions."

The opening session, closed to the press, sent a telegram to the President before taking up its differences as to whether the party will continue to follow the Moscow line or an independent course.

The telegram, which a spokesman said was adopted overwhelmingly, was sent to the President at Thomasville, Ga., where he is vacationing. It said in part:

"Your rejection of a request of outstanding southern Negro leaders that you speak in the South against the immorality of racist violence has shocked millions of Americans, Negro and white. . . .

"We, over 350 delegates to the 16th national convention of the Communist party, believe we express the wishes of the majority of the American people in urging you to issue in the South a new Eisenhower doctrine for enforcement of the Supreme Court desegregation decisions and against the racist advocates and practitioners of force and violence."

The telegram was presented to the convention by Carl Winter, of Detroit, the Michigan Communist chairman.

The convention, for the first time in history, admitted nonparty observers. The observers have been identified with non-Communist liberal and civil rights causes.

The four-day convention is being held in the Chateau Gardens, a red and white stone structure which formerly was a Protestant church. Located about a block from the Bowery on the lower East Side, it is now used largely as a hall for wedding receptions and other social and club affairs. More than 60 other places had refused to house the convention.

The singing of the Star Spangled Banner opened the convention, the spokesman said. He told reporters, who were admitted to a small press room but not to the meeting hall itself, that an American flag hung over the podium. He said there was no other flag. Nor were there any photographs of Communist leaders.

'Gripe Day' Idea Gains Support

DALLAS, Feb. 9 (UP)— A group of Dallas businessmen said Saturday that a campaign to turn Washington's birthday into "National Gripe Day" is spreading.

The idea is for citizens all over the country to write President Eisenhower on February 22 and tell him what they don't like about the government.

Jack Breard, who manages a magazine circulation service, and who is spokesman for the group, said the movement is unorganized and has no financing.

He said it is being spread by businessmen and by secretaries who are making multiple copies of appeals to their friends to write to the President about what they don't like about the government.

Breard said "Gripe Day" movements had been started in Birmingham, Ala., Kansas City, Mo., and Cincinnati, O., by Dallas residents who went to those cities on conventions or business.

Breard said other founders of the movement in Dallas are C. C. Benson, who runs the local office of the National Auto Theft Bureau; James DeLoache, an advertising executive, and Charles Kain, a real estate man.

Breard said that the movement is non-political, but the founders all have three main gripes they are going to write to the President about: Income taxes, foreign aid and the administrative cost of government.

Hit-And-Run Driver Kills 2 Teen-Agers

SUMNER, Miss., Feb. 9 (AP)—Police in four states were alerted to watch for a vehicle that struck down and killed two teen-aged boys today as they walked along highway 49, near here on a hunting trip.

The truck did not stop, highway patrolmen said.

Patrol headquarters in Jackson broadcast a statewide alert for what they believed to be a "heavy transport truck, judging by the condition of the bodies which were mangled and torn."

The patrol also alerted Louisiana, Tennessee and Alabama and service stations and truck stops on all major roads in the area to watch for a blood-smeared or freshly cleaned truck.

Patrolman M. O. Harris, who investigated the accident, identified the boys as James Lewis Thomas, 16-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Thomas of Sumner, and Gerald Sullivan, 14-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Sullivan of Webb.

The time of the accident was estimated at 4:30 a.m. A motorist identified only as Red Nabors, found the bodies about two hours later and notified Tallahatchie County Sheriff Harry Dogan.

LONDONDERRY, Northern Ireland, Feb. 9 (UP)—Irish extremists believed to be members of the Irish Republican Army blew up an electricity transformer unit in Maghera County, last night, plunging a large area into darkness.

Is Serving Large College Area

Episcopalians of the college area here are much pleased with the new St. Thomas church on Filhiol avenue, which has been in use since last December 21, and of which the Rev. James C. Wattley is vicar.

Nearly all of the altar furnishings have been donated in memory of loved ones. The Altar, Tabernacle, Altar Cross, Credence Table, Font, Hymn Board and Bishop's Throne were donations from the many friends of James Fagan Cox. It was Jim Cox who was responsible for the acquiring of the fine site for this church. He also was a charter member of the mission.

Father E. F. Hayward, rector emeritus of Grace church, blessed a number of the donations in the memory of his sister-in-law, Helena E. Alexander. It was a generous gift from Mrs. Alexander that made the erection of this building possible. The sanctuary is dedicated to her memory.

This church is the first unit of the eventual plant planned for St. Thomas. The property which is completely out of debt runs through an entire block from College avenue to Filhiol Street. For the present time this church will double for the several or more uses of the church.

Dr. Pomeroy To Hold Revival

LAKE PROVIDENCE — Dr. George W. Pomeroy, pastor of the Monroe First Methodist church will hold a series of revival services at the First Methodist church here starting February 11 and ending Sunday night, February 17.

He is well known and has degrees from Centenary College and from Yale University. Also he has done post graduate work in the University of Chicago.

Rev. C. R. McCammon, pastor of the church here, cordially invites attendance at these services.

High Hour Of Methodist Will Be Studied

"High Hours of Methodism in Town and Country," a church-wide mission study book was presented to the membership of the McGuire Methodist church by a symposium composed of Rev. Ben Oliphint, Walter Frank, Rev. Ira Love, and J. Horace McCullin. This mission study is to be used for added emphasis on the quadrennial goals of the local church. The author, Charles M. McConnell, remarked by way of introduction,

"Most of us are forced by necessity to make changes for our continued existence. Very few high hours are planned for in advance. Great events take place, movements begin, lives are changed, and long eras of human history get under way unnoticed. At some point a high hour may be registered on a clock or calendar by a historian."

The local Methodist church and the denomination as a whole have changed to meet the changing conditions in the world. Its leaders in the ministry, in the laity, and in the offices of administration have at moments sensed the changes that had to be made and made them.

Mrs. M. L. DeFreese, chairman of the commission on missions, stated that in the Monroe district 50 Methodist churches have a membership of less than 250 members, yet the programs have been in a large measure slanted to serve the larger churches, and the smaller ones have had to make adjustments. All the various programs find means of translating this concern into action through the Town and Country Commission of the state conferences. The Board of Christian Education has taken added steps in joining the Woman's Society for Christian Service in its town and country emphasis.

Goals for every town and country church in Louisiana are: 1. Adequate program and organization in the Methodist church; 2. Effective program of evangelism; 3. Stewardship of Possessions program; 4. Full Program of Missions; 5. Parsonage and Church Improvement and Beautification; 6. Community Projects.

Is Serving Large College Area

Episcopalians of the college area here are much pleased with the new St. Thomas church on Filhiol avenue, which has been in use since last December 21, and of which the Rev. James C. Wattley is vicar.

Nearly all of the altar furnishings have been donated in memory of loved ones. The Altar, Tabernacle, Altar Cross, Credence Table, Font, Hymn Board and Bishop's Throne were donations from the many friends of James Fagan Cox. It was Jim Cox who was responsible for the acquiring of the fine site for this church. He also was a charter member of the mission.

Father E. F. Hayward, rector emeritus of Grace church, blessed a number of the donations in the memory of his sister-in-law, Helena E. Alexander. It was a generous gift from Mrs. Alexander that made the erection of this building possible. The sanctuary is dedicated to her memory.

This church is the first unit of the eventual plant planned for St. Thomas. The property which is completely out of debt runs through an entire block from College avenue to Filhiol Street. For the present time this church will double for the several or more uses of the church.

Dr. Pomeroy To Hold Revival

LAKE PROVIDENCE — Dr. George W. Pomeroy, pastor of the Monroe First Methodist church will hold a series of revival services at the First Methodist church here starting February 11 and ending Sunday night, February 17.

He is well known and has degrees from Centenary College and from Yale University. Also he has done post graduate work in the University of Chicago.

Rev. C. R. McCammon, pastor of the church here, cordially invites attendance at these services.

High Hour Of Methodist Will Be Studied

"High Hours of Methodism in Town and Country," a church-wide mission study book was presented to the membership of the McGuire Methodist church by a symposium composed of Rev. Ben Oliphint, Walter Frank, Rev. Ira Love, and J. Horace McCullin. This mission study is to be used for added emphasis on the quadrennial goals of the local church. The author, Charles M. McConnell, remarked by way of introduction,

"Most of us are forced by necessity to make changes for our continued existence. Very few high hours are planned for in advance. Great events take place, movements begin, lives are changed, and long eras of human history get under way unnoticed. At some point a high hour may be registered on a clock or calendar by a historian."

The local Methodist church and the denomination as a whole have changed to meet the changing conditions in the world. Its leaders in the ministry, in the laity, and in the offices of administration have at moments sensed the changes that had to be made and made them.

Mrs. M. L. DeFreese, chairman of the commission on missions, stated that in the Monroe district 50 Methodist churches have a membership of less than 250 members, yet the programs have been in a large measure slanted to serve the larger churches, and the smaller ones have had to make adjustments. All the various programs find means of translating this concern into action through the Town and Country Commission of the state conferences. The Board of Christian Education has taken added steps in joining the Woman's Society for Christian Service in its town and country emphasis.

Goals for every town and country church in Louisiana are: 1. Adequate program and organization in the Methodist church; 2. Effective program of evangelism; 3. Stewardship of Possessions program; 4. Full Program of Missions; 5. Parsonage and Church Improvement and Beautification; 6. Community Projects.

Area Doctors Urge Adults To Take Anti-Polio Shots

The Fifth District Medical Society yesterday released a statement urging all persons up to the age of 49 years to get anti-polio shots. The statement by the local group is in line with a recent stand of the American Medical Association.

Dr. D. R. Hamilton, secretary-treasurer of the group, pointed out there have been no cases of paralytic polio in any person who has had all three of the shots. (The series consists of three shots with the second being given one month after the first shot, and the last one seven months after the second.)

In 1955 the polio vaccination caused a 24 per cent decrease in incidence over 1954; in 1956 the vaccinations were responsible for a 48 per cent decrease over the previous year.

The age of most serious incidence, Dr. Hamilton pointed o t, is the young adult, from 20 to 35 years of age. The incidence of polio has increased in this age group in the last two years.

Louisiana is one of the ten states that led the nation in incidence of polio last year.

Serving as Fifth District group officers this year are Dr. Otis Tugwell of Bastrop, president; Dr. W. B. Liles, Monroe, vice-president; and Dr. Hamilton, Monroe, secretary-treasurer.

AL DOHMANN

A TRIBUTE TO FRIENDSHIP!

Through the years, as we learn to evaluate people and personalities, we find that enduring friendships are one of life's precious jewels. What is more comforting than a treasured visit with someone to whom you can be just your natural self! Do you know what the definition of a friend is? It is a person who knows all your faults but still likes you, in spite of them. None of us is free from faults. That is only human. So we gravitate to those who like us and who, in turn, we think rather special. Let's cherish our friendships and make the most of them . . . lest auld acquaintance be forgot!

Odlum Bets $40 Million On Business Of Uranium

NEW YORK, Feb. 9 (AP)—Floyd B. Odlum and the Atlas Corp. are betting 40 million dollars on uranium.

That's the amount of money the investment trust headed by Odlum has invested in uranium mines, mining claims and part ownership of a mill. Most of the properties are in a 5-mile by 2-mile patch of hill country near Moab, Utah, in which Atlas owns or controls about five per cent of the United States' uranium reserves.

The balding, bespectacled financier who has been prominent in financial circles ever since he turned Atlas' investments into cash and other liquid assets just before the 1929 stock market crash, said he had no fears Atlas was putting too many eggs into a uranium basket, so to speak. He pointed to the fact that the Atomic Energy Commission has contracted to buy all uranium produced in this country through 1966 at a fixed price.

"We're close to pulling money out of uranium now," he added. "We have another shaft down at Lisbon and we're starting a third shaft."

He was referring to Atlas' holdings in Lisbon Uranium Corp., which has well over 500,000 tons of commercial grade ore established in 60 mining claims in the Moab area. In addition, Hidden Splendor Mining Co., another Atlas subsidiary, is operating the Almar mine near Moab and the Delta mine in another part of Utah. Odlum last summer valued the Almar mine's ores at 36 million dollars.

Uranium is the largest of the various "special situations" in which Atlas has invested better than two-thirds of its 100-odd million dollars in assets. This policy differs from that of most investment companies, which put the bulk of their money in small holdings in widely diversified firms without ever getting enough stock in any one company to control it.

Oil and natural gas properties held by Atlas' wholly owned subsidiary, Petro-Atlas Corp., are valued at 14 million dollars by the company. Petro-Atlas has interests in producing leases in Louisiana, Arkansas, Colorado, Kansas, Nebraska, New Mexico, Oklahoma and Texas, as well as interests in undeveloped leases in those states and in Arizona, Utah, Wyoming and Saskatchewan, Canada.

Other special situations in which Atlas is interested right now are Titeflex, Inc., (flexible metal hoses); the Babb Co. (dealer in aircraft and aircraft engines, parts and accessories) and Northeast Airlines, Inc., which recently started service between New York and Miami, Fla.

Previously the list of "special situations" has included oil, hotels, transcontinental busses, a women's specialty store, utilities, banks, aircraft manufacture and moving pictures, to list a few.

Neither his age (65 on March 30) nor rheumatoid arthritis contracted during World War II service in Washington can slow Odlum on his appointed rounds between New York, his ranch in Indio, Calif., and the various Atlas "special situations."

"I spent only 23 days in my downtown office all last year," he said, somewhat apologetically. "How much ground did I cover? Oh, roughly 100,000 miles, virtually all by plane."

Some of that flying was done with his wife, Jacqueline Cochran, famed woman pilot he married in 1936. She is one of the directors of Northeast Airlines, and test flew the Bristol Brittania prop-jet plane before the airline ordered five of the planes for the New York-Miami run.

Viking Sailor Slates Speech At La. Tech

RUSTON, Feb. 9 (Special)—Peter Freuchen, famous Viking who won $64,000 on a television program with his knowledge of the seas, will speak in Howard Auditorium at Louisiana Tech at 9:40 a.m. Wednesday under the auspices of the programs committee of the college.

Tech classes will be shortened to provide for student and faculty attendance. It is the policy of the programs committee to invite the public to college assemblies, for which there is no admission charge.

Freuchen, a bearded peg-legged six-foot-five Dane, is known throughout the world as an author, explorer, trader, sailor, patriot and underground agent.

With the noted explorer, Rasmussen, he formed a trading post at the Thule Colony for the Eskimos. World War I found him governor of the colony, the only white man in the area. Stranded without provisions or ammunition, since no ships ventured that far north for four years, he learned to live as a native foraging for food and living under primitive conditions. From that unusual experience came his subsequent novel, "White Man."

When the Nazis overran Denmark in 1940, Freuchen was jailed for his writings but twice he escaped and went underground to continue harassing the enemy.

Televiewers of the "64,000 Question" were impressed by Freuchen's knowledge of the Seven Seas, the category in which he won the top prize and in which he later tied on the "64,000 Challenge."

Hamburg Youth Is Named Marion Cadet Of Month

HAMBURG, Ark., Feb. 9 (Special) — Cadet Corporal Pat C. Hoy of Hamburg was named "Cadet of the Month" recently at Marion Military Institute, Marion Ala., for his outstanding record during his first semester there.

The institute's paper, the Skirmisher, featured the Hamburg youth in its Feb. 2 edition, stating, "The record that Pat made during his first semester is easily envied by all." A freshman at Marion, Hoy is a member of the Band Company, where he received promotion to corporal at the end of the semester. He made the semester Commandant's Honor Roll list. He has a principal appointment to West Point and plans to enter there in the fall of this year.

Young Hoy is the son of Mrs. Nan Jo Hoy and is a 1956 honor graduate of the Hamburg High school.

Odlum Bets $40 Million On Business Of Uranium

NEW YORK, Feb. 9 (AP)—Floyd B. Odlum and the Atlas Corp. are betting 40 million dollars on uranium.

That's the amount of money the investment trust headed by Odlum has invested in uranium mines, mining claims and part ownership of a mill. Most of the properties are in a 5-mile by 2-mile patch of hill country near Moab, Utah, in which Atlas owns or controls about five per cent of the United States' uranium reserves.

The balding, bespectacled financier who has been prominent in financial circles ever since he turned Atlas' investments into cash and other liquid assets just before the 1929 stock market crash, said he had no fears Atlas was putting too many eggs into a uranium basket, so to speak. He pointed to the fact that the Atomic Energy Commission has contracted to buy all uranium produced in this country through 1966 at a fixed price.

"We're close to pulling money out of uranium now," he added. "We have another shaft down at Lisbon and we're starting a third shaft."

He was referring to Atlas' holdings in Lisbon Uranium Corp., which has well over 500,000 tons of commercial grade ore established in 60 mining claims in the Moab area. In addition, Hidden Splendor Mining Co., another Atlas subsidiary, is operating the Almar mine near Moab and the Delta mine in another part of Utah. Odlum last summer valued the Almar mine's ores at 36 million dollars.

Uranium is the largest of the various "special situations" in which Atlas has invested better than two-thirds of its 100-odd million dollars in assets. This policy differs from that of most investment companies, which put the bulk of their money in small holdings in widely diversified firms without ever getting enough stock in any one company to control it.

Oil and natural gas properties held by Atlas' wholly owned subsidiary, Petro-Atlas Corp., are valued at 14 million dollars by the company. Petro-Atlas has interests in producing leases in Louisiana, Arkansas, Colorado, Kansas, Nebraska, New Mexico, Oklahoma and Texas, as well as interests in undeveloped leases in those states and in Arizona, Utah, Wyoming and Saskatchewan, Canada.

Other special situations in which Atlas is interested right now are Titeflex, Inc., (flexible metal hoses); the Babb Co. (dealer in aircraft and aircraft engines, parts and accessories) and Northeast Airlines, Inc., which recently started service between New York and Miami, Fla.

Previously the list of "special situations" has included oil, hotels, transcontinental busses, a women's specialty store, utilities, banks, aircraft manufacture and moving pictures, to list a few.

Neither his age (65 on March 30) nor rheumatoid arthritis contracted during World War II service in Washington can slow Odlum on his appointed rounds between New York, his ranch in Indio, Calif., and the various Atlas "special situations."

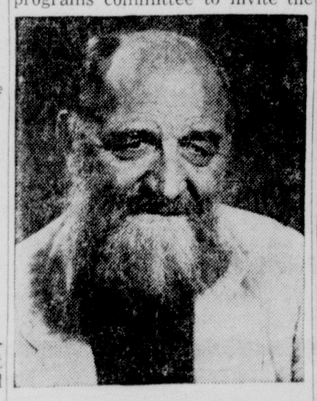
"I spent only 23 days in my downtown office all last year," he said, somewhat apologetically. "How much ground did I cover? Oh, roughly 100,000 miles, virtually all by plane."

Some of that flying was done with his wife, Jacqueline Cochran, famed woman pilot he married in 1936. She is one of the directors of Northeast Airlines, and test flew the Bristol Brittania prop-jet plane before the airline ordered five of the planes for the New York-Miami run.

Viking Sailor Slates Speech At La. Tech

RUSTON, Feb. 9 (Special)—Peter Freuchen, famous Viking who won $64,000 on a television program with his knowledge of the seas, will speak in Howard Auditorium at Louisiana Tech at 9:40 a.m. Wednesday under the auspices of the programs committee of the college.

Tech classes will be shortened to provide for student and faculty attendance. It is the policy of the programs committee to invite the public to college assemblies, for which there is no admission charge.



Freuchen, a bearded peg-legged six-foot-five Dane, is known throughout the world as an author, explorer, trader, sailor, patriot and underground agent.

With the noted explorer, Rasmussen, he formed a trading post at the Thule Colony for the Eskimos. World War I found him governor of the colony, the only white man in the area. Stranded without provisions or ammunition, since no ships ventured that far north for four years, he learned to live as a native foraging for food and living under primitive conditions. From that unusual experience came his subsequent novel, "White Man."

When the Nazis overran Denmark in 1940, Freuchen was jailed for his writings but twice he escaped and went underground to continue harassing the enemy.

Televiewers of the "64,000 Question" were impressed by Freuchen's knowledge of the Seven Seas, the category in which he won the top prize and in which he later tied on the "64,000 Challenge."

Area Doctors Urge Adults To Take Anti-Polio Shots

The Fifth District Medical Society yesterday released a statement urging all persons up to the age of 49 years to get anti-polio shots. The statement by the local group is in line with a recent stand of the American Medical Association.

AL DOHMANN

Jack D. Bolin, General Sales Manager, Ryan-Polk Chevrolet Company, takes pleasure in announcing that Al Dohmann was the top new car salesman for the month of January.

This spot is not new to Al and he invites all his customers to help him make February another record month.—Adv.

Dr. D. R. Hamilton, secretary-treasurer of the group, pointed out there have been no cases of paralytic polio in any person who has had all three of the shots. (The series consists of three shots with the second being given one month after the first shot, and the last one seven months after the second.)

In 1955 the polio vaccination caused a 24 per cent decrease in incidence over 1954; in 1956 the vaccinations were responsible for a 48 per cent decrease over the previous year.

The age of most serious incidence, Dr. Hamilton pointed out, is the young adult, from 20 to 35 years of age. The incidence of polio has increased in this age group in the last two years.

Louisiana is one of the ten states that led the nation in incidence of polio last year.

Serving as Fifth District group officers this year are Dr. Otis Tugwell of Bastrop, president; Dr. W. B. Liles, Monroe, vice-president; and Dr. Hamilton, Monroe, secretary-treasurer.

He has a principal appointment to West Point and plans to enter there in the fall of this year.

A TRIBUTE TO FRIENDSHIP!
Through the years, as we learn to evaluate people and personalities, we find that enduring friendships are one of life's precious jewels. What is more comforting than a treasured visit with someone to whom you can be just your natural self! Do you know what the definition of a friend is? It is a person who knows all your faults but still likes you, in spite of them. None of us is free from faults. That is only human. So we gravitate to those who like us and who, in turn, we think rather special. Let's cherish our friendships and make the most of them . . . lest auld acquaintance be forgot!

Paul Martin Looks 'Em Over

The Ouachita parish school board had its hands full trying to dispose of other matters at its meeting here Thursday night and didn't get around to a discussion of the vacant head football coaching job at West Monroe High School.

But William W. Ward, parish school superintendent, last night said "we expect to get around to it before long," and also said that while many applications for the job are on hand that the job is still wide open and applications for the berth vacated by Howard Barker are still being accepted.

Personally, we were hoping the Rebels would have a head coach in time to spend some spring work with them. We feel that spring work, since all the other schools are doing it, is important to the Rebs and their coach if they expect to make a good showing next season. Only nine days of spring work last year, because of bad weather and having to stop spring drills for other sports like baseball and track, put Barker under a handicap last year as he had to do most of his work in August drills when others were further ahead.

Some crackerjack basketball games are in the making for district championship rivals.

Right now we vision such battles at Ouachita of Monroe and Fair Park of Shreveport in north Louisiana triple-A, Neville of Monroe and Jonesboro-Hodge in 2-AA, and Epps and Holly Ridge in 4-B.

Ouachita and Fair Park, deadlocked for their league's lead and each the conqueror of the other once, can be headed for a playoff to decide the No. 1 and No. 2 teams for the state title playoffs. The same problem exists for Epps and Holly Ridge, provided of course that the H. R. Eagles dispose of Delhi in their last scheduled league scrap. Epps and Holly Ridge each have beaten the other, with Coach Billy Davis' West Carroll parish team through with conference play and awaiting the Holly Ridge-Delhi outcome to see if his boys have a district playoff, and it looks likely unless Delhi has an upset up its sleeve.

Coach Hershel McConathy's Neville quint, of course, is unbeaten in district 2-AA, but it might not be that way after a February 19 trip to Jonesboro. Charles Pixley and Company, beaten on Neville's floor here in a thriller, are just waiting for a chance to get the Monroe Tigers on the J-H hardwoods. Beaten only by Neville, J-H can deadlock the race with a win in their next Neville meeting.

Spearsville High School is priming for its annual Undergraduate Tournament scheduled for February 21-22-23 and open only to high school players who will be eligible next season. No seniors, please. The entry deadline is next Wednesday, and any schools desiring to participate are invited to contact Coach F. F. Futch, Spearsville High School, Lillie, La.

Evans Wins Sicily Island Grid Honor

SICILY ISLAND, La., Feb. 9 (Special) —Sicily Island High School held its annual football banquet, sponsored by the Rotary Club, here this week with guard Lynn Evans being acclaimed "most valuable player" on the Tiger squad last season, and Coach Raymond Peace naming 20 lettermen for his district Class B championship team.

H. C. Peck, president of the Rotary Club, presided at the banquet, and Abner Wimberly, end coach at Louisiana State University, was the guest speaker.

Coach Wimberly delivered an inspirational talk, stressed the importance of athletics, and declared "A black eye or bruise you get on the football field is not quite so serious as the black eye or bruise you get in a pool hall or on a street corner. The football bruises heal, but the others may not."

Following Coach Wimberly's talk Coach Peace presented the awards after first expressing his appreciation to the Rotary Club for making football possible here and for the club's cooperation with athletics at Sicily Island High. Coach Peace complimented the "will to win, team spirit, and cooperation" and physical fitness and training habits that have helped the Tigers to the state Class B semi-final playoffs for three consecutive years.

First awards were presented to Pat Brooks and Linda Krause, seniors and three-year cheerleaders, who were presented gold megaphones, and to first-year cheerleaders Mary Knotts and Francis Smith who received sweaters. Mrs. Thelma Brooks and Mrs. Anita Oliphant were complimented for their pep squad work.

Then Dean Wiggins was named football captain, and Charles Enright as co-captain, followed by presentation of Coach Speights, assistant varsity and pee wee coach, who gave merit awards to pee wee gridders Paul Wiggins, Joe Ready, Lamar Stringer, Leslie Enright, Charles Miller, Albert Patten, Billy Barron, Joe Raymond Peace, Carey Fairbanks, Lester Barron, Joe Wells, Clarence Mason, Mike Haley, Casey Weeks, Clarendon Peck, Benton Blackman, John Knotts, Mark Cox, Bill Gambrell, Craig Brooks, Kenneth Bird, Grady Weeks, Johnny Young, Talmadge Ashley, and Albert Krause.

Louise Bingham, member of the pep squad, then presented a gift to Mrs. Brooks for her work with the squad.

Ray Ready was named winner of the Bendel Trophy, awarded by Dr. W. L. Bendel, the Monroe physician who is a great supporter of youth in this state. The trophy is given annually to the boy who "exemplifies the best sportsmanship on and off the field." He won on a vote of his teammates.

The "most valuable player" trophy, won by Evans, the Tigers' all-state guard and co-captain last season, was donated by Mrs. W. S. Peck Sr. and presented by H. C. Peck in memory of the late W. S. Peck Sr.

H. C. Peck also, in complimenting Coach Peace and his boys for "a job well done," presented Coach Peace with a gift certificate valued at $100.

Lettermen named by Coach Peace were Woodrow Alexander, Billy Wiggins, Dean Wiggins, Reginald Wycoff, Charles Stringer, Lynn Evans, Charles Enright, Tommy Wells, Ray Ready, Johnny Crawford, Allen Cole, William Patten, Donald Wells, Harry Gillespie, James Dennis, Craig King, Harold Watson, Johnny Weston, L. A. Hayes, and George Mason. Four-year letterman Alexander, three-year players Billy Wiggins, Wycoff, Stringer, Evans, Enright, and Wells, and two-year men Dean Wiggins, Ready, and Crawford, were given miniature gold footballs, along with Frank Ready who has served four years as team manager. Other first - year lettermen got jackets.

Coach Peace also announced the 1957 schedule as:

Sept. 6—Lake Providence, here.
Sept. 13—Crowville (Class B conference), there.
Sept. 20—Mangham, there.
Sept. 27—Wisner (B), here.

Casper Nabs 4-Stroke Lead

Third Sub Par Round Enough For Fat Edge

TUCSON, Ariz., Feb. 9 (UP)—Bill Casper Jr., currently the hottest player in pro golf, turned in another dazzling sub-par performance Saturday to increase his lead to four strokes in the $15,000 Tucson Open Golf Tournament.

The 25-year-old Casper from Bonita, Calif., was four under par with a 66 to give him a 54-hole total of 197—13 strokes below par on the 6,434 yard El Rio Country Club course.

Tied for second place were Bob Harris, Winnetka Ill. and steady Dow Finsterwald, Tequesta, Fla., each with a 201.

Harris, who uses a putter manicured with his wife's red nail polish, was one stroke behind Casper going into the third round Saturday but his trouble on four holes that he bogied put him farther back of the front runner. Had it not been for five birdies, Harris would have been out of the running.

Finsterwald continued to play progressively better golf. He shot a 68 opening day, then a 67 Friday and a 66 Saturday, indicating the second leading money winner of 1956 plans to stay in the chips.

Five strokes off the pace were John Cleary, Hartford, Conn., and Don Whitt, Alameda, Calif., each with a third round total of 202. And six strokes back were Joe Zakarian, Escondido, Calif., and Julius Boros, Mid Pines, N.C. with 203s.

Casper, who said his game was "a matter of mental attitude" continued to be the master of the situation. The winner of last week's open had five birdies in his round Saturday, one of which was offset by a bogey.

The tremendous iron and putter man, Casper was true to the pin on most of his approach shots Saturday. However, on the par three eighth hole his tee shot bounced away from the green and onto the side of a bunker, but he calmly and surely chipped it in from 30 feet.

Par continued to take a beating from a large number of the pros. Twenty-seven other players had under par figures in addition to the leaders for 54 holes of golf.

Ed Furgol, St. Andrews, Ill.; Walter Burkemo, Franklin Hills, Mich., and Mike Souchak, Grossinger, N.Y., were tied in the 204 bracket. Doug Ford, Mahopac, N.Y., and Bob Inman, Detroit, were at 205, followed by eight other pros at 206. Two others were at 207, six at 208 and six at 209. An even dozen had matched par. 210 at the three-quarter mark.

Goodman, Daley Ink Bosox Terms

BOSTON, Feb. 9 (AP)—Billy Goodman, one of the American League's few .300 lifetime hitters, and reserve catcher Pete Daley today returned their signed contracts for the 1957 campaign to the Boston Red Sox.

Goodman, who will be 31 in March, played second base most of last year, hitting .296—10 points behind his lifetime mark.

Daley, 27, has served as second string catcher behind Sammy White the past two seasons. He hit .267 while appearing in 59 games in 1956.

Wild Return Match On Kallio Program

It should be another stormy one at Kallio's Wrestling Arena Tuesday night.

Last week's duel ended in a fistic brawl that sent the customers away with something to talk about for a long time, and the same grapplers are scheduled to return for action in this Tueday's tag team main event.

Jack and George Curtis were teamed against "Wild Bill" Steddum and Bernard Hodgemyer when the roughhousing started. In the following exchange both Steddum and Jack received wide face gashes, referee Loy Scarborough's shirt was torn off, and Promoter Gus Kallio stepped in to slug Steddum.

Once the affair was halted, the patrons stood around outside the ring to jeer villains Hodgemyer and Steddum, until they were escorted away to their dressing room. No decision was reached in the match.

Mainly, Steddum and Jack were the center of the wild mixup with both boys leaving the ring wanting to continue the scrap. Strangely enough Steddum, a tall bald Texan, once wrestled with the Curtises in tag events here, but recently returned to his ways of villany.

"See what I done in there," said "Wild Bill" following last week's meeting. "I told you I was going to give the Curtises a real whipping but no one believed me. They know I mean business now. If they don't they'll know it when I take them down another notch next Tuesday. Before I'm through here, people won't even come out to see those cry-baby Curtis brothers."

Steddum was referring to the rematch which he had requested Kallio to make. This week's affair will have the addition of one member to each team. Buddy Royal joins the Curtis clan while Phil Brummett moves into the villains' corner.

The sun - tanned Texan also asked that he meet Jack in a preliminary without a referee. Curtis accepted and the match was placed on the card. Two more shorties will give the bone twisters an opportunity to warm up for the main event.

The six-man scramble will have a 90-minute time limit with two falls needed to win. Scarborough and the Louisiana Cajun, Bill Barney, will referee.

Romack Wins Palm Beach

PALM BEACH, Fla., Feb. 9 (UP)—Barbara Romack of Sacramento, Calif., easily won the 39th annual Palm Beach Women's Amateur Golf championship Saturday with a 4 and 3 victory over Alice O'Neal Dye, an Indianapolis, Ind., housewife who couldn't avoid the traps.

Mrs. Dye, young mother of two, had not anticipated reaching the final and proved no match for Miss Romack, former national Amateur champion. Mrs. Dye put her ball in eight traps on the 15 holes necessary to decide the title and Miss Romack needed little better than par golf to win.

Both girls played evenly on the first four holes. Mrs. Dye went in front for the first and only time on the fifth when she dropped a 28-foot putt for a par after blasting from her third trap.

But she lost the lead on the eighth hole when her ball landed in a trap again and she took a double-bogey six. Par golf on the next three holes put Miss Romack 3-up as Mrs. Dye hit more traps and also knocked a tee shot out of bounds.

Mrs. Dye won the 14th with a fine chip shot and five-foot putt for a birdie three, but she lost the 15th hole and the match when she missed a five-footer as Miss Romack sank a two-footer for a par.

Mrs. Dye said she had played in the tournament only to warm up for the Everglades mixed foursome event next week for which she had accepted an invitation at the last minute. Her golf proved better than she expected and she found herself in the final.

Terrang Wins Upset Victory To Pay $25.30

ARCADIA, Calif., Feb. 9 (AP)—Terrang won the $57,800 San Antonio Handicap before 49,500 fans at Santa Anita Park, upsetting the favored Mister Gus and Holandes II.

Honeys Alibi was second and there was a photo for third.

The time for the mile and one eighth was 1.47 2-5, a new track record. The old mark was 1.48 1-5, set by Your Host in 1951.

Social Climber won out in the photo for third and Duc De Fer was fourth.

The winner paid $25.20, $10.20 and $4.40; Honeys Alibi $4.90 and $2.90, Social Climber $2.60.

Sox' Donovan, Esposito Sign For '57 Season

CHICAGO, Feb. 9 (AP)—The Chicago White Sox' total of players signed for 1957 reached 30 today as pitcher Dick Donovan, a 12-game winner last season, and reserve infielder Sam Esposito came to terms. The Sox still have 10 players unsigned.

Donovan, 28, has been a winner since the Sox bought him from Atlanta of the Southern Association after the 1954 season. The sturdy right-hander had a 15-9 record in 1955 although handicapped by an appendectomy which shelved him for six weeks. More than anything else, it probably was this loss of Donovan which cost the Sox the 1955 American League pennant.

Last season, Donovan started slowly with a 4-4 record for the first half of the campaign. He rallied in the second half for an 8-6 record and a final mark of 12-10. Donovan issued only 59 bases on balls, topped only by Washington's Chuck Stobbs, who led league regulars with fewest passes, 54.

Esposito, who played mainly third base, batted only .228 last season. But his timely hitting started an unprecedented White Sox sweep of four games from the New York Yankees in midseason Esposito, 24, was the second best hitter in the recently ended Dominican Republic League season with .307 for the Licey club.

Schoendienst Inks Contract For $35,000

NEW YORK, Feb. 9 (AP)—Red Schoendienst, New York Giants second baseman, today signed his contract for a reported $35,000 salary.

Schoendienst, 34, was the only Giant to hit .300 last year, finishing with a .302 average in 132 games with both the St. Louis Cardinals and Giants. He was traded to the Giants in June.

Eddie Brannick, Giants' secretary, reported Schoendienst had told the club his right arm had not bothered him a bit during the winter, he was in fine condition and ready to play ball. Schoendienst was not able to play with the Giants for some days after the trade because of a lame arm.

The veteran has been mentioned often in trade rumors, usually involving the Milwaukee Braves.

With Schoendienst in the fold, the Giants have only four more men to sign—pitchers Curt Barclay and Jim Constable and infielders Foster Castleman and Daryl Spencer.

Sparring Mate, Valdes Settle Short Quarrel

LONDON, Feb. 9 (AP) — Tempers simmered down today in the Leroy Street Gym and Kitione Lave, a minister's son from Tonga, was put back on the payroll as a sparring partner for Cuban heavyweight Nino Valdes.

Lave was hired yesterday and his employment lasted just one furious round.

Valdes, who is training for his Feb. 19 fight with British heavyweight champion Joe Erskine, and Lave were mixing it up as if they were a pair of wildcats.

The bell clanged ending round one but the boys kept on slugging. Again and again the bell rang but Valdes and Lave kept hammering.

Finally, Tobey Noble, owner of the gym, dived through the ropes and grabbed Valdes. The Cuban's manager, Dave Edar, pounced on the Tonga thumper. Both fighters accused the other of excessive roughhouse tactics.

Valdes, who wants to save his Sunday punches for Erskine, fired Lave, but handlers later got the two together at a peace parley.

"I don't want anybody losing his temper," said Promoter Jack Solomons who negotiated the conciliation meeting. "If they do, we'll call a halt right away."

SUGAR KINGS SELL DELIS

HAVANA, Feb. 9 (UP)— The Havana Sugar Kings of the International League announced Saturday they have sold outfielder Juan Delis to Seattle of the Pacific Coast League.

Temple's Rodgers Newest Cage Star

By RALPH BERNSTEIN

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 9 (AP)—If there is a better basketball player in America than Temple University's version of the pro's Bob Cousy, then Philadelphia's collegiate coaches would like to see him.

Guy Rodgers, the 61foot Negro ace whose handling and all-around court maneuvers have sent coaches, players and spectators home talking to themselves, almost unanimously has been acclaimed as one of the finest ever to play in this hot bed of college basketball.

And that's no small honor when you remember that in recent years, the Philadelphia area has produced such stars as Tom Gola, aul Arizin, Bill Mlkvy, Hal (King) Lear, the Senesky brothers, George and Paul, a gent in Kansas named Wilt (The Stilt) Chamberlain, Larry Hennessey, Bob Schaefer, Larry Foust. You could go on and on and on, but there is a pretty fair sampling.

Wherever you go in basketball circles the talk eventually turns to Rodgers. Four of the local coaches recently attended a Philadelphia basketball writers luncheon and here's what they had to say about the Temple ace:

Jack McCloskey, Penn—"Rodgers is truly an All-America. All teams have set their defense to stop him and he has demonstrated the ability to cope with any of them. He is a fantastic ball handler and feeder as well as a scorer, but above all, I believe he inspires his teammates to greater heights."

Jack Ramsay, St. Joseph's — "Rodgers is the beat collegiate fast break artist I've seen X X X He also is valuable when the defense is set. In short he makes Temple a very tough team to beat."

Birney Crum, whose Muhlenberg teams have felt the sting of Rodgers' drive, lauded the 21-year-old speedster as "one of the greatest basketball players I've ever seen. I would put him in a class with (Bib) Cousy. I've never seen a kid who is as cool under fire. He's a great competitor and a coach's once in a lifetime."

Rodgers, who as a senior topped Wilt the Stilt in a battle for Public High League scoring honors, averages about 24 points a game. But his true value shows up in the assist column. Hustling Guy has handed out more than 130 assists in 18 games, an average of better than seven a game. He connects with 70 per cent of his foul tries and 40 per cent of his field goal efforts.

Coach Harry Litwack of Temple has run out of words to describe his ace. He settles now for what he considers the supreme compliment. "Before Rodgers graduates in 1958, he'll be as good as Cousy was when Bob graduated from Holy Cross," says the usually reticent Litwack.

Rodgers' quietest admirer is Eddie Gottlieb, owner of the pro Philadelphia Warriors. Eddie feels like the cat who ate the canary. In two years he'll have Rodgers in his backcourt and Wilt The Stilt and Tom Gola (now in service) under the basket.

Rosewall Tags Gonzales For 3rd At Sydney

SYDNEY, Feb. 9 (AP)—Ken Rosewall, onetime Australian Davis Cup star, smothered a weary Pancho Gonzales of Los Angeles, 6-1, 6-4, 6-2 for third place in the professional tennis tournament tonight and promised that "I'll get my share of wins in America."

Pancho Segura of Ecuador, who spilled Gonzales in five tight sets yesterday, and Frank Sedgman of Australia, play for the No. 1 spot tomorrow. Then the troupe moves to New York where Rosewall will make his American debut in Madison Square Garden on Sunday, Feb. 17.

Gonzales was tired and disgruntled after losing his third straight match to Rosewall.

"The trouble might be mental, it's hard to say," he said sadly. "I've been trying hard to win this tournament, but I've just got a tired feeling. Maybe the five-set matches I've been playing against Rosewall has something to do with it."

The hard - hitting Californian leads his Australian rival 7-3 after 10 of their scheduled 100 meetings this year.

A partisan crowd of 5,000 roared its delight as Rosewall quickly took command. After Gonzales broke the Australian's service in the very first game of the match, Rosewall took the next eight games, rarely failing to hit a clean winner with volleys from all parts of the court.

Rosewall, who opened the last two sets by taking two love games, throughout handled Gonzales' service with ease.

An indication of the strength of Rosewall's service was that he lost only two points in his four services in the third set. Both were in the last game.

The victory was worth $1,680 to Rosewall, who turned pro last December after helping Australia sweep the American challengers 5-0 and retain the Davis Cup. Gonzales receives $1,344 for fourth place.

Segura and Australia's Frank Sedgman will play off for first prize money of almost $5,000 tomorrow.

French Bleu Takes Gulf Coast Feature

By ED TUNSTALL

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 9 (AP)—French Bleu, a stranger to the winner's circle for eight months, caught the speedy Judge Ray K. at the top of the stretch today and outlasted Full Flight to win the featured $4,000 Gulf Coast Purse at the Fair Grounds.

The six-year-old gelding, owned by Mrs. Sadye Smith, stayed close to the pace in the early stages of the six furlong feature. He caught Judge Ray K. at the turn for home and finished a neck in front of Full Flight.

Fourth choice of the crowd of 14,443, French Bleu returned $12.-40, $6.60 and $5. Valley View farm's Full Flight, second choice behind Judge Ray K. paid $4.80 and $3.40 with Mrs. C. B. Fishback's High Ore taking the show spot and returning $3.60.

Jockey Johnny Heckmann sent Judge Ray K. out of the gate first and took a length lead as the nine horse field straightened out in the back stretch.

French Bleu raced along side Judge Ray K. for the first half mile and jockey George Glassner sent the Smith gelding into the lead at the head of the stretch.

Both Full Flight and High Ore lodged stout challengers in the final yards, but Glassner nursed French Bleu across the finish line.

French Bleu, whose last victory was as Chicago last May, toured the distance in a comparatively slow one minute and 12 seconds although the track was lightening fast.

In a supporting race for 2-year-olds, Mr. Mo tied the track record by speeding five sixteenths of a mile in 26 1-5 seconds.

Mr. Mo, owned by Maurice Schoultz of Covington, La., finished two and a half lengths in front of Happy Guy, the even money favorite and returned 16. It was the third straight victory for Mr. Mo in as many starts.

The daily double returned $23.-80 with Early Bama ($5.80) smothering his field in the first race and Oiseau Rouge ($10) finishing with a rush to take the second.

Betting on the nine race card amounted to $708,705.

Paul Martin Looks 'Em Over

The Ouachita parish school board had its hands full trying to dispose of other matters at its meeting here Thursday night and didn't get around to a discussion of the vacant head football coaching job at West Monroe High School.

But William W. Ward, parish school superintendent, last night said "we expect to get around to it before long," and also said that while many applications for the job are on hand that the job is still wide open and applications for the berth vacated by Howard Barker are still being accepted.

Personally, we were hoping the Rebels would have a head coach in time to spend some spring work with them. We feel that spring work, since all the other schools are doing it, is important to the Rebs and their coach if they expect to make a good showing next season. Only nine days of spring work last year, because of bad weather and having to stop spring drills for other sports like baseball and track, put Barker under a handicap last year as he had to do most of his work in August drills when others were further ahead.

Some crackerjack basketball games are in the making for district championship rivals.

Right now we vision such battles at Ouachita of Monroe and Fair Park of Shreveport in north Louisiana triple-A, Neville of Monroe and Jonesboro-Hodge in 2-AA, and Epps and Holly Ridge in 4-B.

Ouachita and Fair Park, deadlocked for their league's lead and each the conqueror of the other once, can be headed for a playoff to decide the No. 1 and No. 2 teams for the state title playoffs. The same problem exists for Epps and Holly Ridge, provided of course that the H. R. Eagles dispose of Delhi in their last scheduled league scrap. Epps and Holly Ridge each have beaten the other, with Coach Billy Davis' West Carroll parish team through with conference play and awaiting the Holly Ridge-Delhi outcome to see if his boys have a district playoff, and it looks likely unless Delhi has an upset up its sleeve.

Coach Hershel McConathy's Neville quint, of course, is unbeaten in district 2-AA, but it might not be that way after a February 19 trip to Jonesboro. Charles Pixley and Company, beaten on Neville's floor here in a thriller, are just waiting for a chance to get the Monroe Tigers on the J-H hardwoods. Beaten only by Neville, J-H can deadlock the race with a win in their next Neville meeting.

Spearsville High School is priming for its annual Undergraduate Tournament scheduled for February 21-22-23 and open only to high school players who will be eligible next season. No seniors, please. The entry deadline is next Wednesday, and any schools desiring to participate are invited to contact Coach F. F. Futch, Spearsville High School, Lillie, La.

Casper Nabs 4-Stroke Lead

Third Sub Par Round Enough For Fat Edge

TUCSON, Ariz., Feb. 9 (UP)—Bill Casper Jr., currently the hottest player in pro golf, turned in another dazzling sub-par performance Saturday to increase his lead to four strokes in the $15,000 Tucson Open Golf Tournament.

The 25-year-old Casper from Bonita, Calif., was four under par with a 66 to give him a 54-hole total of 197—13 strokes below par on the 6,434 yard El Rio Country Club course.

Tied for second place were Bob Harris, Winnetka Ill. and steady Dow Finsterwald, Tequesta, Fla., each with a 201.

Harris, who uses a putter manicured with his wife's red nail polish, was one stroke behind Casper going into the third round Saturday but his trouble on four holes that he bogied put him farther back of the front runner. Had it not been for five birdies, Harris would have been out of the running.

Finsterwald continued to play progressively better golf. He shot a 68 opening day, then a 67 Friday and a 66 Saturday, indicating the second leading money winner of 1956 plans to stay in the chips.

Five strokes off the pace were John Cleary, Hartford, Conn., and Don Whitt, Alameda, Calif., each with a third round total of 202. And six strokes back were Joe Zakarian, Escondido, Calif., and Julius Boros, Mid Pines, N.C. with 203s.

Casper, who said his game was "a matter of mental attitude" continued to be the master of the situation. The winner of last week's open had five birdies in his round Saturday, one of which was offset by a bogey.

The tremendous iron and putter man, Casper was true to the pin on most of his approach shots Saturday. However, on the par three eighth hole his tee shot bounced away from the green and onto the side of a bunker, but he calmly and surely chipped it in from 30 feet.

Par continued to take a beating from a large number of the pros. Twenty-seven other players had under par figures in addition to the leaders for 54 holes of golf.

Ed Furgol, St. Andrews, Ill.; Walter Burkemo, Franklin Hills, Mich., and Mike Souchak, Grossinger, N.Y., were tied in the 204 bracket. Doug Ford, Mahopac, N.Y., and Bob Inman, Detroit, were at 205, followed by eight other pros at 206. Two others were at 207, six at 208 and six at 209. An even dozen had matched par, 210 at the three-quarter mark.

Romack Wins Palm Beach

PALM BEACH, Fla., Feb. 9 (UP)—Barbara Romack of Sacramento, Calif., easily won the 39th annual Palm Beach Women's Amateur Golf championship Saturday with a 4 and 3 victory over Alice O'Neal Dye, an Indianapolis, Ind., housewife who couldn't avoid the traps.

Mrs. Dye, young mother of two, had not anticipated reaching the final and proved no match for Miss Romack, former national Amateur champion. Mrs. Dye put her ball in eight traps on the 15 holes necessary to decide the title and Miss Romack needed little better than par golf to win.

Both girls played evenly on the first four holes. Mrs. Dye went in front for the first and only time on the fifth when she dropped a 28-foot putt for a par after blasting from her third trap.

But she lost the lead on the eighth hole when her ball landed in a trap again and she took a double-bogey six. Par golf on the next three holes put Miss Romack 3-up as Mrs. Dye hit more traps and also knocked a tee shot out of bounds.

Mrs. Dye won the 14th with a fine chip shot and five-foot putt for a birdie three, but she lost the 15th hole and the match when she missed a five-footer as Miss Romack sank a two-footer for a par.

Mrs. Dye said she had played in the tournament only to warm up for the Everglades mixed foursome event next week for which she had accepted an invitation at the last minute. Her golf proved better than she expected and she found herself in the final.

Terrang Wins Upset Victory To Pay $25.30

ARCADIA, Calif., Feb. 9 (UP)—Terrang won the $57,800 San Antonio Handicap before 49,500 fans at Santa Anita Park, upsetting the favored Mister Gus and Holandes II.

Honeys Alibi was second and there was a photo for third.

The time for the mile and one eighth was 1.47 2-5, a new track record. The old mark was 1.48 1-5, set by Your Host in 1951.

Social Climber won out in the photo for third and Duc De Fer was fourth.

The winner paid $25.20, $10.20 and $4.40; Honeys Alibi $4.90 and $2.90, Social Climber $2.60.

Sox' Donovan, Esposito Sign For '57 Season

CHICAGO, Feb. 9 (AP)—The Chicago White Sox' total of players signed for 1957 reached 30 today as pitcher Dick Donovan, a 12-game winner last season, and reserve infielder Sam Esposito came to terms. The Sox still have 10 players unsigned.

Donovan, 28, has been a winner since the Sox bought him from Atlanta of the Southern Association after the 1954 season. The sturdy right-hander had a 15-9 record in 1955 although handicapped by an appendectomy which shelved him for six weeks. More than anything else, it probably was this loss of Donovan which cost the Sox the 1955 American League pennant.

Last season, Donovan started slowly with a 4-4 record for the first half of the campaign. He rallied in the second half for an 8-6 record and a final mark of 12-10. Donovan issued only 59 bases on balls, topped only by Washington's Chuck Stobbs, who led league regulars with fewest passes, 54.

Esposito, who played mainly third base, batted only .228 last season. But his timely hitting started an unprecedented White Sox sweep of four games from the New York Yankees in midseason Esposito, 24, was the second best hitter in the recently ended Dominican Republic League season with .307 for the Licey club.

Goodman, Daley Ink Bosox Terms

BOSTON, Feb. 9 (AP)—Billy Goodman, one of the American League's few .300 lifetime hitters, and reserve catcher Pete Daley today returned their signed contracts for the 1957 campaign to the Boston Red Sox.

Goodman, who will be 31 in March, played second base most of last year, hitting .296—10 points behind his lifetime mark.

Daley, 27, has served as second string catcher behind Sammy White the past two seasons. He hit .267 while appearing in 59 games in 1956.

Schoendienst Inks Contract For $35,000

NEW YORK, Feb. 9 (AP)—Red Schoendienst, New York Giants second baseman, today signed his contract for a reported $35,000 salary.

Schoendienst, 34, was the only Giant to hit .300 last year, finishing with a .302 average in 132 games with both the St. Louis Cardinals and Giants. He was traded to the Giants in June.

Eddie Brannick, Giants' secretary, reported Schoendienst had told the club his right arm had not bothered him a bit during the winter, he was in fine condition and ready to play ball. Schoendienst was not able to play with the Giants for some days after the trade because of a lame arm.

The veteran has been mentioned often in trade rumors, usually involving the Milwaukee Braves.

With Schoendienst in the fold, the Giants have only four more men to sign—pitchers Curt Barclay and Jim Constable and infielders Foster Castleman and Daryl Spencer.

Sparring Mate, Valdes Settle Short Quarrel

LONDON, Feb. 9 (AP)—Tempers simmered down today in the Leroy Street Gym and Kitione Lave, a minister's son from Tonga, was put back on the payroll as a sparring partner for Cuban heavyweight Nino Valdes.

Lave was hired yesterday and his employment lasted just one furious round.

Valdes, who is training for his Feb. 19 fight with British heavyweight champion Joe Erskine, and Lave were mixing it up as if they were a pair of wildcats.

The bell clanged ending round one but the boys kept on slugging. Again and again the bell rang but Valdes and Lave kept hammering.

Finally, Tobey Noble, owner of the gym, dived through the ropes and grabbed Valdes. The Cuban's manager, Dave Edar, pounced on the Tonga thumper. Both fighters accused the other of excessive roughhouse tactics.

Valdes, who wants to save his Sunday punches for Erskine, fired Lave, but handlers later got the two together at a peace parley.

"I don't want anybody losing his temper," said Promoter Jack Solomons who negotiated the conciliation meeting. "If they do, we'll call a halt right away."

SUGAR KINGS SELL DELIS

HAVANA, Feb. 9 (UP)— The Havana Sugar Kings of the International League announced Saturday they have sold outfielder Juan Delis to Seattle of the Pacific Coast League.

Temple's Rodgers Newest Cage Star

By RALPH BERNSTEIN

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 9 (AP)—If there is a better basketball player in America than Temple University's version of the pro's Bob Cousy, then Philadelphia's collegiate coaches would like to see him.

Guy Rodgers, the 61foot Negro ace whose handling and all-around court maneuvers have sent coaches, players and spectators home talking to themselves, almost unanimously has been acclaimed as one of the finest ever to play in this hot bed of college basketball.

And that's no small honor when you remember that in recent years, the Philadelphia area has produced such stars as Tom Gola, aul Arizin, Bill Mlkvy, Hal (King) Lear, the Senesky brothers, George and Paul, a gent in Kansas named Wilt (The Stilt) Chamberlain, Larry Hennessey, Bob Schaefer, Larry Foust. You could go on and on and on, but there is a pretty fair sampling.

Wherever you go in basketball circles the talk eventually turns to Rodgers. Four of the local coaches recently attended a Philadelphia basketball writers luncheon and here's what they had to say about the Temple ace:

Jack McCloskey, Penn—"Rodgers is truly an All-America. All teams have set their defense to stop him and he has demonstrated the ability to cope with any of them. He is a fantastic ball handler and feeder as well as a scorer, but above all, I believe he inspires his teammates to greater heights."

Jack Ramsay, St. Joseph's—"Rodgers is the beat collegiate fast break artist I've seen X X X He also is valuable when the defense is set. In short he makes Temple a very tough team to beat."

Birney Crum, whose Muhlenberg teams have felt the sting of Rodgers' drive, lauded the 21-year-old speedster as "one of the greatest basketball players I've ever seen. I would put him in a class with (Bib) Cousy. I've never seen a kid who is as cool under fire. He's a great competitor and a coach's once in a lifetime."

Rodgers, who as a senior topped Wilt the Stilt in a battle for Public High League scoring honors, averages about 24 points a game. But his true value shows up in the assist column. Hustling Guy has handed out more than 130 assists in 18 games, an average of better than seven a game. He connects with 70 per cent of his foul tries and 40 per cent of his field goal efforts.

Coach Harry Litwack of Temple has run out of words to describe his ace. He settles now for what he considers the supreme compliment. "Before Rodgers graduates in 1958, he'll be as good as Cousy was when Bob graduated from Holy Cross," says the usually reticent Litwack.

Rodgers' quietest admirer is Eddie Gottlieb, owner of the pro Philadelphia Warriors. Eddie feels like the cat who ate the canary. In two years he'll have Rodgers in his backcourt and Wilt The Stilt and Tom Gola (now in service) under the basket.

Rosewall Tags Gonzales For 3rd At Sydney

SYDNEY, Feb. 9 (AP)—Ken Rosewall, onetime Australian Davis Cup star, smothered a weary Pancho Gonzales of Los Angeles, 6-1, 6-4, 6-2 for third place in the professional tennis tournament tonight and promised that "I'll get my share of wins in America."

Pancho Segura of Ecuador, who spilled Gonzales in five tight sets yesterday, and Frank Sedgman of Australia, play for the No. 1 spot tomorrow. Then the troupe moves to New York where Rosewall will make his American debut in Madison Square Garden on Sunday, Feb. 17.

Gonzales was tired and disgruntled after losing his third straight match to Rosewall.

"The trouble might be mental, it's hard to say," he said sadly. "I've been trying hard to win this tournament, but I've just got a tired feeling. Maybe the five-set matches I've been playing against Rosewall has something to do with it."

The hard - hitting Californian leads his Australian rival 7-3 after 10 of their scheduled 100 meetings this year.

A partisan crowd of 5,000 roared its delight as Rosewall quickly took command. After Gonzales broke the Australian's service in the very first game of the match, Rosewall took the next eight games, rarely failing to hit a clean winner with volleys from all parts of the court.

Rosewall, who opened the last two sets by taking two love games, throughout handled Gonzales' service with ease.

An indication of the strength of Rosewall's service was that he lost only two points in his four services in the third set. Both were in the last game.

The victory was worth $1,680 to Rosewall, who turned pro last December after helping Australia sweep the American challengers 5-0 and retain the Davis Cup. Gonzales receives $1,344 for fourth place.

Segura and Australia's Frank Sedgman will play off for first prize money of almost $5,000 tomorrow.

Evans Wins Sicily Island Grid Honor

SICILY ISLAND, La., Feb. 9 (Special)—Sicily Island High School held its annual football banquet, sponsored by the Rotary Club, here this week with guard Lynn Evans being acclaimed "most valuable player" on the Tiger squad last season, and Coach Raymond Peace naming 20 lettermen for his district Class B championship team.

H. C. Peck, president of the Rotary Club, presided at the banquet, and Abner Wimberly, end coach at Louisiana State University, was the guest speaker.

Coach Wimberly delivered an inspirational talk, stressed the importance of athletics, and declared "A black eye or bruise you get on the football field is not quite so serious as the black eye or bruise you get in a pool hall or on a street corner. The football bruises heal, but the others may not."

Following Coach Wimberly's talk Coach Peace presented the awards after first expressing his appreciation to the Rotary Club for making football possible here and for the club's cooperation with athletics at Sicily Island High. Coach Peace complimented the "will to win, team spirit, and cooperation" and physical fitness and training habits that have helped the Tigers to the state Class B semi-final playoffs for three consecutive years.

Louise Bingham, member of the pep squad, then presented a gift to Mrs. Brooks for her work with the squad.

Ray Ready was named winner of the Bendel Trophy, awarded by Dr. W. L. Bendel, the Monroe physician who is a great supporter of youth in this state. The trophy is given annually to the boy who "exemplifies the best sportsmanship on and off the field." He won on a vote of his teammates.

The "most valuable player" trophy, won by Evans, the Tigers' all-state guard and co-captain last season, was donated by Mrs. W. S. Peck Sr. and presented by H. C. Peck in memory of the late W. S. Peck Sr.

Wild Return Match On Kallio Program

It should be another stormy one at Kallio's Wrestling Arena Tuesday night.

Last week's duel ended in a fistic brawl that sent the customers away with something to talk about for a long time, and the same grapplers are scheduled to return for action in this Tueday's tag team main event.

Jack and George Curtis were teamed against "Wild Bill" Steddum and Bernard Hodgemyer when the roughhousing started. In the following exchange both Steddum and Jack received wide face gashes, referee Loy Scarborough's shirt was torn off, and Promoter Gus Kallio stepped in to slug Steddum.

Once the affair was halted, the patrons stood around outside the ring to jeer villains Hodgemyer and Steddum, until they were escorted away to their dressing room. No decision was reached in the match.

Mainly, Steddum and Jack were the center of the wild mixup with both boys leaving the ring wanting to continue the scrap. Strangely enough Steddum, a tall bald Texan, once wrestled with the Curtises in tag events here, but recently returned to his ways of villany.

"See what I done in there," said "Wild Bill" following last week's meeting. "I told you I was going to give the Curtises a real whipping but no one believed me. They know I mean business now. If they don't they'll know it when I take them down another notch next Tuesday. Before I'm through here, people won't even come out to see those cry-baby Curtis brothers."

Steddum was referring to the rematch which he had requested Kallio to make. This week's affair will have the addition of one member to each team. Buddy Royal joins the Curtis clan while Phil Brummett moves into the villains' corner.

The sun - tanned Texan also asked that he meet Jack in a preliminary without a referee. Curtis accepted and the match was placed on the card. Two more shorties will give the bone twisters an opportunity to warm up for the main event.

The six-man scramble will have a 90-minute time limit with two falls needed to win. Scarborough and the Louisiana Cajun, Bill Barney, will referee.

Jackson Sparks Gulf Coast Feature

By ED TUNSTALL

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 9 (AP)—French Bleu, a stranger to the winner's circle for eight months, caught the speedy Judge Ray K. at the top of the stretch today and outlasted Full Flight to win the featured $4,000 Gulf Coast Purse at the Fair Grounds.

The six-year-old gelding, owned by Mrs. Sadye Smith, stayed close to the pace in the early stages of the six furlong feature. He caught Judge Ray K. at the turn for home and finished a neck in front of Full Flight.

Fourth choice of the crowd of 14,443, French Bleu returned $12.40, $6.60 and $5. Valley View farm's Full Flight, second choice behind Judge Ray K. paid $4.80 and $3.40 with Mrs. C. B. Fishback's High Ore taking the show spot and returning $3.60.

Jockey Johnny Heckmann sent Judge Ray K. out of the gate first and took a length lead as the nine horse field straightened out in the back stretch.

French Bleu raced along side Judge Ray K. for the first half mile and jockey George Glassner sent the Smith gelding into the lead at the head of the stretch.

Both Full Flight and High Ore lodged stout challengers in the final yards, but Glassner nursed French Bleu across the finish line.

French Bleu, whose last victory was at Chicago last May, toured the distance in a comparatively slow one minute and 12 seconds although the track was lightening fast.

In a supporting race for 2-year-olds, Mr. Mo tied the track record by speeding five sixteenths of a mile in 26 1-5 seconds.

Mr. Mo, owned by Maurice Schoultz of Covington, La., finished two and a half lengths in front of Happy Guy, the even money favorite and returned 16. It was the third straight victory for Mr. Mo in as many starts.

The daily double returned $23.80 with Early Bama ($5.80) smothering his field in the first race and Oiseau Rouge ($10) finishing with a rush to take the second.

Betting on the nine race card amounted to $708,705.

Vandy Slaps LSU Into 78-66 Loss

By W. B. RAGSDALE

BATON ROUGE, Feb. 9 (AP) — Vanderbilt offset deadly Louisiana State shooting with a ball-hawking defense and control of the backboard tonight for a 78-66 Southeastern Conference victory over LSU.

LSU popped in 23 of 49 shots for a 46.9 percentage while Vanderbilt hit on 27 of 73 for 36.9, but the Commodores grabbed 55 rebounds while LSU took only 26. Vanderbilt recovered 16 offensive rebounds to five for LSU.

LSU jumped off to a 10-point lead in the first half before a Vandy rally tied the score at 39-39 at the half.

Vanderbilt continued its hot streak in the second half and pulled away to a 17-point lead in the first seven minutes at 62-45. LSU could come no closer than a nine-point deficit the rest of the way.

Vandy has a 13-4 for the season, including 6-3 in SEC play. LSU has a 6-13 overall record and 1-7 in the conference.

Dom Merle of LSU and Bobby Thym of Vandy tied for scoring honors, each with 21 points. Merle touched off the first half LSU rally with six straight field goals and hit nine of 13 shots for the game.

Lions Point For Rebs, Tigers

LaSalle, Fair Park Cagers Also Visiting

The Ouachita Parish High School Lions get all their basketball action on the home front this week against the West Monroe Rebels and the Neville High Tigers.

In addition to their dates with Ouachita, the Rebels also meet Fair Park of Shreveport, and Neville tangles with LaSalle of Olla.

The Ouachita quint, sharing first place with Fair Park in the district 1-AAA scramble, seek to hold their place at the top in their duel with West Monroe on the O.P.H.S. floor Tuesday night. Coach Herbert H. Holliman's Lions beat West Monroe in their only league encounter of the season, but the Rebel charges of Coach L. V. Norris toppled the Lions in the finals of the recent West Monroe tourney.

Coach Hershel McConathy sends his Neville forces against an invasion of LaSalle Tigers in the Neville gym, also Tuesday night.

The week's Neville - Ouachita get-together comes off Thursday night in the Neville gym with the Lions seeking to avenge three earlier losses by mighty close scores, two of them in tournament play.

West Monroe originally was scheduled to play Fair Park in the West Monroe gym Thursday night, but the game probably will be set back to Friday night.

Coach Norris said last night he had a request from Fair Park to play some night other than Thursday "because of some conflict they have on that night. I wrote then that Friday would be satisfactory with us but so far haven't heard from them on the change."

Both West Monroe games are conference clashes, none of Neville's are league affairs.

All shows for the week are boys and girls' double headers except the West Monroe-Fair Park meeting which will feature boys only.

Neville meanwhile is pointing for its all-important February 19 journey to Jonesboro - Hodge and their meeting with the J-H Tigers and a possible settlement of the district race. Neville has handed J-H its only loss in the conference, but a win by the Jackson parish quint could deadlock the race.

'NO MERCY' IN BARNEY'S FILM—Barney Ross, who won three boxing titles in his fistic days, tells actor Cameron Mitchell "it looks real" as he examines his make-up job on the set of "The Barney Ross Story." Mitchell is portraying Ross and this is how he (Ross) looked after losing his title to Henry Armstrong in 1938, Barney said. Barney told producers to "show me no mercy," and they're doing that, including his addiction to narcotics and subsequent recovery. (AP Wirephoto)

Bobbers Face Melting Track In World Run

ST. MORITZ, Switzerland, Feb. 9 (AP)—Arthur Tyler, 41-year-old American physicist, shot his number 1 U.S.A. sled down the classic St. Moritz course in the four-man world bobsled championships today in 1:17.85, the fastest time of any of the 15 competitors, but a warm sun slowed him on his second descent and he lost the lead to Hans Zoller's Swiss No. 1.

A violent controversy immediately boiled up over the dangerous condition of the course.

Tyler, from Rochester, N. Y., was timed in 1:20.02 on his second run for a total of 2:37.87. Zoller made his two runs in 1:18.09 and 1:18.38 for 2:36.47. This put him first, with two more runs to be made tomorrow.

Tyler held second place by a scant margin over Italy's No. 1 which did 1:19.20, 1:18.70—2:37.90.

The bobbers steered crazy courses down the dangerously-soft and pot-holed Olympic run.

A hot sun melted the surface of the track.

Tyler said after his second run: "I'm going to race tomorrow because it wouldn't be sporting to withdraw now. But I'm not ever coming back here again. That's certain. The course was not fit to be raced on between holes and ruts. There was slush on the run which came washing over us. There was no question of steering intelligently for a good time. It was a case of survival."

Dino de Martin of Italy's No. 1 sled commented: "If you want to play golf this course would have been ideal—there were so many holes in it."

Many argued that the second run should have been canceled. Officials replied that it had now been completed and would stand.

The championships are decided on the best aggregate time for four heats.

Berg Forges Lead In Serbin Tourney

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb. 9 (UP)—Patty Berg of St. Andrews, Ill., shot a two-under men's par 70 Saturday to take a two-stroke lead in the first round of the $3,500 Serbin Women's Golf Tournament.

Fay Crocker of Uruguay, winner of this tournament for the last two years, was in second place with a 37-35—72, but still in a good position for the final 18 holes Sunday.

Ruth Jessen of Seattle, Wash., and Betsy Rawls of Spartanburg, S.C., shot 73's. Marilyn Smith of Wichita, Kan.; Betty Dodd of Louisville, Ky.; and Joyce Ziske of Waterford, Wis., carded 74's on the sun-warmed Bayshore course.

Miss Berg, winner of the Havana Open last week, had a 34 going out and a 36 coming in. She had birdies on the second, sixth, eighth and 17th according to the women's par 74 card.

"I was only in trouble once and then I was able to get a putt when I needed it," she said. "That is what I call luck."

She referred to the 10th hole where she blasted from a trap and then sank a nine-foot putt for a par three which she said could "easily have been a five."

Wanda Sanches of Baton Rouge, La., and Ann Richardson of Columbus, Ohio, tied for the amateur lead at 76.

Miss Corcker shot birdies on the first, 11th, 14th and 18th holes and had bogeys on the second and 15th. Her best shot was a 25-foot putt for a birdie four on the 11th.

Fort Quintet Wins Franklin Parish Meet

WINNSBORO, Feb. 9 (Special) — Fort Necessity's boys and Winnsboro's girls won top honors in the Basketball Tournament here Saturday night.

Fort Necessity upset two favored teams to claim their parish-wide championship. Baskin fell to the Fortsters, 55-41, in the semifinals and Winnsboro stumbled, 46-45, in the finals.

Leach-like Necessity guarding played a major part in the final victory, holding Winnsboro scoring ace Jessie Walker to eight points.

With five seconds left to play and the final score on the boards, the cheers of an overflowing crowd prevented both teams from hearing the referees' whistles when an infraction was committed. Both outfits continued to play with Winnsboro netting four points before the officials could halt action and rule out the tallies.

A. J. Burlew led Fort Necessity with 17 points while Jimmy Sullivan paced Winnsboro on 17. Steve Remmiro sparked the Fortsters' semifinal win with 15 chalkings. Billy Joe Phillips netted 19 for Baskin.

The Winnsboro quint won over Central, 47-29, in the semi-finals. Walker recorded 21 scratches for the local outfit while Bennon Blake notched ten for the losers.

DeMarco Gets Full Decision Over Mexican

BOSTON, Feb. 9 (UP)—Hungry Tony DeMarco fought his own kind of brawling fight Saturday night to take a unanimous 10-round decision from Mexican Gaspar Ortega at Boston Garden.

The 25-year-old DeMarco was unable to send the outclassed Ortega to the canvas, but displayed flashes of his old slugging power. Ortega, second ranked welter contender, had beaten the Boston strong boy in two previous meetings in New York on split decisions.

Judge Johnny Norton rated DeMarco, the number three contender, way ahead, 100-90. Referee Jimmy McCarron had DeMarco ahead 99-93, while Judge Joe Santoro scored it 98-91. The United Press card gave it to DeMarco 100-94.

The 21-year-old Ortega, who started out in life to be a bull fighter, was unable to get to DeMarco's midriff as he did in the two other clashes. DeMarco, who weighed in at 147 1-2, half a pound lighter than Ortega, made his fancier opponent trade punches toe-to-toe frequently.

Vandy Slaps LSU Into 78-66 Loss

By W. B. RAGSDALE

BATON ROUGE, Feb. 9 (AP) — Vanderbilt offset deadly Louisiana State shooting with a ball-hawking defense and control of the backboard tonight for a 78-66 Southeastern Conference victory over LSU.

LSU popped in 23 of 49 shots for a 46.9 percentage while Vanderbilt hit on 27 of 73 for 36.9, but the Commodores grabbed 55 rebounds while LSU took only 26. Vanderbilt recovered 16 offensive rebounds to five for LSU.

LSU jumped off to a 10-point lead in the first half before a Vandy rally tied the score at 39-39 at the half.

Vanderbilt continued its hot streak in the second half and pulled away to a 17-point lead in the first seven minutes at 62-45. LSU could come no closer than a nine-point deficit the rest of the way.

Vandy has a 13-4 for the season, including 6-3 in SEC play. LSU has a 6-13 overall record and 1-7 in the conference.

Dom Merle of LSU and Bobby Thym of Vandy tied for scoring honors, each with 21 points. Merle touched off the first half LSU rally with six straight field goals and hit nine of 13 shots for the game.

Lions Point For Rebs, Tigers

LaSalle, Fair Park Cagers Also Visiting

The Ouachita Parish High School Lions get all their basketball action on the home front this week against the West Monroe Rebels and the Neville High Tigers.

In addition to their dates with Ouachita, the Rebels also meet Fair Park of Shreveport, and Neville tangles with LaSalle of Olla.

The Ouachita quint, sharing first place with Fair Park in the district 1-AAA scramble, seek to hold their place at the top in their duel with West Monroe on the O.P.H.S. floor Tuesday night. Coach Herbert H. Holliman's Lions beat West Monroe in their only league encounter of the season, but the Rebel charges of Coach L. V. Norris toppled the Lions in the finals of the recent West Monroe tourney.

Coach Hershel McConathy sends his Neville forces against an invasion of LaSalle Tigers in the Neville gym, also Tuesday night.

The week's Neville - Ouachita get-together comes off Thursday night in the Neville gym with the Lions seeking to avenge three earlier losses by mighty close scores, two of them in tournament play.

West Monroe originally was scheduled to play Fair Park in the West Monroe gym Thursday night, but the game probably will be set back to Friday night.

Coach Norris said last night he had a request from Fair Park to play some night other than Thursday "because of some conflict they have on that night. I wrote then that Friday would be satisfactory with us but so far haven't heard from them on the change."

Both West Monroe games are conference clashes, none of Neville's are league affairs.

All shows for the week are boys and girls' double headers except the West Monroe-Fair Park meeting which will feature boys only.

Neville meanwhile is pointing for its all-important February 19 journey to Jonesboro - Hodge and their meeting with the J-H Tigers and a possible settlement of the district race. Neville has handed J-H its only loss in the conference, but a win by the Jackson parish quint could deadlock the race.

'NO MERCY' IN BARNEY'S FILM—Barney Ross, who won three boxing titles in his fistic days, tells actor Cameron Mitchell "it looks real" as he examines his make-up job on the set of "The Barney Ross Story." Mitchell is portraying Ross and this is how he (Ross) looked after losing his title to Henry Armstrong in 1938, Barney said. Barney told producers to "show me no mercy," and they're doing that, including his addiction to narcotics and subsequent recovery. (AP Wirephoto)

Bobbers Face Melting Track In World Run

ST. MORITZ, Switzerland, Feb. 9 (AP)—Arthur Tyler, 41-year-old American physicist, shot his number 1 U.S.A. sled down the classic St. Moritz course in the four-man world bobsled championships today in 1:17.85, the fastest time of any of the 15 competitors, but a warm sun slowed him on his second descent and he lost the lead to Hans Zoller's Swiss No. 1.

A violent controversy immediately boiled up over the dangerous condition of the course.

Tyler, from Rochester, N. Y., was timed in 1:20.02 on his second run for a total of 2:37.87. Zoller made his two runs in 1:18.09 and 1:18.38 for 2:36.47. This put him first, with two more runs to be made tomorrow.

Tyler held second place by a scant margin over Italy's No. 1 which did 1:19.20, 1:18.70—2:37.90.

The bobbers steered crazy courses down the dangerously-soft and pot-holed Olympic run.

A hot sun melted the surface of the track.

Tyler said after his second run: "I'm going to race tomorrow because it wouldn't be sporting to withdraw now. But I'm not ever coming back here again. That's certain. The course was not fit to be raced on between holes and ruts. There was slush on the run which came washing over us. There was no question of steering intelligently for a good time. It was a case of survival."

Dino de Martin of Italy's No. 1 sled commented: "If you want to play golf this course would have been ideal—there were so many holes in it."

Many argued that the second run should have been canceled. Officials replied that it had now been completed and would stand.

The championships are decided on the best aggregate time for four heats.

Berg Forges Lead In Serbin Tourney

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb. 9 (UP)—Patty Berg of St. Andrews, Ill., shot a two-under men's par 70 Saturday to take a two-stroke lead in the first round of the $3,500 Serhin Women's Golf Tournament.

Fay Crocker of Uruguay, winner of this tournament for the last two years, was in second place with a 37-35—72, but still in a good position for the final 18 holes Sunday.

Ruth Jessen of Seattle, Wash., and Betsy Rawls of Spartanburg, S.C., shot 73's. Marilyn Smith of Wichita, Kan.; Betty Dodd of Louisville, Ky.; and Joyce Ziske of Waterford, Wis., carded 74's on the sun-warmed Bayshore course.

Miss Berg, winner of the Havana Open last week, had a 34 going out and a 36 coming in. She had birdies on the second, sixth, eighth and 17th according to the women's par 74 card.

"I was only in trouble once and then I was able to get a putt when I needed it," she said. "That is what I call luck."

She referred to the 10th hole where she blasted from a trap and then sank a nine-foot putt for a par three which she said could "easily have been a five."

Wanda Sanches of Baton Rouge, La., and Ann Richardson of Columbus, Ohio, tied for the amateur lead at 76.

Miss Corcker shot birdies on the first, 11th, 14th and 18th holes and had bogeys on the second and 15th. Her best shot was a 25-foot putt for a birdie four on the 11th.

Fort Quintet Wins Franklin Parish Meet

WINNSBORO, Feb. 9 (Special) — Fort Necessity's boys and Winnsboro's girls won top honors in the Basketball Tournament here Saturday night.

Fort Necessity upset two favored teams to claim their parish-wide championship. Baskin fell to the Fortsters, 55-41, in the semifinals and Winnsboro stumbled, 46-45, in the finals.

Leach-like Necessity guarding played a major part in the final victory, holding Winnsboro scoring ace Jessie Walker to eight points.

With five seconds left to play and the final score on the boards, the cheers of an overflowing crowd prevented both teams from hearing the referees' whistles when an infraction was committed. Both outfits continued to play with Winnsboro netting four points before the officials could halt action and rule out the tallies.

A. J. Burlew led Fort Necessity with 17 points while Jimmy Sullivan paced Winnsboro on 17. Steve Remmiro sparked the Fortsters' semifinal win with 15 chalkings. Billy Joe Phillips netted 19 for Baskin.

The Winnsboro quint won over Central, 47-29, in the semi-finals. Walker recorded 21 scratches for the local outfit while Bennon Blake notched ten for the losers.

The Winnsboro sextet captured the parish trophy for the first time by downing Baskin, 52-49, in a thrilling final game that was tied, 30-30, at halftime.

Bea Hudgins led the Winnsboro victory with 34 points; Linda Lord bucketed 22 for Baskin.

Winnsboro coach Carice Russell had sent her girls into the finals of the parish meet for the past six years but always finished 2nd although her teams captured the Class A state championship in 1954 and 1955.

The Winnsboro lasses bent Ogden, 71-51, in the semi-finals with Shirley Anderson chalking 26 point for the winners. Shelby Jean Fain marked 27 for Ogden.

Baskin moved into the finals via a 68-52 semi-final triumph over Central. Joann Gray pumped in 38 points for Baskin; Florice Pepper netted 40 for the losers.

DeMarco Gets Full Decision Over Mexican

BOSTON, Feb. 9 (UP)—Hungry Tony DeMarco fought his own kind of brawling fight Saturday night to take a unanimous 10-round decision from Mexican Gaspar Ortega at Boston Garden.

The 25-year-old DeMarco was unable to send the outclassed Ortega to the canvas, but displayed flashes of his old slugging power. Ortega, second ranked welter contender, had beaten the Boston strong boy in two previous meetings in New York on split decisions.

Judge Johnny Norton rated DeMarco, the number three contender, way ahead, 100-90. Referee Jimmy McCarron had DeMarco ahead 99-93, while Judge Joe Santoro scored it 98-91. The United Press card gave it to DeMarco 100-94.

The 21-year-old Ortega, who started out in life to be a bull fighter, was unable to get to DeMarco's midriff as he did in the two other clashes. DeMarco, who weighed in at 147 1-2, half a pound lighter than Ortega, made his fancier opponent trade punches toe-to-toe frequently.

Tulane, Ahead All Way, Trips Jackets

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 9 (AP)—Tulane led from the start but had to quell a late Georgia Tech rally to beat the visitors 73-67 in a Southeastern Conference game tonight.

Forward Calvin Grosscup put Tulane ahead with a jump shot in the first 11 seconds and the Green Wave moved to a 31-23 advantage at intermission. Tech staged a spurt in the final seven minutes and narrowed Tulane's margin to 67-63 before the Green Wave began rolling again.

Tulane connected on 23 of 27 free throw attempts against 13 of 21 for Tech. That decided the game as Tech made 27 field goals to 25 for Tulane.

Forward Stan Stumpf of Tulane was high scorer with 22 points. Guard Buddy Blemker and forward Bobby Kimmel each had 14 for Tech.

The game gave Tulane a 6-2 record in the SEC, while Tech had a

Texan Goes After $10,000 Elephant

SAN ANTONIO, Feb. 9 (UP) — William Negley, a 42-year-old athlete and wealthy oilman, took off for the Belgian Congo Saturday to try to win a $10,000 bet that he can kill an elephant with a bow and arrow.

The bet is with William K. Carpenter of Wilmington, Del., who, Negley said, is kin to the DuPont family. If Negley kills an elephant with a bow and arrow, Negley wins $10,000.

Under terms of the bet, he must give the $10,000 to Witte Museum of San Antonio. If he can't kill an elephant with a bow and arrow, then he will give the museum $1,000 from his own pocket.

Actually, Negley said, he was thinking about going elephant hunting with a bow and arrow before he made the bet. He killed four elephants with a rifle last February. That, he said, took most of the edge off another hunt with a rifle.

He started practicing with a bow that took a 73-pound pull soon after his return from Africa last winter. He progressed to an 80-pound bow, a 90-pound bow, and about three weeks ago, to a special 102-pound bow.

That was the bow he took to Africa with him and he said he is "perfectly confident" he can drive an arrow into an elephant's vital organs with it. Negley is six feet tall, weighs 178 pounds and is strong and tough.

He flew from San Antonio to New York, from where he will take off to London. He will meet Eric Rundgren, a professional hunter, who will organize his safari, in Nairobi, Kenya, next Tuesday.

The hunt will take place around Lakes Albert and Victoria in the Belgian Congo. Negley said that if he finds out he is wrong about being able to kill an elephant with a bow and arrow, he is going to run—fast.

Neville Hosts Junior Cagers This Weekend

Neville of Monroe will present its third annual Junior Invitational Basketball Tournament on Friday and Saturday, with 16 teams, eight boys and eight girls. All games to be played in the N.H.S. gym.

Those schools which will send both boys and girls teams into competition are Neville, Linville, Mer Rouge, West Monroe, Winnfield and Sterlington. Those who will enter only boys are Ruston, and Bastrop, and the schools sending only girls are Bonita and Swartz.

The usual straight elimination process will be employed with all teams playing in one of four sessions for the boys or girls' brackets. Consolation games will be played, preceding the finals, and these contest will feature the semi-finals losers to determine the third place tourney winner.

The Sterlington boys and Neville girls are defending champs of the first tourney held two years ago. Last year no meet was held.

Neville's boys, with a perfect 15-0 record to date, and the Sterlington girls, who have an impressive record, are considered pre-tourney favorites on the basis of their fine showings this season.

Tournament tickets are now on sale at Neville and will be good for the entire meet, including the finals. The student price is 5 cents and adults is $1. Single session admission charges will 20 cents for students and 35 cents for adults.

The tournament is designed for students in the ninth grade and below and fully compliments the senior high affair held in December. This is another attempt by Neville in providing a well-rounded athletic program.

Tom Wilson of the Los Angeles Rams led the National Football League in kickoff returns in 1956. He carried 15 returns for 477 yards.

Jackie's Jump Can Sock Pack With Big Fine

By DON MARTIN

GREENSBORO, N. C., Feb. 9 (UP)—Faculty representatives of the eight Atlantic Coast Conference schools don judicial robes tomorrow to vote whether or not North Carolina State College is guilty of alleged illegal recruiting maneuvers.

Ironically, the punishment has been set, but the conference has not convicted State in the wake of sweeping penalties handed down by the powerful NCAA.

State begged for an ACC investigation of its recruiting tactics for Jackie Moreland of Homer, La. The request was granted following the heaviest punishment ever handed down by the NCAA.

Commissioner Jim Weaver recently completed his probe with visits to the state campus in Raleigh, N. C., talks with the NCAA and a trip to Louisiana.

Tomorrow the voting power of the ACC begins judging. It appears the decision will be final.

The NCAA has charged State with:

1. Giving $80 transportation money to Moreland.
2. Promising "annual cash gifts."
3. Offering his girl friend a seven-year medical education.

The NCAA placed State on four years probation, banned participation in NCAA championship events in any sport, participation in any NCAA televised event and loss of voting rights in the NCAA.

There is no precedent for a successful appeal to the NCAA.

Weaver has slapped State with:

1. Moreland's ineligibility to participate in intercollegiate athletics at State College (Moreland has since enrolled at Louisiana Tech).
2. An automatic $5,000 fine should the basketball whiz drop out of school before he graduates.
3. A one-year ban on all cage recruiting by the State basketball staff.

Both State and Moreland have steadfastly denied all charges.

Moreland returned to the State campus for the beginning of the second semester, but the 18-year-old basketball whiz stole away without registering to enter Louisiana Tech at Ruston, La., a stone's throw from his home.

Moreland signed a letter of intent with Texas A&M, a grant-in-aid with Kentucky and he enrolled at Centenary College, before suddenly doning a Wolfpack uniform.

If the ACC judges convict, State is faced with immediate payment of the largest fine ever slapped on an ACC member and recruiting handicaps that could undermine the college's perennial power in the mid-Atlantic States.

Both Willis Casey, assistant athletic director at State, and Vic Bubas, assistant basketball coach, allegedly are involved in the illegal recruiting case. If State is convicted the pair may be fired for violating conference laws as state employees.

The college has asked the conference to okay "face-to-face" hearings by witnesses involved in the recruiting in conjunction with Weaver's investigation. The college even offered to pay the expenses for such "open" hearings.

The faculty representatives voted to wait until Weaver's probe was complete before acting on the latest state plea. The faculty members are expected to dismiss the last request.

BOWLING
With Tommy Higgins

Today we're beginning a new column devoted to bowling. We hope it will meet with the approval of all alley ball throwers and fans since there seems to be a lot of them in this area. We want to make it as newsy as possible, so if any of you have any good or unique items, please shoot them in to us through the mail.

For our first effort we'd like to do a takeoff on Walter Cash.

If all bowling captains, team members and fans in the Twin-City area picked an outstanding individual in local bowling circles, I'm sure the honor would go to Cash.

Cash, an all-round citizen of the area, has actively participated in the sport for 14 years, being president of the Monroe Bowling Association for the past eight years. Walter was instrumental in reviving the interest of bowling enthusiasts after the sport was dormant for two years. He's also one of the official delegates to all national, state and southern conventions and will be in Fort Worth, Texas, April 12 to represent Monroe in the first National ABC tournament ever held in the South.

Bowling for Royal Feed and Seed, sponsored by John Birdsong in the Major League, and Clover Leaf, sponsored by Maurice Johnson in the Kegler League, Walter has been the sparkplug. He holds two of the top positions with his 257 single game and 742 for three-game series.

The 742 series bowled by Cash is the highest ever thrown in Monroe bowling history. He was the most outstanding local entry in the recent state tourney held in Shreveport, bowling the second highest scratch series. He also placed third in the singles event and fifth in all events.

ANNUAL HANDICAP TOURNEY

In the City Association's annual ABC Handicap tournament held the past two weeks, Troy & Nichols copped the team event with a total of 3,030.

Buddy Harrellson and Bobby Wood won the doubles with a fine score of 1,306, while Keith Moore's 660 and Dave McKenzie's 1,966 won the singles and all-events.

TALL-MAN BOWLER WELU

Billy Welu, the world's outstanding tall-man bowler, predicts the nation will have major league pin-topping by 1960 "like in baseball and football."

Welu of Houston, Texas, said negotiations are progressing toward a league of major clubs that will include at least eight cities and have an eight-month season from September through April.

The dark-haired Texan is a member of the St. Louis Budweisers, winners of the American Bowling Congress national high series award for 1954-55 and 1955-56. Only 25, his lifetime average in team competition is 212.

Local bowlers and fans will recall Billy coming to Monroe a couple of years back with the famous national team and bowling an exhibition against the local Budweiser teams, sponsored by Jewels Daniel.

Sophs Lead S. E. C. Basketball Chases

BIRMINGHAM, Feb. 9 (AP) — Two sophomores lead Southeastern Conference basketball players in field goal and free throw accuracy and rebound recoveries in SEC statistics released today.

Bailey Howell, Mississippi State's center, continues the most accurate in field goals with 140 completions in 254 attempts for a .551 showing. He also is the backboard boss with an average of 19.1 per game in 17 starts.

Buddy Blemker, 5-11 Georgia Tech guard, remained the most accurate in free throws by completing 78 of 91 for an .857 record.

The only statistical crown left to juniors and seniors was in scoring, carried off by Mississippi State senior Jim Ashmore. He has averaged 27.8 points per game, closely crowded by Joe Gibbon of Mississippi with 27.1

Individual scoring figures were released earlier last week.

Joe Hicks Will Leave Wildcats For North Caddo

PINEVILLE, La., Feb. 9 (Special) — Joe Hicks, Louisiana College assistant coach and member of the school's physical education teaching faculty, has resigned to accept the position of line coach at North Caddo High School, Vivian, and to give the new head football coach the privilege of selecting his own staff.

His resignation, submitted to Dr. G. Earl Guinn, L.C. president, becomes effective Feb. 16. He will begin his new North Caddo duties Monday, Feb. 18.

Dr. F. Jay Taylor, chairman of the L.C. faculty athletic committee, expressed "deep regret at losing Coach Hicks, and we wish him every success in his new post."

A native of Batesville, Ark., he came to L.C. last fall as line coach in football and head track mentor. He also taught one term in the physical education department with the rank of assistant professor.

"The decision to change jobs was a tough one for me to make. I certainly have enjoyed working here with the Louisiana College administration, faculty, athletic committee, and Coaches DeVall and Osburn. The work has been most enjoyable," Hicks stated.

He will also serve as head baseball tutor at North Caddo.

Prior to coming to L.C., Hicks served as an assistant coach at Bolton High School of Alexandria for two years.

BUDGE PATTY IS UPSET

PARIS, Feb. 9 (UP)—Torben Ulrich of Denmark upset Budge Patty of Los Angeles and Paris, 6-1, 6-4, 11-9, Saturday to reach the men's singles final at the French Indoor Tennis Championships. Patty was the defending champion. Sven Davidson of Sweden will provide Ulrich's opposition in Sunday's final.

Tech's Spring Football Work Opens Monday

RUSTON, La., Feb. 9 (Special) —With 13 lettermen missing from the 1956 squad, Louisiana Tech's footballers will get spring drills underway Monday afternoon. There will be about 20 practice sessions for the Bulldogs extending over the next month.

Head Coach Joe Aillet reports that one of the big jobs facing his staff is filling the holes caused by the loss of so many important members of the squad from last fall.

Included in the list of departed lettermen are four backs and nine lettermen. In fact, about half of the starting unit from last season is gone and the coaches are eyeing the depleted ranks with the hope that a number of promising high school graduates will be on hand for the opening of practice next September.

The lettermen gone from the 1956 backfield include: quarterback Bobby Anderson, San Augustine, Tex.; halfback A. L. Williams, Shreveport; and fullbacks Gene Jantz, DeRidder, and Jerry Adams, Ruston.

Tech's line will be missing such lettermen as: center Charles Glover, Shreveport; guards Bobby Stone, Tifton, Ga., and Buddy Juneau, Alexandria; tackles Ken Fountain, Shreveport; Jimmy Mardis, Bastrop, and Pat Hinton, Ruston; ends Bob Burnley, Delhi, Pat Patterson, Delhi, and Billy White, Fitzgerald, Ga.

TALLULAH, La., Feb. 9 (Special) — Coach R. A. "Racer" Holstead has announced an 11-game football schedule for his 1957 Tallulah High School Trojans plus their annual season-opening jamboree.

Few changes have been made over the 1956 schedule, but Crowville, a Class B team, has been replaced by Jena's double-A Giants and Canton, Miss., has been added to give the Trojans one more game than they had last year.

The Class A Trojans will play five district conference games.

Coach Holstead also announced that, weather permitting, spring practice will begin Monday. Equipment was issued yesterday.

The squad returning for next season will include 14 lettermen, seven of them from the regular 1956 starting lineup.

The complete schedule:

Bad Grades Drop 2 From Wolfpack

RALEIGH, N.C., Feb. 9 (AP)—The North Carolina State College basketball team today lost the services of its co-captains, forward Cliff Hafer and guard John Maglio. They were ruled ineligible for failure to meet scholastic requirements.

Both are seniors. Hafer, 6 feet 4, is from Middletown, Ohio, and Maglio, 6 feet, is from Havertown, Pa.

Summer Tan First Placer In McLennan

MIAMI, Feb. 9 (UP)—Long striding Summer Tan, avenging an earlier defeat by Bardstown, spurted down the Hialeah stretch Saturday for a three and one-half length victory over the Calumet Farms star in the $60,900 McLennan Handicap.

Jockey David Erb needed to give Summer Tan only a hand ride to defeat Bardstown, who scored a neck victory over Summer Tan in the Trenton Handicap last October at Garden State.

Formella Stable's Switch on finished third, three and one-half lengths back of Bardstown, and Mr. First brought up the rear, almost another two lengths back.

Only four horses started the mile and one-eighth McLennan when Greek Spy, Sea O Erin and Black Metal were scratched just before post time.

Hialeah's top crowd of the season, 25,190 saw the race.

Summer Tan paid $3.90 to win and $2.10 to place as the second choice. Bardstown returned $2.10 to place. No show betting was permitted because of the reduced field.

It was the fourth victory in a row for Mrs. John W. Galbreath's Summer Tan, judged the "comeback horse" of 1956. The five-year-old horse picked up the winner's share of $42,300 after running the mile and one-eighth in 1:48 and 4-5ths.

Nelson Potter, former pitcher for the St. Louis Browns and Boston Braves, has 12 bowling alleys in Mt. Morris, Ill.

McNeese Not Expected At NAIA Meet

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Feb. 9 (UP)—The National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics Saturday named 14 teams that may appear in its 19th annual NAIA basketball tournament here March 11-16.

Leading the list was Texas Southern, an all-Negro team from Houston, which was runner-up in the tournament last year. The NAIA said there was little likelihood that McNeese State of Lake Charles, La., would be back to defend its crown, due mostly to graduation of high-scoring Bill Reigel.

The NAIA said other teams which have compiled impressive records and are highly regarded included Western Illinois, West Virginia Tech, Southwest Texas State, Coe of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, Rockhurst of Kansas City, Lenoir Rhyne, Geneva of Beaver Falls, Pa., St. Peter's of Brooklyn, Defiance and Youngstown in Ohio and Anderson, Hanover and Ball State, all three in the Indiana district.

District selection committees are expected to meet this coming week to make definite plans for the tournament. Playoffs involving conference champions and outstanding independent teams will be held in the last week of February and the first week of March.

Texan Goes After $10,000 Elephant

SAN ANTONIO, Feb. 9 (UP) — William Negley, a 42-year-old athlete and wealthy oilman, took off for the Belgian Congo Saturday to try to win a $10,000 bet that he can kill an elephant with a bow and arrow.

The bet is with William K. Carpenter of Wilmington, Del., who, Negley said, is kin to the DuPont family. If Negley kills an elephant with a bow and arrow, Negley wins $10,000.

Under terms of the bet, he must give the $10,000 to Witte Museum of San Antonio. If he can't kill an elephant with a bow and arrow, then he will give the museum $1,000 from his own pocket.

Actually, Negley said, he was thinking about going elephant hunting with a bow and arrow before he made the bet. He killed four elephants with a rifle last February. That, he said, took most of the edge off another hunt with a rifle.

He started practicing with a bow that took a 73-pound pull soon after his return from Africa last winter. He progressed to an 80-pound bow, a 90-pound bow, and about three weeks ago, to a special 102-pound bow.

That was the bow he took to Africa with him and he said he is "perfectly confident" he can drive an arrow into an elephant's vital organs with it. Negley is six feet tall, weighs 178 pounds and is strong and tough.

He flew from San Antonio to New York, from where he will take off to London. He will meet Eric Rundgren, a professional hunter, who will organize his safari, in Nairobi, Kenya, next Tuesday.

The hunt will take place around Lakes Albert and Victoria in the Belgian Congo. Negley said that if he finds out he is wrong about being able to kill an elephant with a bow and arrow, he is going to run—fast.

Neville Hosts Junior Cagers This Weekend

Neville of Monroe will present its third annual Junior Invitational Basketball Tournament on Friday and Saturday, with 16 teams, eight boys and eight girls. All games to be played in the N.H.S. gym.

Those schools which will send both boys and girls teams into competition are Neville, Linville, Mer Rouge, West Monroe, Winnfield and Sterlington. Those who will enter only boys are Ruston, and Bastrop, and the schools sending only girls are Bonita and Swartz.

The usual straight elimination process will be employed with all teams playing in one of four sessions for the boys or girls' brackets. Consolation games will be played, preceding the finals, and these contest will feature the semi-finals losers to determine the third place tourney winner.

The Sterlington boys and Neville girls are defending champs of the first tourney held two years ago. Last year no meet was held.

Neville's boys, with a perfect 15-0 record to date, and the Sterlington girls, who have an impressive record, are considered pre-tourney favorites on the basis of their fine showings this season.

Tournament tickets are now on sale at Neville and will be good for the entire meet, including the finals. The student price is 5 cents and adults is $1. Single session admission charges will 20 cents for students and 35 cents for adults.

The tournament is designed for students in the ninth grade and below and fully compliments the senior high affair held in December. This is another attempt by Neville in providing a well-rounded athletic program.

Tom Wilson of the Los Angeles Rams led the National Football League in kickoff returns in 1956. He carried 15 returns for 477 yards.

Hear Moreland Case Today

Jackie's Jump Can Sock Pack With Big Fine

By DON MARTIN

GREENSBORO, N. C., Feb. 9 (UP)—Faculty representatives of the eight Atlantic Coast Conference schools don judicial robes tomorrow to vote whether or not North Carolina State College is guilty of alleged illegal recruiting maneuvers.

Ironically, the punishment has been set, but the conference has not convicted State in the wake of sweeping penalties handed down by the powerful NCAA.

State begged for an ACC investigation of its recruiting tactics for Jackie Moreland of Homer, La. The request was granted following the heaviest punishment ever handed down by the NCAA.

Commissioner Jim Weaver recently completed his probe with visits to the state campus in Raleigh, N. C., talks with the NCAA and a trip to Louisiana.

Tomorrow the voting power of the ACC begins judging. It appears the decision will be final.

The NCAA has charged State with:

1. Giving $80 transportation money to Moreland.
2. Promising "annual cash gifts."
3. Offering his girl friend a seven-year medical education.

The NCAA placed State on four years probation, banned participation in NCAA championship events in any sport, participation in any NCAA televised event and loss of voting rights in the NCAA.

There is no precedent for a successful appeal to the NCAA.

Weaver has slapped State with:

1. Moreland's ineligibility to participate in intercollegiate athletics at State College (Moreland has since enrolled at Louisiana Tech).
2. An automatic $5,000 fine should the basketball whiz drop out of school before he graduates.
3. A one-year ban on all cage recruiting by the State basketball staff.

Both State and Moreland have steadfastly denied all charges.

Moreland returned to the State campus for the beginning of the second semester, but the 18-year-old basketball whiz stole away without registering to enter Louisiana Tech at Ruston, La., a stone's throw from his home.

Moreland signed a letter of intent with Texas A&M, a grant-in-aid with Kentucky and he enrolled at Centenary College, before suddenly doning a Wolfpack uniform.

If the ACC judges convict, State is faced with immediate payment of the largest fine ever slapped on an ACC member and recruiting handicaps that could undermine the college's perennial power in the mid-Atlantic States.

Both Willis Casey, assistant athletic director at State, and Vic Bubas, assistant basketball coach, allegedly are involved in the illegal recruiting case. If State is convicted the pair may be fired for violating conference laws as state employees.

The college has asked the conference to okay "face-to-face" hearings by witnesses involved in the recruiting in conjunction with Weaver's investigation. The college even offered to pay the expenses for such "open" hearings.

The faculty representatives voted to wait until Weaver's probe was complete before acting on the latest state plea. The faculty members are expected to dismiss the last request.

Joe Hicks Will Leave Wildcats For North Caddo

PINEVILLE, La., Feb. 9 (Special) — Joe Hicks, Louisiana College assistant coach and member of the school's physical education teaching faculty, has resigned to accept the position of line coach at North Caddo High School, Vivian, and to give the new head football coach the privilege of selecting his own staff.

His resignation, submitted to Dr. G. Earl Guinn, L.C. president, becomes effective Feb. 16. He will begin his new North Caddo duties Monday, Feb. 18.

Dr. F. Jay Taylor, chairman of the L.C. faculty athletic committee, expressed "deep regret at losing Coach Hicks, and we wish him every success in his new post."

A native of Batesville, Ark., he came to L.C. last fall as line coach in football and head track mentor. He also taught one term in the physical education department with the rank of assistant professor.

"The decision to change jobs was a tough one for me to make. I certainly have enjoyed working here with the Louisiana College administration, faculty, athletic committee, and Coaches DeVall and Osburn. The work has been most enjoyable," Hicks stated.

He will also serve as head baseball tutor at North Caddo.

BUDGE PATTY IS UPSET

PARIS, Feb. 9 (UP)—Torben Ulrich of Denmark upset Budge Patty of Los Angeles and Paris, 6-1, 6-4, 11-9, Saturday to reach the men's singles final at the French Indoor Tennis Championships. Patty was the defending champion. Sven Davidson of Sweden will provide Ulrich's opposition in Sunday's final.

BOWLING
With Tommy Higgins

Today we're beginning a new column devoted to bowling. We hope it will meet with the approval of all alley ball throwers and fans since there seems to be a lot of them in this area. We want to make it as newsy as possible, so if any of you have any good or unique items, please shoot them in to us through the mail.

For our first effort we'd like to do a takeoff on Walter Cash.

If all bowling captains, team members and fans in the Twin-City area picked an outstanding individual in local bowling circles, I'm sure the honor would go to Cash.

Cash, an all-round citizen of the area, has actively participated in the sport for 14 years, being president of the Monroe Bowling Association for the past eight years. Walter was instrumental in reviving the interest of bowling enthusiasts after the sport was dormant for two years. He's also one of the official delegates to all national, state and southern conventions and will be in Fort Worth, Texas, April 12 to represent Monroe in the first National ABC tournament ever held in the South.

Bowling for Royal Feed and Seed, sponsored by John Birdsong in the Major League, and Clover Leaf, sponsored by Maurice Johnson in the Kegler League, Walter has been the sparkplug. He holds two of the top positions with his 257 single game and 742 for three-game series.

The 742 series bowled by Cash is the highest ever thrown in Monroe bowling history. He was the most outstanding local entry in the recent state tourney held in Shreveport, bowling the second highest scratch series. He also placed third in the singles event and fifth in all events.

ANNUAL HANDICAP TOURNEY

In the City Association's annual ABC Handicap tournament held the past two weeks, Troy & Nichols copped the team event with a total of 3,030.

Buddy Harrellson and Bobby Wood won the doubles with a fine score of 1,306, while Keith Moore's 660 and Dave McKenzie's 1,906 won the singles and all-events.

TALL-MAN BOWLER WELU

Billy Welu, the world's outstanding tall-man bowler, predicts the nation will have major league pin-topping by 1960 "like in baseball and football."

Welu of Houston, Texas, said negotiations are progressing toward a league of major clubs that will include at least eight cities and have an eight-month season from September through April.

The dark-haired Texan is a member of the St. Louis Budweisers, winners of the American Bowling Congress national high series award for 1954-55 and 1955-56. Only 25, his lifetime average in team competition is 212.

Local bowlers and fans will recall Billy coming to Monroe a couple of years back with the famous national team and bowling an exhibition against the local Budweiser teams, sponsored by Jewels Daniel.

Sophs Lead S. E. C. Basketball Chases

BIRMINGHAM, Feb. 9 (AP) — Two sophomores lead Southeastern Conference basketball players in field goal and free throw accuracy and rebound recoveries in SEC statistics released today.

Bailey Howell, Mississippi State's center, continues the most accurate in field goals with 140 completions in 254 attempts for a .551 showing. He also is the backboard boss with an average of 19.1 per game in 17 starts.

Buddy Blemker, 5-11 Georgia Tech guard, remained the most accurate in free throws by completing 78 of 91 for an .857 record.

The only statistical crown left to juniors and seniors was in scoring, carried off by Mississippi State senior Jim Ashmore. He has averaged 27.8 points per game, closely crowded by Joe Gibbon of Mississippi with 27.1

Individual scoring figures were released earlier last week.

Tech's Spring Football Work Opens Monday

RUSTON, La., Feb. 9 (Special) —With 13 lettermen missing from the 1956 squad, Louisiana Tech's footballers will get spring drills underway Monday afternoon. There will be about 20 practice sessions for the Bulldogs extending over the next month.

Head Coach Joe Aillet reports that one of the big jobs facing his staff is filling the holes caused by the loss of so many important members of the squad from last fall.

Included in the list of departed lettermen are four backs and nine lettermen. In fact, about half of the starting unit from last season is gone and the coaches are eyeing the depleted ranks with the hope that a number of promising high school graduates will be on hand for the opening of practice next September.

The lettermen gone from the 1956 backfield include: quarterback Bobby Anderson, San Augustine, Tex.; halfback A. L. Williams, Shreveport; and fullbacks Gene Jantz, DeRidder, and Jerry Adams, Ruston.

Tech's line will be missing such lettermen as: center Charles Glover, Shreveport; guards Bobby Stone, Tifton, Ga., and Buddy Juneau, Alexandria; tackles Ken Fountain, Shreveport; Jimmy Mardis, Bastrop, and Pat Hinton, Ruston; ends Bob Burnley, Delhi, Pat Patterson, Delhi, and Billy White, Fitzgerald, Ga.

The Class A Trojans will play five district conference games.

Coach Holstead also announced that, weather permitting, spring practice will begin Monday. Equipment was issued yesterday.

The squad returning for next season will include 14 lettermen, seven of them from the regular 1956 starting lineup.

Summer Tan First Placer In McLennan

MIAMI, Feb. 9 (UP)—Long striding Summer Tan, avenging an earlier defeat by Bardstown, spurted down the Hialeah stretch Saturday for a three and one-half length victory over the Calumet Farms star in the $60,900 McLennan Handicap.

Jockey David Erb needed to give Summer Tan only a hand ride to defeat Bardstown, who scored a neck victory over Summer Tan in the Trenton Handicap last October at Garden State.

Formella Stable's Switch on finished third, three and one-half lengths back of Bardstown, and Mr. First brought up the rear, almost another two lengths back.

Only four horses started the mile and one-eighth McLennan when Greek Spy, Sea O Erin and Black Metal were scratched just before post time.

Hialeah's top crowd of the season, 25,190 saw the race.

Summer Tan paid $3.90 to win and $2.10 to place as the second choice. Bardstown returned $2.10 to place. No show betting was permitted because of the reduced field.

It was the fourth victory in a row for Mrs. John W. Galbreath's Summer Tan, judged the "comeback horse" of 1956. The five-year-old horse picked up the winner's share of $42,300 after running the mile and one-eighth in 1:48 and 4-5ths.

McNeese Not Expected At NAIA Meet

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Feb. 9 (UP)—The National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics Saturday named 14 teams that may appear in its 19th annual NAIA basketball tournament here March 11-16.

Leading the list was Texas Southern, an all-Negro team from Houston, which was runner-up in the tournament last year. The NAIA said there was little likelihood that McNeese State of Lake Charles, La., would be back to defend its crown, due mostly to graduation of high-scoring Bill Reigel.

The NAIA said other teams which have compiled impressive records and are highly regarded included Western Illinois, West Virginia Tech, Southwest Texas State, Coe of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, Rockhurst of Kansas City, Lenoir Rhyne, Geneva of Beaver Falls,, Pa., St. Peter's of Brooklyn, Defiance and Youngstown in Ohio and Anderson, Hanover and Ball State, all three in the Indiana district.

District selection committees are expected to meet this coming week to make definite plans for the tournament. Playoffs involving conference champions and outstanding independent teams will be held in the last week of February and the first week of March.

Today's Public Schools Face New And Varied Problems

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following article was written by Dr. Louise Wood Seyler, deputy superintendent of Los Angeles city schools, voted woman of the year in education for 1956 in the Associated Press women's editors' poll. In it this distinguished educator outlines some of the problems that face America's public schools.

By DR. LOUISE WOOD SEYLER

The Public Schools of today are faced with many problems. The fact that schools are faced with problems is nothing new, but the type of problems becomes increasingly complex. I am referring particularly to the pressure from the community for the assumption by the schools of greater and greater responsibilities. An elementary school which concerned itself only with the Three R's would be most unsatisfactory to a modern community, I am sure.

Let me explain by an example or two: Today we take for granted that we must furnish some type of health services. Today we gear our program to the education of all of the children of all of the people. This means the atypical child as well as the typical. This means the child handicapped with physical problems as well as the physically perfect child.

The pupil in high school is faced with a program of many requirements. Each of these requirements is fine it itself, but we are at present almost to the point where anything new to be introduced means a withdrawal of something being taught at present.

Many of us have seen the day when graduation from the eighth grade was the accepted thing. We are now in an era when graduation from high school is the accepted thing. This is as it should be. If the future citizens are to live successfully in a highly complex world, they must know much more in many fields than the high school graduate of 50 years ago.

Since 1900 our population has increased 100 per cent. Since 1900 our high school population has increased 1,400 per cent. With an increase like this unheard of any other place in the world and with the demands for schools to assume new responsibilities, educators and laymen alike need to take a long look into the crowded curriculum of today.

How can we best meet the needs of all the children? Parents are entitled to believe that their children will have the basic foundation for successful adulthood. The classroom teacher with the many pressures of daily lesson assignments and subject requirements cannot always spend as much time with the individual as he would like. Early in the educational career, counseling and guidance help must be given, so that each individual in our public schools has the time and thought of an expert in thinking through with him the requirements necessary to make him a successful adult citizen.

It is my hope that we shall never lose sight of the individual in mass education. Each child in the United States of America is entitled to as much education as his ability permits. How best to achieve this goal is the responsibility of educators and far-thinking community leaders.

YOUR BABY AND MINE

Supply Baby's Needs So He Doesn't Have To Suck Thumb

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

If thumb-sucking were simply a physical habit it migh not be so difficult to end; but its roots often are emotional in origin.

The tiny baby sucks because that is a desire which needs to be satisfied. He comes into the world equipped with this capacity because he would starve without it.

Sometimes the baby's full desire is satisfied by breast-feeding — which demands vigorous sucking. It may be satisfied because the baby is fed on demand and so fulfills his desire in this way.

On the contrary he may be fed by bottle — which is easy and requires less effort than nursing— and he may be so well satisfied with his nourishment that he does not eat very often during the day —maybe only four or five times.

Not Gratified

The "sucking desire" is then not gratified and the baby puts a finger is his mouth, or sucks on the sleeves of his nightgown or on the blanket next to his face — all in an effort to gratify this desire.

The attitude toward thumb-sucking has changed twice within my own memory. My mother had a saying that a "thumb-sucking baby was a good baby," and so babies in her day were offered sugar tied in bags and pacifiers on which they could gratify their desire to suck.

Then came the time when thumb-sucking was looked upon as some sort of infantile crime. Allow a baby to suck his thumb? Perish the thought. Any method, even actual splinting of the arms was used to prevent the baby getting his thumb into his mouth. Gone are the days of bad medicines put on a thumb (which most babies sucked off eagerly) or wire cages encasing the thumb which the poor baby hit against his face and cried angrily in pain and frustration.

We have reached a more sensible plateau. While we do not actually encourage the child to thumb-suck—we don't go into a tizzy if he does.

The methods we take are undercover ones. We see that the baby's nutritional needs are met generously, by allowing him to eat on demand and all he wants. We see that his hands are kept occupied.

Accepts Rattle

By the time he is four months old he will be accepting a rattle put into his hands. We tie small toys within reach of him and hope he will be interested in trying to get his hands onto them.

We put him in a playpen where he can roll about and have his toys within reach and center it where he can see the activities going on inside of the house.

We fuss over and cuddle him when he is irritable so that he will not be driven to use his thumb as a soothing agent. In fact, what is done now is to see that the baby is nutritionally emotionally satisfied so that he has no particular use for his thumb, either as a substitute for food or as a pacifier.

We do not look upon his thumb-sucking as a wicked indulgence but as a symptom of some unfulfilled need and we try everything within our power to find out what that may be. That is the newer attitude toward this ancient habit.

If you would like our leaflet "Thumb Sucking" it may be had by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 55 to Myrtle Meyer Eldred in care of this newspaper.

MRS. ROBERT OREN BASS

Miss Jo Ann Carso Becomes Bride Of Robert Bass In St. Matthews Church

In a beautiful ceremony at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon in St. Matthew's Catholic Church, Miss Jo Ann Elizabeth Carso, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph S. Carso, of this city, became the bride of Robert Oren Bass, son of Mr. and Mrs. Linas Oren Bass of Morgan City.

Father Michael Hannon performed the double ring ceremony before an altar decorated with four picturesque arrangements of white gladioli.

Mrs. Della Williamson was organist and accompanied Charles Biggar, soloist, who sang "Ava Maria" and "Panis Angelius."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was wearing a white five-tiered wedding gown fashioned of all-over embroidered tulle. The bodice featured a scalloped neckline with matching short sleeves and a pointed waistline. She wore three-quarter gloves of the same embroidered tulle. Her fingertip veil of imported illusion fell from a tiara embossed in sequins. She caried a white orchid surrounded by stephanotis.

Miss Catherine Carso, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a short model of peacock taffeta with a white chiffon sash draped at the bodice. Complementing her gown was a bandeau of Esther Reed daisis and a bouquet of the matching blossoms.

Bridesmaids were Miss Patsy Boggs, Miss Lenora Carson and Miss Camille Carso, both sisters of the bride. Their dresses, headdresses and bouquets were identical to the maid of honor's.

Serving the bridegroom as best man was Thomas Neal Bass.

Groomsmen and ushers were William Culp, William Joseph Haddad, Vincent J. Casamento, Robert K. Rose and Joe Allelo.

Mrs. Carso chose for her daughter's wedding a blue grey lace with matching hat and white gloves. The bridegroom's mother was attired in a rose beige lace and net frock with white gloves and brown accessories. Both mothers wore corsages of sweetheart roses.

Reception Held

A reception followed the ceremony in the Cameo Room of the Virginia Hotel.

Esther Reed daisies in shades of aqua and white were used throughout the reception room.

The bride's table was centered with an arrangement of daisies and held a three-tiered wedding cake placed on a reflector and surrounded by garlands of greenery.

Upon return, the couple will make their home in Morgan City.

Mrs. Bass graduated from Neville High School and Louisiana Polytechnic Institute where she holds membership in Phi Mu sorority.

A graduate of Louisiana Tech in petroleum engineering, Mr. Bass is a member of Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity. He finished Terrebonne High School prior to entering Tech.

Rehearsal Supper

On Friday evening at 8 o'clock, Mr. and Mrs. Linas Oren Bass of Morgan City entertained in honor of their son, Robert Oren Bass, and his fiance, Miss Jo Ann Elizabeth Carso, with a rehearsal supper at the Rendezvous.

Centering the tables were arrangements of blue and white Esther Reel daisies.

Sharing the affair with the honor couple and hosts were the bride - elect's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph S. Carso, Miss Catherine Carso, Miss Lenora Carso, Miss Camille Carso, Sammy Carso, Miss Camille Casamento, Miss Patsy Boggs, Tommy Bass, William Culp, William J. Haddad, Vincent J. Casamento, Jr., Joe Allelo, Robert Rose, Miss Mary Jo Ware, Miss Martha Sue Wheatley, Miss Mary Beth Culp, Father Michael Hannon, Charles Biggar and Mrs. Della Williamson.

As An Actress Julie Harris Is Specialist In Intensity

By FRANCES LEWINE

WASHINGTON — Take a good look at actress Julie Harris' face when she appears on television in "The Lark" today.

She says nobody recognizes her on the street — "I don't have that sort of fame."

Julie Harris at 31 is recognized as one of the top young actresses of the theater today and has shown her range on both stage and screen.

But she fades into the crowd—pale, thin, intense - looking with grey eyes and hair the rust color of autumn leaves.

Right now, her hair is cut short for the role of Joan of Arc in "The Lark," which wound up a four - month road tour here. Miss Harris will do a 75-minute version on TV.

Back To Hollywood

After that, she hopes to find a role in another good film.

All aspects of human nature interest her, Miss Harris says, but she prefers parts furtherest from her own personality — "Maybe deep down I'd like to be somebody else."

JULIE HARRIS

In private life, she is the wife of stage manager Manning Gurian and mother of a 17-month-old, blue eyed son, Peter.

Together, they made up a traveling trio on "The Lark" road tour because they didn't want to leave Peter behind. As Gurian put it: "He might not have known us when we came home."

Miss Harris and her tall, dark-haired husband are trying for a normal family life despite their theatrical enterprises. They live in a three - story brownstone house in New York's east 50s when theater chores permit.

But otherwise, "Wherever we're together — that's home," Julie says.

Shy With Strangers

Miss Harris has an initial shyness with strangers that sometimes leaves her tongue - tied, she admits.

A noontime interview with Miss Harris started stiffly. Silently she heated coffee in the kitchen of a Washington hotel suite, served it carefully, taking none herself and bypassing small talk.

The stage, she said, is really the actor's best medium "because there is so much to be learned from doing parts over and over again." But she thinks "If you can do both film and stage work, they sort of help each other along."

A great deal of the commercial success of "The Lark" road tour she attributed to the publicity she gained from two good pictures, "East of Eden" and "I Am A Camera."

Asked what parts she feels were close to her own personality, Miss Harris said with her bubbling, throaty laugh, "I could hardly say I'd like to be Sally Bowles," the unconventional woman of many loves who was heroine of "I Am A Camera."

And "must as I'd like to be a saint, I'm certainly not like Joan . . . I never wanted to be Frankie Adams (the adolescent of 'Member of the Wedding' who was hell bent for a lot of torment."

"Mlle. Colombe" was a nice part, Miss Harris continued, recalling fondly the funloving actress of the play of backstage life in the 1900s, "and the part called for pretty clothes."

Self-Conscious About Hair

"And long hair," her husband interjected.

"Personally, I like long hair," said Miss Harris who suffered in "Member of the Wedding" with a haircut that looked as if somebody had chewed it.

She remembered laughingly that a taxi driver stared at her and demanded: "Why do women cut their hair like that"

"I felt self-conscious," she admitted and she even took to wearing hats to cover her whole head.

As young Peter played nearby, Miss Harris was asked whether her son, too, might go into the theater.

"Peter," she put it to the youngster squarely, "do you want to go into the theater:"

The little boy, startled by the sudden attention, grimaced, gave the smallest sound of crying and ran to hide behind his father's chair.

"Doesn't sound like it," Miss Harris said.

Miss Jo Ann Carso Becomes Bride Of Robert Bass In St. Matthews Church

In a beautiful ceremony at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon in St. Matthew's Catholic Church, Miss Jo Ann Elizabeth Carso, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph S. Carso, of this city, became the bride of Robert Oren Bass, son of Mr. and Mrs. Linas Oren Bass of Morgan City.

Father Michael Hannon performed the double ring ceremony before an altar decorated with four picturesque arrangements of white gladioli.

Mrs. Della Williamson was organist and accompanied Charles Biggar, soloist, who sang "Ava Maria" and "Panis Angelius."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was wearing a white five-tiered wedding gown fashioned of all-over embroidered tulle. The bodice featured a scalloped neckline with matching short sleeves and a pointed waistline. She wore three-quarter gloves of the same embroidered tulle. Her fingertip veil of imported illusion fell from a tiara embossed in sequins. She caried a white orchid surrounded by stephanotis.

Miss Catherine Carso, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a short model of peacock taffeta with a white chiffon sash draped at the bodice. Complementing her gown was a bandeau of Esther Reed daisis and a bouquet of the matching blossoms.

Bridesmaids were Miss Patsy Boggs, Miss Lenora Carson and Miss Camille Carso, both sisters of the bride. Their dresses, headdresses and bouquets were identical to the maid of honor's.

Serving the bridegroom as best man was Thomas Neal Bass.

Groomsmen and ushers were William Culp, William Joseph Haddad, Vincent J. Casamento, Robert K. Rose and Joe Allelo.

Mrs. Carso chose for her daughter's wedding a blue grey lace with matching hat and white gloves. The bridegroom's mother was attired in a rose beige lace and net frock with white gloves and brown accessories. Both mothers wore corsages of sweetheart roses.

Reception Held

A reception followed the ceremony in the Cameo Room of the Virginia Hotel.

Esther Reed daisies in shades of aqua and white were used throughout the reception room.

The bride's table was centered with an arrangement of daisies and held a three-tiered wedding cake placed on a reflector and surrounded by garlands of greenery.

Upon return, the couple will make their home in Morgan City.

Mrs. Bass graduated from Neville High School and Louisiana Polytechnic Institute where she holds membership in Phi Mu sorority.

A graduate of Louisiana Tech in petroleum engineering, Mr. Bass is a member of Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity. He finished Terrebonne High School prior to entering Tech.

Rehearsal Supper

On Friday evening at 8 o'clock, Mr. and Mrs. Linas Oren Bass of Morgan City entertained in honor of their son, Robert Oren Bass, and his fiance, Miss Jo Ann Elizabeth Carso, with a rehearsal supper at the Readezvous.

Centering the tables were arrangements of blue and white Esther Reel daisies.

Sharing the affair with the honor couple and hosts were the bride - elect's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph S. Carso, Miss Catherine Carso, Miss Lenora Carso, Miss Camille Carso, Sammy Carso, Miss Camille Casamento, Miss Patsy Boggs, Tommy Bass, William Culp, William J. Haddad, Vincent J. Casamento, Jr., Joe Allelo, Robert Rose, Miss Mary Jo Ware, Miss Martha Sue Wheatley, Miss Mary Beth Culp, Father Michael Hannon, Charles Biggar and Mrs. Della Williamson.

As An Actress Julie Harris Is Specialist In Intensity

By FRANCES LEWINE

WASHINGTON — Take a good look at actress Julie Harris' face when she appears on television in "The Lark" today.

She says nobody recognizes her on the street — "I don't have that sort of fame."

Julie Harris at 31 is recognized as one of the top young actresses of the theater today and has shown her range on both stage and screen.

But she fades into the crowd—pale, thin, intense - looking with grey eyes and hair the rust color of autumn leaves.

Right now, her hair is cut short for the role of Joan of Arc in "The Lark," which wound up a four - month road tour here. Miss Harris will do a 75-minute version on TV.

Back To Hollywood

After that, she hopes to find a role in another good film.

All aspects of human nature interest her, Miss Harris says, but she prefers parts furtherest from her own personality — "Maybe deep down I'd like to be somebody else."

JULIE HARRIS

In private life, she is the wife of stage manager Manning Gurian and mother of a 17-month-old, blue eyed son, Peter.

Together, they made up a traveling trio on "The Lark" road tour because they didn't want to leave Peter behind. As Gurian put it: "He might not have known us when we came home."

Miss Harris and her tall, dark-haired husband are trying for a normal family life despite their theatrical enterprises. They live in a three - story brownstone house in New York's east 50s when theater chores permit.

But otherwise, "Wherever we're together — that's home," Julie says.

Shy With Strangers

Miss Harris has an initial shyness with strangers that sometimes leaves her tongue - tied, she admits.

A noontime interview with Miss Harris started stiffly. Silently she heated coffee in the kitchen of a Washington hotel suite, served it carefully, taking none herself and bypassing small talk.

The stage, she said, is really the actor's best medium "because there is so much to be learned from doing parts over and over again." But she thinks "if you can do both film and stage work, they sort of help each other along."

A great deal of the commercial success of "The Lark" road tour she attributed to the publicity she gained from two good pictures, "East of Eden" and "I Am A Camera."

Asked what parts she feels were close to her own personality, Miss Harris said with her bubbling, throaty laugh, "I could hardly say I'd like to be Sally Bowles," the unconventional woman of many loves who was heroine of "I Am A Camera."

And "must as I'd like to be a saint, I'm certainly not like Joan . . . I never wanted to be Frankie Adams (the adolescent of 'Member of the Wedding' who was hell bent for a lot of torment."

"Mlle. Colombe" was a nice part, Miss Harris continued, recalling fondly the funloving actress of the play of backstage life in the 1900s, "and the part called for pretty clothes."

Self-Conscious About Hair

"And long hair," her husband interjected.

"Personally, I like long hair," said Miss Harris who suffered in "Member of the Wedding" with a haircut that looked as if somebody had chewed it.

She remembered laughingly that a taxi driver stared at her and demanded: "Why do women cut their hair like that"

"I felt self-conscious," she admitted and she even took to wearing hats to cover her whole head.

As young Peter played nearby, Miss Harris was asked whether her son, too, might go into the theater.

"Peter," she put it to the youngster squarely, "do you want to go into the theater:"

The little boy, startled by the sudden attention, grimaced, gave the smallest sound of crying and ran to hide behind his father's chair.

"Doesn't sound like it," Miss Harris said.

NLSC Women's Club Holds Annual Valentine Banquet

The Northeast La. State College Women's Club held its annual Valentine Banquet last evening in the new Penn Hotel.

The banquet room was gaily decorated in the Valentine motif. On the speaker's table was an arrangement of red carnations while red and white candles and red Valentine hearts centered the smaller tables.

The guests enjoyed a delightful guessing game. All of those who had not found an answer when the banquet was over had to lead the group in singing "Good Night, Ladies."

Dr. Carl Meeks was toastmaster and introduced an entertaining program during which Mr. Carl Grantz read a Valentine poem; Mrs. Ralph Wilson and Mr. Marcus Mapp presented an original pantomime. The husbands were given paper bags, bits of ribbon, and sundry other articles and instructed to make hats for their wives.

Pres. and Mrs. Slater were given a small gift for being the couple who had been married for the longest time.

Mrs. W. S. Mattox was the banquet chairman. She was ably assisted by Mrs. Ralph Wilson, who was in charge of invitations; Mrs. Carl Meeks, who planned the program; Mrs. Cecil Headlee and Mrs. R. B. Koos, who composed the decoration committee.

Heeded Henie; Became Ice Star

By CLAIRE COX

NEW YORK — Sonja Henie got more than she bargained for when she tried to cheer up a sick little girl 10 years ago by telling her she might grow up to be an ice skater some day.

The sick child is a healthy 18-year-old miss today -- and one of Miss Henie's chief competitors on the ice.

"Miss Henie thinks I'm the fastest spinner in the world," said Shirley Linde. "I can do eight turns a second. I've never been in any shows with her, though. She is the only soloist in the shows she appears in. In her own show, she doesn't like anyone to skate better than she, even though she is a wonderful, wonderful skater.

"There never will be another person who can do the hula like her."

The Norwegian skating star still is Shirley's ideal and when the two of them get together, Miss Henie gives her young competitor friendly advice.

"The first time I saw Miss Henie, I was eight years old and was suffering from serious complications as a result of a tonsilectomy," Shirley said. "She stopped at the hospital to visit sick children. When she paused by my bed, she said, just to comfort me, I'm sure, that maybe I'd be a skating star some day.

"When I got better, my doctor said I should take up some outdoor sport, so I learned to skate. I practiced in the Rockefeller center rink in the winter and at Lake Placid in the summer."

Before Shirley turned professional at the age of 15, she had won a number of speed and figure skating titles. Among them were four eastern states speed championships, a Middle Atlantic speed title and an award as U. S. gold medalist figure skater.

YOUR PROBLEMS

Moonlight Gambler Likes Different Chick Each Night

Dear Ann: You ought to be penalized 15 yards of typewriter ribbon for your poke at the unmarried men who happen to like it that way.

What twist of the married brain causes it to see red when a single man dares to mention that he's happy?

I have slaved for 20 years to acquire a little of the comforts of life and I don't intend to let some girl burn my toast for six weeks then decide to call it quits and sue me for half of what I've got.

Do you mind, Ann, if I happen to enjoy gambling in the moonlight? May I continue to lay my bachelor - crown on the line night after night with a different chick? Please let me know. — Moonlight Gambler.

Be my guest. But why a different chick every night? Can't you get a gal to go out with you more than once?

Dear Ann: We were having supper the other night and my two sisters were guests. The doorbell rang and my husband went to the door. It was a salesman I'd never seen before.

My husband slammed the door in his face, came back to the dining rom and began to take the roof off the place. He insisted the man was a secret boy friend and that he'd caught us red-handed. I was ashamed of this scene in front of my sisters I'd like to have disappeared through the floor.

We have a child a year old and my husband threatens to take him away and throw me out. He's so bull - headed I can't reason with him. I'm scared to death because he sleeps with a gun under the pillow. What shall I do? — Desperate Woman.

Urge your husband to get professional help for his own good as well as yours. He can't take your child away merely because a salesman came to the door and he has a wild imagination.

If you're afraid to live with this man see an attorney about separate maintenance. A life of fear could make you a candidate for the couch, too.

Dear Ann: I'm writing to disagree with your answer to "Fire-Chaser's Wife."

I, too, am married to a Fire-Chaser, but we have no problem because I go with him to all the fires.

Believe me, Ann, if people who chase fires are cases of "arrested development" (as you said) there are sure a lot of these "cases" around. I've seen some mighty huge crowds at these fires. We can't all be nuts.

I believe in being interested in anything my husband likes. If it's chasing fires in the middle of the night — away we go — together. Mrs. D. R.

Dear Ann: Something must be wrong with my hospitality, generosity and my love for children.

My husband is a successful business man and insists I invite his assistant manager and his wife and kiddies for several meals a week.

Last week the tribe arrived for a roast - beef and rabbit dinner which I had prepared. When we sat down, the mother asked to be excused and I found her in the kitchen warming some chili she'd brought in a quart jar for her kids. She said they were "finicky eaters." For dessert, she ignored the pudding I fixed and helped herself to a cake which was baked for a church bazaar.

My husband is very fond of his assistant manager as he's a competent and refined young man. But what am I to do about this nervy woman? — E. M.

Simply tell her with an economy of words that you'd prefer to treat her as a guest in your home and not to take command in your kitchen.

Too often, people allow others to run over them in an effort to preserve "good relations." This seldom works because one irritation piled on another eventually leads to an explosion.

This brassy character must be told off sooner or later unless you want to make a career out of being a door - mat. The sooner you clear the air the better.

P. S. Tell your husband once a week is plenty — even for people you like.

Confidentially: Nag Out: Try going to bed at night and see how it works.

(Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper and enclose a stamped self-addressed envelope.)

NLSC Women's Club Holds Annual Valentine Banquet

The Northeast La. State College Women's Club held its annual Valentine Banquet last evening in the new Penn Hotel.

The banquet room was gaily decorated in the Valentine motif. On the speaker's table was an arrangement of red carnations while red and white candles and red Valentine hearts centered the smaller tables.

The guests enjoyed a delightful guessing game. All of those who had not found an answer when the banquet was over had to lead the group in singing "Good Night, Ladies."

Dr. Carl Meeks was toastmaster and introduced an entertaining program during which Mr. Carl Grantz read a Valentine poem; Mrs. Ralph Wilson and Mr. Marcus Mapp presented an original pantomime. The husbands were given paper bags, bits of ribbon, and sundry other articles and instructed to make hats for their wives.

Pres. and Mrs. Slater were given a small gift for being the couple who had been married for the longest time.

Mrs. W. S. Mattox was the banquet chairman. She was ably assisted by Mrs. Ralph Wilson, who was in charge of invitations; Mrs. Carl Meeks, who planned the program; Mrs. Cecil Headlee and Mrs. R. B. Koos, who composed the decoration committee.

Heeded Henie; Became Ice Star

By CLAIRE COX

NEW YORK — Sonja Henie got more than she bargained for when she tried to cheer up a sick little girl 10 years ago by telling her she might grow up to be an ice skater some day.

The sick child is a healthy 18-year-old miss today — and one of Miss Henie's chief competitors on the ice.

"Miss Henie thinks I'm the fastest spinner in the world," said Shirley Linde. "I can do eight turns a second. I've never been in any shows with her, though. She is the only soloist in the shows she appears in. In her own show, she doesn't like anyone to skate better than she, even though she is a wonderful, wonderful skater.

"There never will be another person who can do the hula like her."

The Norwegian skating star still is Shirley's ideal and when the two of them get together, Miss Henie gives her young competitor friendly advice.

"The first time I saw Miss Henie, I was eight years old and was suffering from serious complications as a result of a tonsilectomy," Shirley said. "She stopped at the hospital to visit sick children. When she paused by my bed, she said, just to comfort me, I'm sure, that maybe I'd be a skating star some day.

"When I got better, my doctor said I should take up some outdoor sport, so I learned to skate. I practiced in the Rockefeller center rink in the winter and at Lake Placid in the summer."

Before Shirley turned professional at the age of 15, she had won a number of speed and figure skating titles. Among them were four eastern states speed championships, a Middle Atlantic speed title and an award as U. S. gold medalist figure skater.

Warm Days Bring Out Early Blooms

A few weeks ago we talked about viburnums in this column. Peggy Garnett tells me she has a "Tinus" variety that is in full bloom. Mrs. Bagwell gave her the plant a few years ago. Peggy says the plant was slow putting on growth but when it did start, she had to keep it pruned. The viburnum is now in full bloom, with white flowers. The buds have a purple cast. The freezes just didn't seem to touch it at all. This would seem to be an excellent plant for those wanting blooms at this time of year. Since it grows six feet or higher, it would make an excellent plant for screening. Stop by Peggy's, 1602 N. 2nd and see the plant.

Other Blooming Plants

The white shrub blooming around the Twin Cities is star magnolia. Driving down Riverfront you see several, some white, some pale pink. This also comes in lavender.

I believe the white Japanese magnolias will be in bloom today. On Monday a few were open. The largest plant I've seen is in the Biedenharn garden, 2006 Riverside, on the Park Avenue side. Just drive by slowly and look just over the brick wall. It's a lovely sight, the white blossoms against the dark brick of the house. While you're there, notice the different plants espaliered against the brick wall. There's a loquat, a susanqua and an interesting ivy design.

In several gardens I've noticed the winter honeysuckle in bloom. The fragrance is delightful. This shrub grows to a large size and is deciduous. Therefore it would not be best for planting next to your house or for screen planting if you want heavy screening. For a baffle, several plants of this old time shrub would be lovely.

Select Now

If it's too wet to plant in your garden, why not go to the nursery and get your shrubs and hold up the planting? You can do this with balled and burlapped plants or those in buckets. Have you ever thought how we rush our nurserymen? We wait until the last of February or first of March and then want immediate service. Every gardener seems to have the same urge at the same time. Right now they're not too busy, but later the nurseries will be crowded with customers.

Do you have your rose bulletins? If not call 3-2251 for your copy. Read and study this before buying and planting.

New Book

"Foliage Arrangements" by Emma Hodkenson Cyphers is another contribution to flower arrangers. The discussion is applied to arrangements made of foliage, without flowers. Foliage is the leafy part of the plants, of course. You may imagine this quite monotonous, but the book shows you where this is far from the case.

Most foliage is green, but there are variations. The author uses fall colored foliage, dried foliage, red foliage (as in begonia) and yellow variegated foliage. Other points she discusses are size, shape, texture, shades of green. The book is a liberal education in foliage use in arrangements.

Spotlight On Foods

Although you can't "count your chickens before they're hatched" you can count on plenty of eggs now and for several months to come. Large eggs are your good buy now.

Grade AA and A are the top quality eggs. Many markets also have Grade B and current receipt eggs. They're good too, but because of their lower quality, they are best for use in baking, thickening and to combine with other foods. White or brown? Shell color makes no difference in egg quality.

Cool temperatures aid in keeping top quality eggs. This "hen's fruit" as Dagwood calls them, picks up flavors too, so keep eggs covered and stored away from foods with strong odors. Eggs are good for your pocketbook and good for you.

The first and fundamental rule in egg cookery is to cook them slowly with low to moderate heat. High heat causes the eggs to be tough and leathery. The rules for egg care are simple: Keep clean, covered and cool.

Every sealed, sanitary egg contains a yolk and white filled with nourishing food stuffs. The protein of both the yolk and white are complete, which means they build and repair tissues and sustain life. Twelve of the most important minerals needed by the human body are found in eggs, more in the yolk. The iron content is high. Eggs also have important vitamins including, Vitamin A, niacin and riboflavin.

While eggs are budget priced try this recipe for lemon sponge pudding:

Lemon Sponge Pudding

¼ cup butter.
1 cup sugar.
¼ cup flour.
3 egg yolks.
1 1-3 cups milk.
Juice of 2 lemons.
Grated rind of 2 lemons.
⅛ teaspoon salt.
3 egg whites.

Cream butter. Add sugar. Beat yolks and and add milk, lemon juice and rind. Add to sugar mixture. Add flour. Fold in egg whites. Bake in 1-quart casserole for 1 hour at 350 degrees. Makes 6 servings.

News About New Products

A United States watch manufacturer says ten years research has resulted in the world's first electric wrist watch. You men will understand what this means — it's too deep for us women. This is how the watch works — a tiny energizer converts chemical energy into electrical energy, to release a stream of electrons that cause the balance wheel to oscillate and run the time - keeper. No main spring is needed in the electric watch.

Comfort for feet is promised by a new kind of insole. A wave-like undersurface is said to give a gently massaging effect on the soles of feet.

Easier and cheaper addition of central air conditioning to homes with forced air heating systems is claimed for a new V-type cooling coil. The device is said to be installed easily on top of a warm air furnace without the major changes in ductwork required by other coils. Good news to those people who have central heating and would like central air conditioning.

An entirely new method of room air conditioning is said to tailor air delivery to the size and shape of the room. The maker adds it disperses cooled air in a wide spiral that is said to reach every corner of a room.

Have you seen the changes in the new vacuum cleaners? Getting rid of dirt is no longer a chore with the machines that have a disposable dust bag. Both tank and canister types weigh less and are easier to move about. Hoses are more flexible. Attachments are easier to connect and machines are less noisy.

Canister and tank types are basically the same. Homemakers should consider their needs carefully before buying. The upright cleaner might be better if you have many thick rugs to clean. If you do much of the above-the-floor cleaning with a vacuum, the tank type may be better. It's fine for cleaning walls, draperies, upholstery and furniture.

The newest aid to home seamstresses is something called an instant pattern. All the pattern pieces are printed on a single sheet of tissue paper. Garden Center Notes

By Mary M. Jardine

Early Spring Flowers Seen At Center

The weather indicates that we are having an early spring and although we know we will have more cold weather what a joy the camellias, narcissus, quince and early blooming flowers are to our eyes and a lift they give to our spirits.

Members of the Arrangers took full advantage of this weather trend in the lovely arrangements presented at the Garden Center this week.

Mrs. Luther Branch designed a lovely crescent arrangement, using pussywillow branches and forsythia for the crescent line. Golden King Alfred narcissus and the smaller narcissus minor were massed within the crescent. The container was a desert tan boat-shaped bowl set on a free-form black base. This design would be eminently suitable for an entrance hall or living room table.

Mrs. J. H. Netherland created a delightful triangular arrangement using a large conch shell for a container. The line pattern was achieved with rosy red quince and two magnificient blooms of Purple Dawn camellias and their foliage as a focal point. The color blending of the quince and camellias was just perfect. We staged this design against a rosy pink background. It would be suitable for a small hall table, on top of television set or the buffet in the dining room.

Magnolia soulangeana was featured in the appealing line arrangement designed by Mrs. John P. Lewis. A small pewter container set on a black base held the graceful placements of magnolia buds. Foliage of the arum was placed over the rim of the container to soften the severity of the line. For those of you not familiar with the magnolia soulangeana, it is the beautiful tree that you see blooming in gardens opening to six-inch fragrant now with the brilliant purple buds white flowers. The tree grows in a graceful fashion and the flowers are delightful in arrangements. Their bare interesting branches and the placement of the buds along the stalk inspires the arranger to unusual designs with "one kind of flower". Here's the latest information on how to condition them. Cut when the buds are well developed. The largest and most advanced will open fully. Split the woody stems and scrape the bark away from the base for several inches. Let remain in cold water overnight or until the buds unfold to the desired stage. When properly conditioned these flowers will last up to four days.

Mrs. W. E. Kramer designed a dramatic arrangement for a hall table. Her container was a tall earthen ware vase of gray set on a black base. Seven tall branches of pussywillow formed the symmetrical linear pattern. Variegated pittosporum strengthened the line and was massed at the rim of the container. Four single white camellias were effectively grouped to one side with the gray foliage of Dusty miller (artemisia) used for balance on the other side and gracefully coming down the surface of the vase, unifying container and materials and subtly emphasizing the color harmony.

ARRANGERS CIRCLE EXHIBITS AT GARDEN CENTER—Magnolia Soulangeana was featured in the line arrangement designed by Mrs. John Lewis. Mrs. Luther Branch's springtime arrangement of pussy-willow, forsythia and golden yellow daffodils was displayed against a chartreuse background. Several Important Dates In February

February, although the shortest month of the year, has some very important days: The birthdays of George Washington and Abraham Lincoln and St. Valentine Day. The deeds of these two great Americans will always remind us to keep within our heart love for our freedom and country. St. Valentine's Day according to legend, is a reminder to express our love to those dear to us. Let's not forget to celebrate it this Thursday.

Eighteen members from 12 of the organized clubs of the Home Demonstration Clubs received specific training in infant feeding last Monday. After these leaders have met the requirements, an X-ray, physical tests required for food handlers, and have set up an emergency kit, they will be eligible to receive the civil defense identification certificate. Inspection of kits in home of applicant will be made by one of the nurses of the parish health department. The certificates will be presented to qualified leaders at the Parish Home Demonstration Council meeting March 16th. Miss Hazel Owens, supervisor public health nurses, of Ouachita parish, is in charge of the training information. The leaders taking the training are: Mrs. W. H. Pogue, Lamkin; Mrs. Max L. Coon, Okaloosa; Mrs. Sam Taylor, Bosco; Mrs. Melvin Riser, McClendon; Mrs. D. W. Layhorn, Sterlington; Mrs. Elzie Cummings, Okaloosa; Mrs. W. J. St. John, Swartz; Mrs. Thomas Stockwell, Logtown; Mrs. J. V. Purdy, Mrs. H. W. Griggs, Liberty; Mrs. E. G. Cagle, Mrs. Lee Man, Cheniere; Mrs. C. D. Hutto, Mrs. D. E. Taylor, McGuire; Mrs. Ann Magown, Mrs. J. W. Fleming, Claiborne; Mrs. C. D. Henderson, Claiborne; and Mrs. C. A. Malone, Eureka.

A second training meeting is offered to the other club members, desiring to qualify, February 18th at 9:30 a. m. in the agricultural auditorium, West Monroe; — call agent and enroll now. Let's have 100 per cent of clubs participating. Any club member may take this training and when requirements met will receive certificate.

Special Events

The District Home Demonstration Council meeting will be at Brown Hall February 19th at 9.00 a. m. Home management leaders training meeting will be February 27th, 9:30 a. m. at the agricultural auditorium, West Monroe. Leaders be sure to bring the reports Mrs. Hissong asked you to return. Only two clubs have sent them to me.

A SAFE LADDER: Don't paint that ladder! That's a safety - first hint. Paint protects the ladder, but it may hide cracks or splits that can make the ladder unsafe and cause an accident. A protective coating of linseed oil will keep the rails and rungs smooth, and will prevent drying out and loosening of the rungs. If pentachlorophenol is added to the oil, the preservative effect will be increased. A good idea is to set the legs of the ladder in cans of pentachlorophenol for a thorough soaking of the wood that rests on the ground.

Be Sure To Cook That Pork

Apparently there are still people who don't know the importance of thoroughly cooking pork before eating it. Life can be lost from trichinosis. The small round worms that cause trichinosis live in the intestines of infected hogs, producing larval forms which migrate to muscles of the animal. These may live for many months in hog meat unless killed by extreme heat or cold. If infected flesh is eaten the larvae develop into adult worms in the human intestine, and produce many tiny active embryos which migrate to all parts of the body giving severe and sometimes fatal symptoms. Because there is no easy way to tell the difference between infected pork and good pork, the safest policy is to thoroughly cook all pork products before eating.

Landscaper Plots The Outdoor Scene

Even amongst gardeners, a good deal of misunderstanding exists about what the landscaper does. A great many people seem to think that he just goes around beautifying the landscape.

Before the landscaper can even begin to beautify the landscape, he must organize the spaces around your house for convenience and pleasant living. He lays out the driveway and the walks and paths to save you extra steps. He locates your out-door living room so that it is one continuous piece with the living rooms inside the house. He locates your garbage disposal space so as to save you every step he can and your drying area for clothes the same way.

If your driveway is so placed that you have to carry groceries through the living rooms, this will not be pleasant living. If you have to carry all the food for an outdoor meal through the whole house, this is not pleasant living. If you have to walk a long distance to leave garbage to be collected, this is a landscape headache!

When the spaces around the house have been organized, then the landscaper sets about hiding the garbage and clothes yard and screening you from your neighbors for their and your privacy. He can then set up the partial walls of his out-door rooms or spaces. This he does with live trees and shrubs, with ground covers and masses of flowers. If he is a good landscaper, he knows the ultimate sizes of his plant materials, and he is enough of a horticulturist to know where to plant things for their successful growth. He will not put shade lovers out in the broiling sun nor sun lovers in dense shade.

No matter what size you decide to start out with, the landscaper sees them in his imagination as grown plants and will provide the right amount of space for them to grow into, until they are mature.

The designer of landscapes uses plants according to their texture of foliage and branch, their color of foliage, flowers or berries just as you select the wall paper for a room. With large houses and buildings he is apt to use large coarse foliage. With delicate structures, he will use the finer foliaged plants he knows. Look at the big public buildings in town with big foliaged England laurel and Southern magnolias around them, and then look at the houses with delicate spindled balustrade and roof supports where nandinas seem to be a part of the composition.

In the groupings of plants which the landscaper plans for you, he makes beautiful compositions just as a painter does. The difference is that the landscaper must know horticulture, too. He places his compositions as partial walls and screens around his out-door spaces in a sort of Japanese house design in which the rooms run into each other gracefully. All this and more is landscaping!

Discussion of the modern age will be divided into two parts. Early Victorian will be presented by Mrs. John P. Lewis, and Mrs. Sol Courtman will discuss the contemporary and ultra-modern division.

A short history of camellias in Monroe will be given by Mrs. Robert Layton.

Members of the American Camellia Society have been asked to display collectors' items in connection with the theme. Library books, samples of insecticides, new varieties of camellias, and a rooting box will also be on exhibition.

Another display will show how to graft Susanquas. Club members have been asked to bring specimens of camellias to be classified. They should be delivered at the church between 9 a.m. and noon.

Warm Days Bring Out Early Blooms

A few weeks ago we talked about viburnums in this column. Peggy Garnett tells me she has a "Tinus" variety that is in full bloom. Mrs. Bagwell gave her the plant a few years ago. Peggy says the plant was slow putting on growth but when it did start, she had to keep it pruned. The viburnum is now in full bloom, with white flowers. The buds have a purple cast. The freezes just didn't seem to touch it at all. This would seem to be an excellent plant for those wanting blooms at this time of year. Since it grows six feet or higher, it would make an excellent plant for screening. Stop by Peggy's, 1602 N. 2nd and see the plant.

Other Blooming Plants

The white shrub blooming around the Twin Cities is star magnolia. Driving down Riverfront you see several, some white, some pale pink. This also comes in lavender.

I believe the white Japanese magnolias will be in bloom today. On Monday a few were open. The largest plant I've seen is in the Biedenharn garden, 2006 Riverside, on the Park Avenue side. Just drive by slowly and look just over the brick wall. It's a lovely sight, the white blossoms against the dark brick of the house. While you're there, notice the different plants espaliered against the brick wall. There's a loquat, a susanqua and an interesting ivy design.

In several gardens I've noticed the winter honeysuckle in bloom. The fragrance is delightful. This shrub grows to a large size and is deciduous. Therefore it would not be best for planting next to your house or for screen planting if you want heavy screening. For a baffle, several plants of this old time shrub would be lovely.

Select Now

If it's too wet to plant in your garden, why not go to the nursery and get your shrubs and hold up the planting? You can do this with balled and burlapped plants or those in buckets. Have you ever thought how we rush our nurserymen? We wait until the last of February or first of March and then want immediate service. Every gardener seems to have the same urge at the same time. Right now they're not too busy, but later the nurseries will be crowded with customers.

Do you have your rose bulletins? If not call 3-2251 for your copy. Read and study this before buying and planting.

New Book

"Foliage Arrangements" by Emma Hodkenson Cyphers is another contribution to flower arrangers. The discussion is applied to arrangements made of foliage, without flowers. Foliage is the leafy part of the plants, of course. You may imagine this quite monotonous, but the book shows you where this is far from the case.

Most foliage is green, but there are variations. The author uses fall colored foliage, dried foliage, red foliage (as in begonia) and yellow variegated foliage. Other points she discusses are size, shape, texture, shades of green. The book is a liberal education in foliage use in arrangements.

Spotlight On Foods

Although you can't "count your chickens before they're hatched" you can count on plenty of eggs now and for several months to come. Large eggs are your good buy now.

Grade AA and A are the top quality eggs. Many markets also have Grade B and current receipt eggs. They're good too, but because of their lower quality, they are best for use in baking, thickening and to combine with other foods. White or brown? Shell color makes no difference in egg quality.

Cool temperatures aid in keeping top quality eggs. This "hen's fruit" as Dagwood calls them, picks up flavors too, so keep eggs covered and stored away from foods with strong odors. Eggs are good for your pocketbook and good for you.

The first and fundamental rule in egg cookery is to cook them slowly with low to moderate heat. High heat causes the eggs to be tough and leathery. The rules for egg care are simple: Keep clean, covered and cool.

Every sealed, sanitary egg contains a yolk and white filled with nourishing food stuffs. The protein of both the yolk and white are complete, which means they build and repair tissues and sustain life. Twelve of the most important minerals needed by the human body are found in eggs, more in the yolk. The iron content is high. Eggs also have important vitamins including, Vitamin A, niacin and riboflavin.

While eggs are budget priced try this recipe for lemon sponge pudding:

Lemon Sponge Pudding

¼ cup butter.
1 cup sugar.
¼ cup flour.
3 egg yolks.
1 1-3 cups milk.
Juice of 2 lemons.
Grated rind of 2 lemons.
⅛ teaspoon salt.
3 egg whites.

Cream butter. Add sugar. Beat yolks and and add milk, lemon juice and rind. Add to sugar mixture. Add flour. Fold in egg whites. Bake in 1-quart casserole for 1 hour at 350 degrees. Makes 6 servings.

News About New Products

A United States watch manufacturer says ten years research has resulted in the world's first electric wrist watch. You men will understand what this means — it's too deep for us women. This is how the watch works — a tiny energizer converts chemical energy into electrical energy, to release a stream of electrons that cause the balance wheel to oscillate and run the time - keeper. No main spring is needed in the electric watch.

Comfort for feet is promised by a new kind of insole. A wave-like undersurface is said to give a gently massaging effect on the soles of feet.

Easier and cheaper addition of central air conditioning to homes with forced air heating systems is claimed for a new V-type cooling coil. The device is said to be installed easily on top of a warm air furnace without the major changes in ductwork required by other coils. Good news to those people who have central heating and would like central air conditioning.

An entirely new method of room air conditioning is said to tailor air delivery to the size and shape of the room. The maker adds it disperses cooled air in a wide spiral that is said to reach every corner of a room.

Children, there's a new kite that will be on the market soon. It is said to climb two or three times higher than the ordinary kind and has no tail. It's 3 - dimensional and is reported to have flown over the 555-foot high Washington monument.

Have you seen the changes in the new vacuum cleaners? Getting rid of dirt is no longer a chore with the machines that have a disposable dust bag. Both tank and canister types weigh less and are easier to move about. Hoses are more flexible. Attachments are easier to connect and machines are less noisy.

Canister and tank types are basically the same. Homemakers should consider their needs carefully before buying. The upright cleaner might be better if you have many thick rugs to clean. If you do much of the above-the-floor cleaning with a vacuum, the tank type may be better. It's fine for cleaning walls, draperies, upholstery and furniture.

The newest aid to home seamstresses is something called an instant pattern. All the pattern pieces are printed on a single sheet of tissue paper. You pin the entire sheet of paper to the fabric and cut out. No more losing tiny facing pieces. You don't have to fuss about arranging pattern pieces. And — you needn't fumble with dozens of pins.

This is not a new product, but a new idea — to get rid of scuff marks on suede shoes, sand the matted down nap with the fine side of an emery board. Use a circular motion.

Garden Center Notes

By Mary M. Jardine

Early Spring Flowers Seen At Center

The weather indicates that we are having an early spring and although we know we will have more cold weather what a joy the camellias, narcissus, quince and early blooming flowers are to our eyes and a lift they give to our spirits.

Members of the Arrangers took full advantage of this weather trend in the lovely arrangements presented at the Garden Center this week.

Mrs. Luther Branch designed a lovely crescent arrangement, using pussywillow branches and forsythia for the crescent line. Golden King Alfred narcissus and the smaller narcissus minor were massed within the crescent. The container was a desert tan boat-shaped bowl set on a free-form black base. This design would be eminently suitable for an entrance hall or living room table.

Mrs. J. H. Netherland created a delightful triangular arrangement using a large conch shell for a container. The line pattern was achieved with rosy red quince and two magnificient blooms of Purple Dawn camellias and their foliage as a focal point. The color blending of the quince and camellias was just perfect. We staged this design against a rosy pink background. It would be suitable for a small hall table, on top of television set or the buffet in the dining room.

Magnolia soulangeana was featured in the appealing line arrangement designed by Mrs. John P. Lewis. A small pewter container set on a black base held the graceful placements of magnolia buds. Foliage of the arum was placed over the rim of the container to soften the severity of the line. For those of you not familiar with the magnolia soulangeana, it is the beautiful tree that you see blooming in gardens opening to six-inch fragrant now with the brilliant purple buds white flowers. The tree grows in a graceful fashion and the flowers are delightful in arrangements. Their bare interesting branches and the placement of the buds along the stalk inspires the arranger to unusual designs with "one kind of flower". Here's the latest information on how to condition them. Cut when the buds are well developed. The largest and most advanced will open fully. Split the woody stems and scrape the bark away from the base for several inches. Let remain in cold water overnight or until the buds unfold to the desired stage. When properly conditioned these flowers will last up to four days.

Mrs. W. E. Kramer designed a dramatic arrangement for a hall table. Her container was a tall earthen ware vase of gray set on a black base. Seven tall branches of pussywillow formed the symmetrical linear pattern. Variegated pittosporum strengthened the line and was massed at the rim of the container. Four single white camellias were effectively grouped to one side with the gray foliage of Dusty miller (artemisia) used for balance on the other side and gracefully coming down the surface of the vase, unifying container and materials and subtly emphasizing the color harmony.

Girl Scout News

After our write-up of February being International Month, we have heard of several troops that are planning or have carried out international projects. One was Troop 39, Mrs. C. C. Stigall and Mrs. F. K. Fisher, leaders. These first - year intermediates invited Mrs. N. A. Randall, who is a native of Australia, to visit their troop and talk to them about life in Australia. The girls asked worlds of questions, of course. The girls were most impressed, it seems, by Mrs. Randall's accounts of swimming in the surf while a low-flying plane went back and forth over the area looking for sharks. When the pilot saw one, he dropped a red flag, lifeguards blew their whistles, and everyone ran on to the beach to stay until the shark was out of the way again.

This troop has also borrowed records from the office, which they have played, and by means of which they have learned a number of songs which Girl Scouts sing. These activities are all a part of the Second Class Rank, which the troop hopes to complete soon.

Working on simple first aid as a health and safety for Second Class is Troop 45, also first-year Intermediates. Mrs. R. A. Bamburg, leader. It was great fun learning to tie bandages and tying each other up, their leader says. The troop has also been practicing the flag ceremony in order that they may do it to perfection.

During the bad weather we have had, activities such as crafts, singing, and international friendship have been particularly appropriate. Troop 2 spent one meeting lately working on original designs which they drew on dishtowels. At another meeting the girls colored the designs with tube textile paint, assisted by their leaders, Mrs. Donald Simmons and Mrs. George Rorex.

The February Council bulletin has carried information about troops collecting their Juliette Low World Friendship money. Lead-meeting. Let's have a good crowd! ers and girls should talk over plans for participating in the fund, which is named in honor of the founder of Girl Scouting and is used to spread Scouting all over the world. Girls usually bring a penny for each year of their ages, collecting the money during the month of February and presenting it at a city-wide program on the Sunday in Girl Scout Week.

Decision about the city wide program will be made at a leaders' meeting at the office on Friday morning, February 15, at 9:30. That's this week. Advance information on summer camping, plans for reorganization of neighborhoods, and suggestions for summer activities will also be discussed. An Invitation To The White House Supercedes All Other Invitations

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON — Most folks are exceedingly proud to be invited to the White House. Some lock their engraved invitations in vaults for their grandchildren to see. Some frame them and hang them on their wall for everyone to see.

An invitation to the White House is like a royal command. Illness, absence from town or a death in the family are about the only excuses a person is supposed to give for not attending.

A bid to the White House is supposed to supercede all other invitations. That's why local hostesses await announcement of the official list of dinners and receptions before making plans for their own shindigs.

In recent years, however, more and more people stay away, and not for the reasons given above, though illness or absence from town may be the cause given. The ones who stay away from the receptions are chiefly those who've been there many times before and find the whole routine an ordeal, especially the long wait in the reception line.

When people are finally ushered into the Blue Room to be received by the president and first lady, the meeting is usually perfunctory and fleeting. Then they inch their way into the state dining room, where the mob is usually crushing, the punch unspiked and the refreshments light to say the least.

One society reporter, Betty Beale of the Washington Evening Star, offered a suggestion several seasons ago. She thought it would be a good idea to have the president and first lady stand in the East Room by the entrance to the adjoining Green Room where everybody could observe them 10 minutes or more before shaking hands.

"The Eisenhowers could relax during their mid - reception break in the Green Room, and the Blue and Red Rooms could help relieve the jam in the dining room," she suggested.

Cabinet members and their wives always accompany the presidential pair down the marble staircase from their private suite on the second floor.

They are about the only ones who get a chance to really visit with the hosts. And only the highest - ranking guests, who are the first to reach the East Room, get a good look at the hosts as they proceed to their places in the receiving line.

When washing leather gloves (marked "washable") be sure to keep your hands in gloves during soaping and rinsing; shape them on towel to dry — away from direct heat.

Newman Club Will Present Famous Tenor

The Newman Club of Northeast Louisiana State College will present Christopher Lynch, noted lyric tenor, in a concert Thursday night in the Neville High School auditorium. The program will begin at 8 p. m

Along with Lynch, who gained national and international fame in his radio and television appearances on the "Voice of Firestone," will be Lorraine Moreau, promising young lyric soprano, and Marienka Michna, young Slovak-American pianist who only recently gave her second major recital, at New York's Town Hall.

Lynch, a protege of the great John McCormick, was born in Ireland, 34 years ago. McCormick, the celebrated Irish tenor, recognized young Lynch's potentialities and took steps to introduce him to American audiences. On the strength of Lynch's recordings, the young tenor was engaged by the Voice of Firestone program and brought to the United States. He was introduced to American audiences in a special debut at Carnegie Hall.

Lynch soon became a prime favorite of the Firestone show, both in its radio and television versions. About four years ago, recognizing a trend in concert patronage, he began to assemble his own touring unit consisting of two assisting artists, usually a soprano and a pianist, whom he had selected for outstanding ability.

Tickets may be purchased at Paul Hewitt Music Company, Gay Clothing Company and Dew Music Company.

For more light, replace dark lamp shades and shade linings with light, transparent ones.

Missing Youth Found At Dallas

DALLAS, Feb. 9 (AP)—A teen-age boy from Shreveport, La., who apparently feels the urge to roam now and then, turned up in Dallas last night after being missing from his home since Tuesday.

Eugene Hart, 14, was being held at the juvenile home awaiting the arrival of relatives.

His mother, Mrs. Mildred Hart, said the boy left home last spring and ended up in the town of Heber, Ark.

He was the object of wide publicity three years ago when he boarded the luxury liner United States in New Orleans "just to look around," and sailed to England with 18 cents in his pocket. He wasn't quite 12 years old at the time.

Mrs. Hart said she began to worry when Eugene didn't show up after school Tuesday. She said relatives called from Beaumont, Tex., the next day and reported he was at their home and they were returning him to Shreveport by bus.

TV notes

Rounding out half of a 26-chapter series on "Air Power," CBS television today presents the battle that freed Italy in World War II, the impasse at the Abbey of Monte Cassino and how it was solved by a new use of air power. The feature will be narrated by Walter Cronkite.

In honor of Abraham Lincoln's birthday, a repeat presentation of John Nesbitt's teleplay about the woman who won the affection of young Lincoln will be seen in "The Stepmother" on "Telephone Time," from 6 to 6:30 p.m. EST, today, also on CBS television. Ronnie Lee will be seen as Abe; Rita Lynn stars in the title role.

Shelly Winters, star of Broadway and Hollywood, and Pat Hingle will be seen in "Inspired Alibi," a story of a conspiracy between an idealistic girl and a thief on the "United States Steel Hour" Wednesday from 9 to 10 p.m. locally, over CBS television. This is a Theatre Guild production, supervised by Marshall Jamison, executive producer.

The title of the teleplay is the same as one of the popular songs from Irving Berlin's score of the Broadway and motion picture hit, "Call Me Madam."

Ann Southern, who wanted to break lose from her "Private Secretary" series last season, has had no more success this season. She's now engaged in making 26 more episodes. Well, maybe next season.

Jack Webb's "Noah's Ark" show leaves the air in March after two-thirds of a season in which it didn't impress as being a top-flight series. Only 23 episodes were filmed although the original contract called for the usual 39.

Janet Leigh Refuses To Let Broken Arm Halt Film Work

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 9 (UP) —A broken arm would be a severe handicap to most glamour girls, but Janet Leigh, with her left arm wrapped up in a cast, is embarking on a new movie.

The blonde charmer—Mrs. Tony Curtis in real life—will spend the next eight weeks hiding her broken wing from the camera as she co-stars with Charlton Heston and Orson Welles.

"It's been a hectic week," Janet said during lunch. "I was working on the final scene of a filmed television show when the accident happened.

"The script called for me to ride piggy-back on Jesse White during a rough and tumble comedy scene. Well, Jesse lost his balance and we both crashed to the floor with me on the bottom.

"Woman-like I shed a few tears. The pain in my left arm was terrible. Anyhow, my doctor agreed I could go without a cast for 24 hours while we finished the TV show. Then he packaged it up in this awful plaster of paris."

Janet's spill threw a monkey-wrench into Universal - International's plans for "Badge of Evil," in which Janet plays a very sexy role.

Producer Al Zugsmith decided the Leigh girl would draw whistles if she were encased in a plaster cast from head to toe.

"Orson is directing the picture as well as acting in it," Janet explained. "He's confident he can keep the audience from realizing my arm is almost useless.

"At first we talked about the possibility of rewriting the part, giving the girl in the story an excuse for having a broken arm. But it didn't work out.

"There is a chance that some of the film will show the character with her arm in a sling. During the action she is attacked and beaten up. But it would be the first time in movie history that the heroine ends up with a fractured arm."

"The worst part of having my arm broken is not being able to pick Kelly up," Janet lamented. "And now that I'm back at work it's sort of sad not seeing so much of the baby.

"I know from friends that movie people can combine motherhood and a career. I don't plan to work as much as I did before, but Tony and I agree I would miss the stimulation and excitement of making movies—even with one arm in a sling."

STAMPS

Two new U. S. commemoratives are on the February agenda. The first, honoring the 150th anniversary of the Coast and Geodetic Survey, is scheduled for Feb. 11. The second, for the Architects of America, will be issued Feb. 23. Both will be 3-centers.

The Coast and Geodetic Survey adhesive features the flag of the organization against a background of three ships at sea. Collectors desiring first day cancellations should send their addressed envelopes together with money order remittance to the Postmaster, Seattle 1, Wash., prior to Feb. 11.

The architects stamp depicts a modern mushroom type head and shaft superimposed on a Corinthian style capital. It is supposed to symbolize the progress made in architecture during the last century. First day collectors should send their addressed envelopes with money orders to the Postmaster, New York 1, N. Y., before Feb. 23.

Two new sets have been issued by Italy, reports the New York Stamp Co. A set of two stamps honors the admission of Italy to the United Nations. The 25 lire red and green and the 60 lire blue and red show a stylized drawing of a globe. The Italians call this their "three dimensional" set.

Also issued by Italy was a 25 lire blue commemorating the 80th anniversary of their postal savings system.

Colombia has issued two new stamps honoring "the oldest man on earth" and featuring a portrait of Javier Pereira who made headlines in this country when brought here for physical examination. The stamps also help publicize Colombia's coffee industry. The 5 centavos blue is for regular mail and the 20 c red is airmail.

The Western Zone of Germany has issued a new 10 pfennig green stamp honoring the unification of the Saar with Germany. The stamp depicts the Saar coat of arms.

'Teahouse Of August Moon' Opens At Jim Wednesday

M-G-M has brought to the screen one of the most heart-warming and hilariously funny plays ever brought to the Broadway theatres. Thousands of people have cheered "The Teahouse of the August Moon" on Broadway, on the road and in some 40 countries all over the world.

Now comes the story of the shy and uncertain Army captain, who is given the responsibility of rehabilitating a Korean village and is won over to the native point of view, on film to the Jim Theatre Wednesday.

In transferring "The Teahouse of the August Moon" to the screen in the sweep of CinemaScope and in magnificent color photography, Producer Jack Cummings and Director Daniel Mann filmed some of the picture in Japan to create a true atmosphere of the picturesque Korean village of Tobiki, with its inhabitants portrayed by native Japanese actors.

It is Tobiki to which the mild-mannered Captain Fisby (Glenn Ford) is sent by Colonel Purdy (Paul Ford) of the Army Occupational Team to assist in the recovery and welfare of the impoverished village, with the amiable rogue, Sakini (Marlon Brando) as his Okinawan interpreter and general handyman.

Fisby is supposed to run his job by Washington's "Plan B," which calls for the building of a Pentagon-shaped schoolhouse, lectures on democracy, and a general spur to efficiency and American get-up-and-go techniques. But the plan tells Fisby nothing about the Oriental way of doing things, such as the public meeting in which he is showered with gifts from the eager villagers, the best gift being the lovely geisha girl, Lotus Blossom (Machiko Kyo), who proves the first of his many complications. The other ladies of the community, led by the aggressive Miss Higa Jiga, resent the unfair competition, but this is settled when Fisby agrees to have Lotus Blossom give geisha lessons to the Ladies League for Democratic Action.

Gradually, Fisby, encouraged by the resourceful Sakini and swayed by the charm of the Oriental way of life, resolves some of the other problems. The proposed schoolhouse gives way to a beautiful teahouse, where the villagers can observe the beauty of the sunsets. When the sale of native handicrafts proves a failure, the village economy is stimulated by the manufacture of a potent native brandy much sought after by Okinawa's Army and Navy in-Lean (Eddie Albert), a psychiatrist, is sent out by a perturbed Colonel Purdy to report on the situation, he and Fisby blend their enthusiasm for organic farming to turn Tobiki into a garden spot.

But when things seem to be nearing perfection, with the happy villagers celebrating the completion of the exquisite, dreamlike "Teahouse of the August Moon" with music, song and dancing, doom falls. An outraged Purdy descends on the gathering, Fisby is placed under technical arrest, Lotus Blossom is brokenhearted and the beautiful teahouse is ordered to be torn down.

But this enchanting story of the warmth and laughter of the human spirit cannot end in tragedy. When all seems blackest the faith of the Tobiki villagers is restored. And so is the Teahouse of the August Moon.

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The highest-paid members of the Screen Actors Guild are not always stars — or even actors.

Bill Edwards, one of the top television announcers, belongs to the Guild because of filmed commercials.

He says that two days of shooting done three years ago for a beer sponsor has earned him $40,000 already — and probably will net him $40,000 more. Every time the film is shown, either nationally or locally, Edwards is paid.

NSC To Present 'Anastasia' On February 20-22

NATCHITOCHES, Feb. 9 (Special) — "Anastasia," one of the most talked-about current hits of the stage and movies, will be presented by the Northwestern State College Theatre Feb. 20 through 22, Dr. Edna West, director, has announced.

Rehearsals for the second major production of the year got under way this past week. The three - act drama by Marcelle Maurette (English adaptation by Guy Bolton) will come to life on the NSC Little Theatre stage at 8 p. m. each night.

Portraying Anastasia will be Sarah Whelan of Shreveport. The role was portrayed by Viveca Lindfors on the Broadway stage and Ingrid Bergman in the movie.

Richard Morgan as Wisner, will be seen as Prince Bounine, the character played by Yul Brunner in the movie. The dowager empress, characterized by Helen Hayes in the movie, will be Mary Lou Holmes, of Natchitoches.

Among the cast is Bill Rambin of Monroe.

Set in Berlin, the drama centers around Anastasia, a victim of amnesia, who believes herself to be the one remaining member of the Russian royal family after the assassination by revolutionists. Because of the immense sum of money belonging to this princess, her claims are exploited by some, doubted by others.

M-G-M has brought to the screen one of the most heart-warming and hilariously funny plays ever brought to the Broadway theatres. Thousands of people have cheered "The Teahouse of the August Moon" on Broadway, on the road and in some 40 countries all over the world.

Now comes the story of the shy and uncertain Army captain, who is given the responsibility of rehabilitating a Korean village and is won over to the native point of view, on film to the Jim Theatre Wednesday.

In transferring "The Teahouse of the August Moon" to the screen in the sweep of CinemaScope and in magnificent color photography, Producer Jack Cummings and Director Daniel Mann filmed some of the picture in Japan to create a true atmosphere of the picturesque Korean village of Tobiki, with its inhabitants portrayed by native Japanese actors.

It is Tobiki to which the mild-mannered Captain Fisby (Glenn Ford) is sent by Colonel Purdy (Paul Ford) of the Army Occupational Team to assist in the recovery and welfare of the impoverished village, with the amiable rogue, Sakini (Marlon Brando) as his Okinawan interpreter and general handyman.

Fisby is supposed to run his job by Washington's "Plan B," which calls for the building of a Pentagon-shaped schoolhouse, lectures on democracy, and a general spur to efficiency and American get-up-and-go techniques. But the plan tells Fisby nothing about the Oriental way of doing things, such as the public meeting in which he is showered with gifts from the eager villagers, the best gift being the lovely geisha girl, Lotus Blossom (Machiko Kyo), who proves the first of his many complications. The other ladies of the community, led by the aggressive Miss Higa Jiga, resent the unfair competition, but this is settled when Fisby agrees to have Lotus Blossom give geisha lessons to the Ladies League for Democratic Action.

Gradually, Fisby, encouraged by the resourceful Sakini and swayed by the charm of the Oriental way of life, resolves some of the other problems. The proposed schoolhouse gives way to a beautiful teahouse, where the villagers can observe the beauty of the sunsets. When the sale of native handicrafts proves a failure, the village economy is stimulated by the manufacture of a potent native brandy much sought after by Okinawa's Army and Navy in-Lean (Eddie Albert), a psychiatrist, is sent out by a perturbed Colonel Purdy to report on the situation, he and Fisby blend their enthusiasm for organic farming to turn Tobiki into a garden spot.

But when things seem to be nearing perfection, with the happy villagers celebrating the completion of the exquisite, dreamlike "Teahouse of the August Moon" with music, song and dancing, doom falls. An outraged Purdy descends on the gathering, Fisby is placed under technical arrest, Lotus Blossom is brokenhearted and the beautiful teahouse is ordered to be torn down.

But this enchanting story of the warmth and laughter of the human spirit cannot end in tragedy. When all seems blackest the faith of the Tobiki villagers is restored. And so is the Teahouse of the August Moon.

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The highest-paid members of the Screen Actors Guild are not always stars — or even actors.

Bill Edwards, one of the top television announcers, belongs to the Guild because of filmed commercials.

He says that two days of shooting done three years ago for a beer sponsor has earned him $40,000 already — and probably will net him $40,000 more. Every time the film is shown, either nationally or locally, Edwards is paid.

NSC To Present 'Anastasia' On February 20-22

NATCHITOCHES, Feb. 9 (Special) — "Anastasia," one of the most talked-about current hits of the stage and movies, will be presented by the Northwestern State College Theatre Feb. 20 through 22, Dr. Edna West, director, has announced.

Rehearsals for the second major production of the year got under way this past week. The three - act drama by Marcelle Maurette (English adaptation by Guy Bolton) will come to life on the NSC Little Theatre stage at 8 p. m. each night.

Portraying Anastasia will be Sarah Whelan of Shreveport. The role was portrayed by Viveca Lindfors on the Broadway stage and Ingrid Bergman in the movie.

Richard Morgan as Wisner, will be seen as Prince Bounine, the character played by Yul Brunner in the movie. The dowager empress, characterized by Helen Hayes in the movie, will be Mary Lou Holmes, of Natchitoches.

Among the cast is Bill Rambin of Monroe.

Set in Berlin, the drama centers around Anastasia, a victim of amnesia, who believes herself to be the one remaining member of the Russian royal family after the assassination by revolutionists. Because of the immense sum of money belonging to this princess, her claims are exploited by some, doubted by others.

3 New Record Albums For Jazz Lovers

By WILLIAM D. LAFFLER

NEW YORK, Feb. 9 (UP)—Guy Lombardo, the late Tommy Dorsey and hot and cool stars of jazzdom are subjects of three outstanding new record albums.

Lombardo's fabulous career, which spans a period of more than 25 years, is reviewed in a Decca spectacular, "The Sweetest Music This Side of Heaven."

Decca presents Lombardo on 56 numbers that cover eight 12-inch LP sides, many of them original masters. There is enough music on this musical biography to make Lombardo fans happy for hours.

In conjunction with Leonard Feather's latest book on jazz, Decca has packaged into a four-LP album "Encyclopedia of Jazz on Records," the best popular music from the 1920's on. The 1920 section of this epic work includes original masters by King Oliver, Pinetop Smith, the New Orleans Rhythm Kings and others.

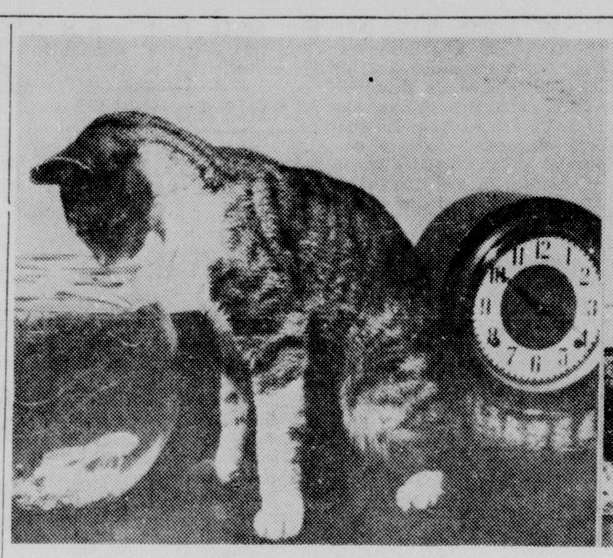
Glenn Miller, the Dorseys, Count Basie and Andy Kirk are those represented in the 1930 section, which will appeal to sentimentalists. Coleman Hawkins, Woody Herman, Stan Kenton and Artie Shaw are among those reflecting the feeling of the restive 1940's. The 1950 part is devoted mostly to cool jazz, but this LP also includes work by Louis Armstrong and Jimmy McPartland.

Both the Lombardo and the Feather albums can be purchased in a handsome album, but each 12-inch LP also can be bought separately.

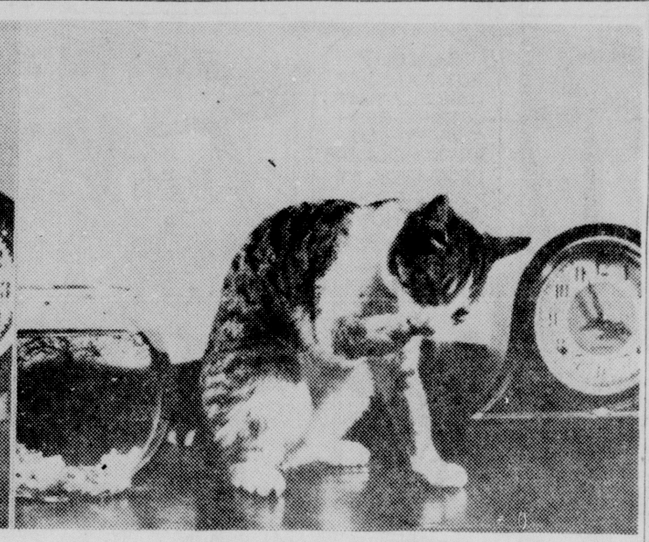
RCA-Victor's "Tribute to Dorsey" is a milestone in the recording industry. On two LPs, RCA-Victor picks up almost all of the numbers that made the Dorsey band one of the greatest of the swing era. There are 31 numbers, but Dorsey's hit version of "Boogie Woogie" is conspicuously absent, perhaps because it was assumed Dorsey fans already have this record. Highly recommended.

Selected singles — "Can Can Blues" by Pony and Grace Sherrell (Advance) "Slow Walk" and "Forbidden Fruit" by Ocie Smith (Cadence), "Without Him," a religious type tune that introduces a promising newcomer, Nino Anthony (Mercury).

Mood Music — "Organ and Firelight," 12 soothing Hammond organ interpretations by Hal Shutz (Columbia) and "Sidewalks of Paris," a truly Gallic work by Rud Wharton and the Musette Street Players (Liberty).



"M-MM, DINNER!"



"SURE WAS GOOD."

CAMERA NOTES

Points For Good Pictures They're Waiting For You

By JOHN OLDENBURG
Camera Editor

Mr. W. L. Griffin of Sterlington sent in this very interesting and story-telling sequence.

As one looks over the two pictures, the story dawns — the cat will catch the eye first, then the fish in picture number one, and—the absence of the fish in picture "Oh," one might say, "look at the clock; five minutes have elapsed. Why that mean little cat!"

According to Mr. Griffin that's exactly what he wanted the viewer to say. Now, as one studies the pictures, sequence photographs take much thought, patience and preparation. In these pictures, the cat (according to Mr. Griffin) finally had to decide to cooperate and that's no easy matter. The other props were quite easily arranged.

Also one will note — the back ground is very important. Try to keep it in direct contrast with the story-telling objects, black against white; white against black.

For any amateur or professional photographer, sequence - animal pictures are a real challenge.

Try taking one sometime and better still, send us a sample so that we can all see it . . . and maybe criticize and applaud it. Send your prints to Camera Notes, News-Star—World.

ONE OF THE BEST

Our Nation's Early Years Outlined

A number of excellent new books are either off the publishers' press or soon will be. They should make for some enjoyable reading during the current long rainy days and nights.

Our nod for one of the best books of the week, or for any week of late for that matter, is the new one by John Dos Passos called The Men Who Made the Nation published by Doubleday.

As he has done so capably in the past, Passos again takes a period in history and deals with it skillfully, interestingly.

The plot of his new book is evolved around a period in this country's fight for freedom and it covers a wide section of the world—moving from battlefields to such exotic places as Versailles, London and Paris.

As the title suggests, the book deals principally with the great figures who helped to win the war of independence and who aided in shaping the early formation of our government.

Actually, there is little fighting in the book. It pens with the surrender of Cornwallis — surrounded with the jubilant, but ragged young Americans and their French allies in brilliant uniforms.

Then with the war over, the long period of trying to establish a suitable peace and a stable government starts. The early formers of our government apparently found that if war was hard, peace was not easy.

Though General Washington longs for rest, the people somehow bring into actual being the country they have rescued from foreign tyranny. Washington presides over deliberations, and accepts the presidency.

Here Dos Passos moves his readers skillfully back and forth —Paris, Versailles, London, New York, scenes of rebellion in Massachusetts and Pennsylvania.

The great stage is peopled with great characters, too. On it parades Washington, Franklin, Jefferson, Hamilton, Monroe, Madison, Adams, Paine, Robert and Gouverneur Morris, Burr, and Marshall.

The climax comes with Hamilton dying of Burr's bullet in the duel.

The book is full of the most vivid details, written in the typical machine-gun-like style Dos Passos is known for.

Dos Passos is acid but sympathetic observer in this invaluable new number of the Mainstream of American Series, understanding the peculiar genius of our forefathers, but catching them up, too, when, for instance, they pause in the business of founding the nation to feather their nests.

BOOK REPORTS

An Excellent Guide To Good Reading From Your Ouachita Parish Library

BY MISS FRANCES FLANDERS

Among the new books added to the library this past week is a title for which we have had numerous requests. It is "Don't Go Near the Water" by William Brinkley. It is a hilarious story of a group of naval officers of World War II. They were in the public relations department and never saw sea duty. Their slogan instead of the old navy one of "Don't Give Up the Ship" became "Don't Go Near the Water." This is a book for all of those who have had experience in the navy and will appeal to many readers, but not to the extremely conservative ones. A very discerning novelist of the international scene is I. A. R. Wylie. Her latest book is called "The Undefeated." It is a story of the people who lived in the village of Rocquedur, close to the shore of the Mediterranean. It is the story of a group of people defeated by the conflicts of war, who had found peace in this spot. They were rudely awakened by the return of a German who had been there during the war years and who returned to prey on the villagers. How his purpose was foiled by one brave man, makes an exciting story in "The Undefeated."

The non - fiction books of the week show a wide variety. "South after Gettysburg" is a fascinating collection of the letters of Cornelia Hancock who was one of the nurses with the Union troops in the Civil War. Written with rare humor and wonderful insight, these letters give us an exciting picture of the period in which Miss Hancock lived.

Many readers enjoy stories of big game hunting and they will welcome "Nine Man-Eaters and One Rogue" by Kenneth Anderson. This is the story of a man who has spent his life in the jungles of India. He knows intimately the habits and ruses of the jungle beasts. He knows what the safe distance from a tiger is and how to protect himself from the beasts of the jungle. This is an exciting book and one which will appeal to many men and boys.

We live in a country which has a fascinating past. Interesting books which interpret this past are always in demand. One of the most beautiful ones which I have seen in a long time is "Santee Paradise" by Archibald Rutledge. This is the story of Hampton Plantation, near Charleston and of a boyhood spent in its swamps and woods. It is a book which everyone who likes the old south should read and those who have known and loved South Carolina, will find extremely interesting. A beautiful book portraying the history of our country is "Cavalcade of America" by Carl Carmer. This book is based on the broadcasts of the Cavalcade of America program. It deals with the deeds and achievements of the men and women who made our country great. It is profusely illustrated and while an adult book, would make a lovely gift for a discerning teen-ager. Another excellent interpretation of the American scene is "Mirror for Gotham" by Bayrd Still. It is the composite story, by many pens, of a great metropolis, of its physical, social and economic growth, from a wilderness trading post to the largest city in the world. New York has a special appeal to many readers and they will thoroughly enjoy this fine book.

A very interesting new pictorial history of steamships is called "Ships of Steam" and was written by Lamont Buchanan. This book traces the history of ocean travel and is profusely illustrated with wonderful pictures. Are you planning a trip abroad this year? If you do not fail to see "A Handy Guide to Western Germany" by Bernd Boehle. This is a wonderful guide book and one that should prove extremely useful.

A very useful as well as beautiful book is "American Antique Decoration" by Ellen S. Sabine. This book contains clear and simple instructions for producing many of the early American craft If this is your hobby, you will certainly welcome this new book.

Your Ouachita Parish Public library contains a wealth of material. We give you a cordial invitation to make use of its resources.

Life At Best, Worst Topic Of New Book

THE LAST ANGRY MAN, by Gerald Green. (Charles Scribner's sons $4.50, 512 pps.)

Samuel Abelman, M.D., 1553 Haven Place — they all knew him in that grimy Brooklyn district, the teen - age hoodlums, the cops, the kosher butchers, the hymn - chanting members of the Wholly United Army of God. He tended his dwindling practice with angry devotion. In spite of his small fees and his brilliant diagnostic skill, his patients drifted away from him, because of his formidable tactlessness and his belligerent moralizing. A man of inexhaustible indignation, he conducted a one man campaign against "galoots" everywhere-the people who thought the world owed them a living. He didn't look like a doctor, or talk like one, and so they called him a failure. But his vigor and bawdy humor remained indestructible. And he emerges from the pages of this novel as one of the most powerful and appealing figures in recent fiction.

If Sam Abelman himself constitutes the heart of this remarkable novel, its richness of story derives from the doctor's impact upon a man from a wholly different world. That man is Woodrow Thrasher, vice president in charge of television in an important advertising agency, who has conceived a new TV show, to be called Americans USA. As a subject for the show he had stumbled upon the doctor; and the planning of Americans USA takes Woody Thrasher on a voyage of discovery into the career of Samuel Aberty on the lower East Side, through his youthful jobs and battles, his agonizing struggle to put himself through Bellevue Medical school, the experiences of a young doctor in the great influenza epidemic, his lasting friendships—the narrative pulses with the humor and vitality of Samuel Abelman. Along with that story runs another, oddly contrasted one—the story of the making of a TV show, a sharply observed, sardonic account of the bright, creative buys in narrow, dark suits from Madison Avenue and exurbia. And as Americans USA takes shape, still another story develops, concerning the doctor's dogged, outraged efforts to aid a teen-age kid called Josh the Dill, leader of the Twentieth Century Gents.

In the profound effect that Dr. Abelman has upon Woody Thrasher, Gerald Green finds his theme — the great and disturbing difference between the doers of the world and the talkers. He makes of it a deeply moving thing as he brings his novel to a powerful and startling climax.

Only Mystery Over Illness Of Top Red Is Why It Was A Mystery In First Place

By THOMAS P. WHITNEY
AP Foreign News Analyst

The only real mystery remaining about Moscow's mystery patient is why the Soviet government ever let him become a mystery.

He turned out to be an industrial executive and former Soviet atomic weapons chief, V. A. Malyshev, critically ill with a blood disease. His identity became known Tuesday — outside the U.S.S.R

On the preceding Thursday a Cologne blood specialist, Dr. Hans Joachim Schulten, had been asked by the Soviet government to go to Moscow to treat an unidentified sick man. Schulten's mission released a torrent of speculation in the West. Many names were suggested and the mystery became front-page news. Censors in Moscow killed cables foreign newsmen filed identifying the patient.

Why? What is the quirk in psychology that led Soviet authorities to be so mysterious? If at the start the Soviet government had announced the patient was Malyshev the matter would have rated little in Western newspapers.

Much the same thing happened in 1948 when Stalin was alive. A Swedish cancer specialist, Dr. Elis Berven, was called to Moscow. He was not told who his patient was until he saw him—and after that for a time Berven himself declined to tell his name.

Speculation was widespread. Most concentrated on a suggestion that Stalin was ill.

In the end Berven, back in Sweden, announced he had treated a Soviet army marshal. The marshal was the chief of tank armies, Rybalko. He died some eight months after Berven's visit.

One factor in such mysteries is the Soviet tendency to keep everything secret as a matter of principle.

There is a more general question of medical ethics. In America many people do not wish to have their illnesses written about.

Big City Symphony Leader Likes Small City Music Life

By W. G. ROGERS

NEW YORK, Feb. 9 (AP) — Antal Dorati, Minneapolis Symphony conductor, comes to New York often — he has just talked to me here, and conducts his orchestra here tomorrow in Carnegie Hall — but he claims there's a lot to be said for the musical life in America outside this city.

A tall, attractive fellow, with a musicianly kink to his hair, of which he has more than most of his confreres, he is accustomed to the musical metropolis: Budapest, his birthplace, and Paris, Vienna and London. But he's a booster for the small place.

"In my city, Minneapolis," he argues, to begin with, "we're prouder of our orchestra than you are of yours."

"New York has less interest in its Philharmonic than Minneapolis in its symphony. Like other Americans, we have a feeling for our community, and part of that is a feeling for the music we ourselves make."

Fund Raising Easier

Minneapolis, along with St. Paul, has perhaps a million population, or an eighth of New York's, and yet, he continued:

"We collect 2½ times as much money for our symphony as New York does for its. We collect almost $300,000. It is partly because we have to. In New York the orchestra earns more money on records and a longer season. We make both ends meet by means of a quiet fund - raising campaign."

Go on, I begged, tell me more reasons why a music lover might be better off in a small place than in this monster city.

"My players are fresher," he answered. "They are not tired out playing for recordings, or radio, they come to the hall alert and prepared. And sometimes they come two full hours early to go over their parts. Just as the community is prouder, the players are, too, and feel a greater responsibility toward their orchestra."

More Rehearsals

Dorati also claimed some advantages for the conductor: "I get five rehearsals a week, usually three hours each. Thus I can prepare more new music. And since my audiences are interested in the orchestra itself, I don't have to pay so much for costly soloists.

"Furthermore, it's one - man rule — and what conductor wouldn't like that! I am left alone. My board asks only that I succeed. I provide the orchestra music for an area half the size of Europe. There is not much audience reaction to contend with, either. People don't write in. When I conducted in Dallas, Texas, I once played some Debussy, and a man wrote swearing to get me, pardner, with two six shooters if I ever did that again."

Are there no disadvantages "Yes, I have a personnel problem. Musicians would rather live in New York than Minneapolis. But it is not an insuperable obstacle."

Happy Refugee

However, he told of one man deliriously happy to go there recently — a Hungarian refugee, Zoltan Rozsnyai who, said Dorati, owed it to an Associated Press dispatch that he got into the United States and onto the podium in Minneapolis.

The Minneapolis Tribune called Dorati to tell him of The Associated Press report of the escape of Rozsnyai to Vienna. Working through Minnesota's Senator Thye, Dorati got State Department permission for his colleague to enter the country. By then, however, the State Department couldn't find him, and the AP lost him. But the AP ran him down in Zurich. He arrived here, conducted, and left carrying, not the briefcase with which he had entered the country, but half a dozen suitcases packed with the riches he found on counters in stores everywhere.

Dorati's orchestra tours widely. Currently, it has visited Illinois, Ohio, Indiana, Pennsylvania. Its concert here, the first all-Bartok program ever in Carnegie Hall, he said, is a Hungarian benefit. In September and October the Minneapolis will tour the Mediterranean countries, from Spain to Beirut and Damascus and on to New Delhi, under ANTA auspices.

Works Of New Composers To Be Shown Throughout World

By DELOS SMITH

NEW YORK, Feb. 9—UP—"International Music Fund Week" falls in different weeks in different places, and that is not the limit of the confusion.

It is not a "fund" in the strictest sense, but a way of encouraging living composers by encouraging more frequent performances of their works, with consequent royalties for the composers.

During the various "weeks" which began at the end of January and will continue into March, 38 United States and Canadian orchestras played or will play new works of as many composers. At the same time European orchestras were giving prominence to living composers.

Five major orchestras—the New York Philharmonic-Symphony, the Philadelphia Orchestra, the Boston Symphony, the Cincinnati Symphony and the Los Angeles Philharmonic — led off, and the others will follow as their concert schedules permit. The idea was that of the late Serge Koussevitzky and it is now backed by the International Music Council.

Leonard Bernstein anticipated the week by conducting the New York Philharmonic - Symphony three times in a program made up almost entirely of the works of living composers. Beethoven's fourth symphony was added to the program, perhaps because living composers object to special programs of contemporary music on the grounds that such programs suggest they need special consideration. They want to compete with the old masters for audience affection on a man-to-man basis.

Prima Donna Renata Tebaldi is back at the Metropolitan Opera, and it is, of course, impossible to say positively that it has anything to do with Prima Donna Maria Callas having finished her stint in that house for the season.

Ostensibly, engagement schedules kept Miss Tebaldi in Italy while Miss Callas was here, and sent the latter back to Europe when Miss Tebaldi came here. But it is pretty well authenticated that no opera company has the resilience and stamina to contain these prima donnas at the same time.

It is Miss Callas' fiery and scratchy temperament. Miss Tebaldi's disposition is almost placid, but, it is said, she is upset merely to have Miss Callas in the house while she is performing. Miss Tebaldi has a following at the Met no less fanatically devoted to her than is the following which Miss Callas attracted during her three months as the Met's unchallenged No. 1 prima donna.

Miss Tebaldi's return was in a triumphal portrayal of Mimi in "La Boheme," but her big portrayal this year at the Met will be as Violetta in a new production "La Traviata," which has been under painstaking preparation for a year.

For Wagnerians during its current performance of the four "Ring" operas, the Met unveiled two Wagnerian singers of heroic skills as well as heroic proportions — one female, Mairanne Schech; the other male, Wolfgang Windgassen.

Both had made their reputations in Germany which were amply verified when they made their debuts as Sieglinde and Siegmund in "Die Walkuere." Otto Edelmann and Margaret Harshaw sang the fattest parts, of Wotan and Bruennhilde.

They, the newcomers, and the rest of the cast sang and acted with surpassing beauty and conviction. Dimitri Mitropoulos conducted with most admirable restraint.

3 New Record Albums For Jazz Lovers

By WILLIAM D. LAFFLER

NEW YORK, Feb. 9 (UP)—Guy Lombardo, the late Tommy Dorsey and hot and cool stars of jazzdom are subjects of three outstanding new record albums.

Lombardo's fabulous career, which spans a period of more than 25 years, is reviewed in a Decca spectacular, "The Sweetest Music This Side of Heaven."

Decca presents Lombardo on 56 numbers that cover eight 12-inch LP sides, many of them original masters. There is enough music on this musical biography to make Lombardo fans happy for hours.

In conjunction with Leonard Feather's latest book on jazz, Decca has packaged into a four-LP album "Encyclopedia of Jazz on Records," the best popular music from the 1920's on. The 1920 section of this epic work includes original masters by King Oliver, Pinetop Smith, the New Orleans Rhythm Kings and others.

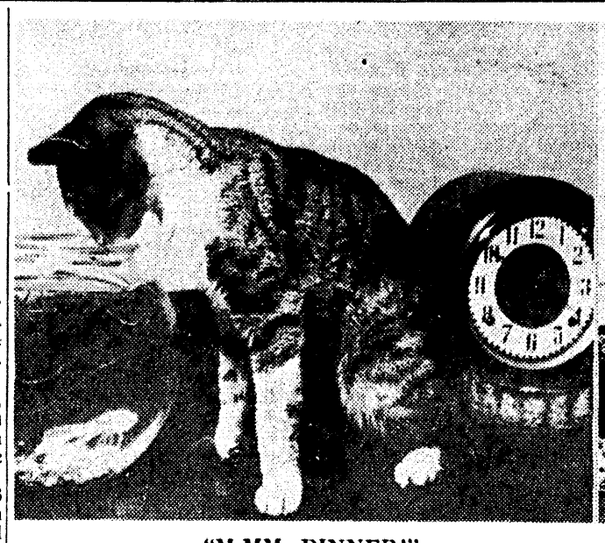
Glenn Miller, the Dorseys, Count Basie and Andy Kirk are those represented in the 1930 section, which will appeal to sentimentalists. Coleman Hawkins, Woody Herman, Stan Kenton and Artie Shaw are among those reflecting the feeling of the restive 1940's. The 1950 part is devoted mostly to cool jazz, but this LP also includes work by Louis Armstrong and Jimmy McPartland.

Both the Lombardo and the Feather albums can be purchased in a handsome album, but each 12-inch LP also can be bought separately.

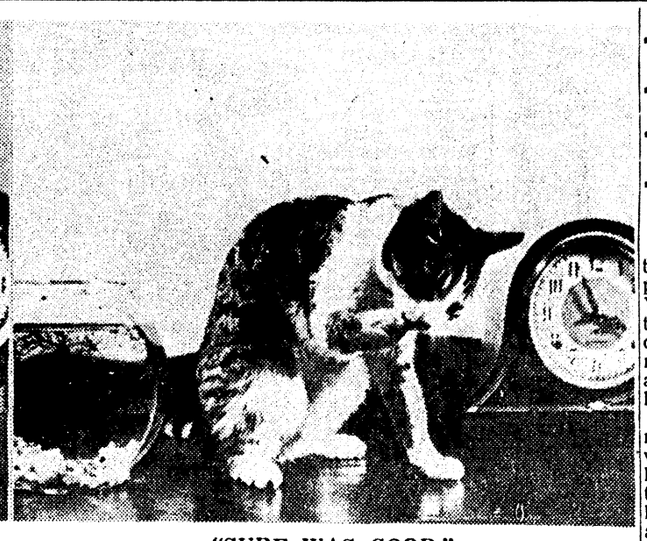
RCA-Victor's "Tribute to Dorsey" is a milestone in the recording industry. On two LPs, RCA-Victor picks up almost all of the numbers that made the Dorsey band one of the greatest of the swing era. There are 31 numbers, but Dorsey's hit version of "Boogie Woogie" is conspicuously absent, perhaps because it was assumed Dorsey fans already have this record. Highly recommended.

Selected singles — "Can Can Blues" by Pony and Grace Sherrell (Advance) "Slow Walk" and "Forbidden Fruit" by Ocie Smith (Cadence), "Without Him," a religious type tune that introduces a promising newcomer, Nino Anthony (Mercury).

Mood Music — "Organ and Firelight," 12 soothing Hammond organ interpretations by Hal Shutz (Columbia) and "Sidewalks of Paris," a truly Gallic work by Rud Wharton and the Musette Street Players (Liberty).



"M-MM, DINNER!"



"SURE WAS GOOD."

Points For Good Pictures They're Waiting For You

By JOHN OLDENBURG
Camera Editor

Mr. W. L. Griffin of Sterlington sent in this very interesting and story-telling sequence.

As one looks over the two pictures, the story dawns — the cat will catch the eye first, then the fish in picture number one, and—the absence of the fish in picture "Oh," one might say, "look at the clock; five minutes have elapsed. Why that mean little cat!"

According to Mr. Griffin that's exactly what he wanted the viewer to say. Now, as one studies the pictures, sequence photographs take much thought, patience and preparation. In these pictures, the cat (according to Mr. Griffin) finally had to decide to cooperate and that's no easy matter. The other props were quite easily arranged.

Also one will note — the back ground is very important. Try to keep it in direct contrast with the story-telling objects, black against white; white against black.

For any amateur or professional photographer, sequence - animal pictures are a real challenge.

Try taking one sometime and better still, send us a sample so that we can all see it . . . and maybe criticize and applaud it. Send your prints to Camera Notes, News-Star—World.

ONE OF THE BEST

Our Nation's Early Years Outlined

A number of excellent new books are either off the publishers' press or soon will be. They should make for some enjoyable reading during the current long rainy days and nights.

Our nod for one of the best books of the week, or for any week of late for that matter, is the new one by John Dos Passos called The Men Who Made the Nation published by Doubleday.

As he has done so capably in the past, Passos again takes a period in history and deals with it skillfully, interestingly.

The plot of his new book is evolved around a period in this country's fight for freedom and it covers a wide section of the world—moving from battlefields to such exotic places as Versailles, London and Paris.

As the title suggests, the book deals principally with the great figures who helped to win the war of independence and who aided in shaping the early formation of our government.

Actually, there is little fighting in the book. It pens with the surrender of Cornwallis — surrounded with the jubilant, but ragged young Americans and their French allies in brilliant uniforms.

Then with the war over, the long period of trying to establish a suitable peace and a stable government starts. The early formers of our government apparently found that if war was hard, peace was not easy.

Though General Washington longs for rest, the people somehow bring into actual being the country they have rescued from foreign tyranny. Washington presides over deliberations, and accepts the presidency.

Here Dos Passos moves his readers skillfully back and forth—Paris, Versailles, London, New York, scenes of rebellion in Massachusetts and Pennsylvania.

The great stage is peopled with great characters, too. On it parades Washington, Franklin, Jefferson, Hamilton, Monroe, Madison, Adams, Paine, Robert and Gouverneur Morris, Burr, and Marshall.

The climax comes with Hamilton dying of Burr's bullet in the duel.

The book is full of the most vivid details, written in the typical machine-gun-like style Dos Passos is known for.

Dos Passos is acid but sympathetic observer in this invaluable new number of the Mainstream of American Series, understanding the peculiar genius of our forefathers, but catching them up, too, when, for instance, they pause in the business of founding the nation to feather their nests.

An Excellent Guide To Good Reading From Your Ouachita Parish Library

BY MISS FRANCES FLANDERS

Among the new books added to the library this past week is a title for which we have had numerous requests. It is "Don't Go Near the Water" by William Brinkley. It is a hilarious story of a group of naval officers of World War II. They were in the public relations department and never saw sea duty. Their slogan instead of the old navy one of "Don't Give Up the Ship" became "Don't Go Near the Water." This is a book for all of those who have had experience in the navy and will appeal to many readers, but not to the extremely conservative ones. A very discerning novelist of the international scene is I. A. R. Wylie. Her latest book is called "The Undefeated." It is a story of the people who lived in the village of Rocquedur, close to the shore of the Mediterranean. It is the story of a group of people defeated by the conflicts of war, who had found peace in this spot. They were rudely awakened by the return of a German who had been there during the war years and who returned to prey on the villagers. How his purpose was foiled by one brave man, makes an exciting story in "The Undefeated."

The non - fiction books of the week show a wide variety. "South after Gettysburg" is a fascinating collection of the letters of Cornelia Hancock who was one of the nurses with the Union troops in the Civil War. Written with rare humor and wonderful insight, these letters give us an exciting picture of the period in which Miss Hancock lived.

Many readers enjoy stories of big game hunting and they will welcome "Nine Man-Eaters and One Rogue" by Kenneth Anderson. This is the story of a man who has spent his life in the jungles of India. He knows intimately the habits and ruses of the jungle beasts. He knows what the safe distance from a tiger is and how to protect himself from the beasts of the jungle. This is an exciting book and one which will appeal to many men and boys.

We live in a country which has a fascinating past. Interesting books which interpret this past are always in demand. One of the most beautiful ones which I have seen in a long time is "Santee Paradise" by Archibald Rutledge. This is the story of Hampton Plantation, near Charleston and of a boyhood spent in its swamps and woods. It is a book which everyone who likes the old south should read and those who have known and loved South Carolina, will find ex-

Life At Best, Worst Topic Of New Book

THE LAST ANGRY MAN, by Gerald Green. (Charles Scribner's sons $4.50, 512 pps.)

Samuel Abelman, M.D., 1553 Haven Place — they all knew him in that grimy Brooklyn district, the teen - age hoodlums, the cops, the kosher butchers, the hymn - chanting members of the Wholly United Army of God. He tended his dwindling practice with angry devotion. In spite of his small fees and his brilliant diagnostic skill, his patients drifted away from him, because of his formidable tactlessness and his belligerent moralizing. A man of inexhaustible indignation, he conducted a one man campaign against "galoots" everywhere-the people who thought the world owed them a living. He didn't look like a doctor, or talk like one, and so they called him a failure. But his vigor and bawdy humor remained indestructible. And he emerges from the pages of this novel as one of the most powerful and appealing figures in recent fiction.

If Sam Abelman himself constitutes the heart of this remarkable novel, its richness of story derives from the doctor's impact upon a man from a wholly different world. That man is Woodrow Thrasher, vice president in charge of television in an important advertising agency, who has conceived a new TV show, to be called Americans USA. As a subject for the show he had stumbled upon the doctor; and the planning of Americans USA takes Woody Thrasher on a voyage of discovery into the career of Samuel Aberty on the lower East Side, through his youthful jobs and battles, his agonizing struggle to put himself through Bellevue Medical school, the experiences of a young doctor in the great influenza epidemic, his lasting friendships—the narrative pulses with the humor and vitality of Samuel Abelman. Along with that story runs another, oddly contrasted one—the story of the making of a TV show, a sharply observed, sardonic account of the bright, creative buys in narrow, dark suits from Madison Avenue and exurbia. And as Americans USA takes shape, still another story develops, concerning the doctor's dogged, outraged efforts to aid a teen-age kid called Josh the Dill, leader of the Twentieth Century Gents.

In the profound effect that Dr. Abelman has upon Woody Thrasher, Gerald Green finds his theme — the great and disturbing difference between the doers of the world and the talkers. He makes of it a deeply moving thing as he brings his novel to a powerful and startling climax.

Only Mystery Over Illness Of Top Red Is Why It Was A Mystery In First Place

By THOMAS P. WHITNEY

Researcher Says Tornadoes Can Be Accurately Forecast

STILLWATER, Okla., Feb. 9 (AP)—an Oklahoma A&M College tornado researcher announced today that under certain favorable conditions, tornadoes can be pinpointed with a high degree of accuracy.

Dr. H. L. Jones, who has pioneered in the theory of certain storms carrying high electrical discharges that show tornado possibilities, said today that it may be possible during 1957 to issue severe weather advisories for areas as small as a 30-mile radius or less.

The announcement came after Jones received a report on an Air Weather Service survey of results of Oklahoma A&M's tornado-tracking laboratory.

The report was prepared by Capt. Edwin B. Dixon of the AWS in Kansas City, which was hired to mathematically evaluate Jones findings.

The U. S. Weather Bureau now issues tornado warnings based on certain conditions in which it is known tornadoes can spawn, but they normally cover a large area of a state.

Under Jones' system of "sferics frequency," electronic equipment which constantly monitors the skies records high-frequency electrical discharges from storm clouds. Under a scale developed by Jones, when the "pips" from the instrument register 20 per second or more there is a possibility of tornadoes.

Dixon reported that when the "sferics frequency" reached 20 per second on the laboratory tracking equipment, accuracy in spotting tornadoes approached 90 per cent.

In most cases, the maximum sferics readings—the clues to the possibility of a tornado—came 30 minutes to an hour before the reported time of the twister. This would be ample time to broadcast warnings to the areas in the storm's path, it was pointed out.

The report disclosed that 21 tornado advisories were issued in 17 storm situations last year between February and October on the basis of sferics readings from the A&M station here and direction fixes by satellite stations at Amarillo, Tex., Shreveport, La., and Grandview, Mo.

Of the advisories, nine were proved correct. In six of the seven others there were severe hailstorms or windstorms instead of tornadoes. The 17th could not be verified because it was in the Gulf of Mexico.

U. S. Looks To Nasser For Statement Of Intentions On Israeli Withdrawal

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Feb. 9 (AP)—The United States looked to President Nasser today for a statement of Egyptian intentions which might help the U. N. get Israel out of Egypt.

Arab-Asian delegates at the U. N. Assembly who disclosed the American move said they were not certain that the Egyptian President would make any statement but they were absolutely certain he would not break the cease-fire with a military attack on Israel.

Israel, meanwhile, is holding fast to the Gaza Strip and the Sharm el Sheikh sector of the Gulf of Aqaba until she is certain her rights will be protected against any Egyptian attack. Some delegates said a statement from Nasser disavowing belligerent actions could be used to meet the Israeli demands for guarantees. They were pessimistic on getting this statement, however.

The question of Israel's withdrawal had the attention of the highest American officials. President Eisenhower has discussed it by telephone with Secretary of State Dulles from the President's vacation quarters in Georgia. President Eisenhower has expressed hope that Israel will withdraw and has appealed to Israeli Premier David Ben-Gurion to do so.

There was, however, no hint of a break in Israel's adamant position. The Israelis have said repeatedly that some arrangement must be worked out so that Egyptian guns cannot once more blockade Israeli shipping at the Sharm el Sheikh entrance to the Gulf of Aqaba and that Arab commandos no longer can spring from the Gaza Strip into Israel in destructive raids.

The Gaza Strip and the coast of the Sinai peninsula along the Gulf of Aqaba are all that are left to Israel of the Egyptian territory seized when Israeli soldiers invaded Egypt last October.

The Israeli government received popular support at home for its demands.

Report $50 Million Price-Tag For U. S. Rental Of Arab Base

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9 (UP) — King Saud of Saudi Arabia will receive $50 million worth of U.S. arms in return for a new five-year lease on the Dhahran air base in his country, diplomatic sources told the United Press Saturday.

The Arab leader had hoped to obtain $250 million worth of military equipment during his glittering two-week state visit which ended Saturday. But he settled for the smaller amount with the understanding it would be over the five-year period of the lease and subject to possible changes — either increases or decreases.

The base is vital to Allied defense strategy. It is less than 1,000 air miles from the Soviet Union and forges a vital link in the ring of bases the United States has drawn around Russia to prevent an atomic attack on this country.

The State Department has kept the amount of the agreement secret. It declined to confirm the $50 million figure. Officials said some details still must be worked out.

Saud left some of his advisers behind for "further negotiations." The weapons will include jet planes and tanks.

Saud himself headed homeward Saturday morning to take up the role of super-salesman for President Eisenhower's doctrine for defending the Middle East against Communist aggression.

He enplaned in the blaze of pomp which marked his entire stay, and headed for a four-day state visit in Spain. From there he will go to Cairo for urgent talks with Egyptian, Jordanian, and Syrian leaders.

Cat Remains On Power Pole

SCRANTON, Pa., Feb. 9 (AP) — A hungry gray and white cat spent its seventh day atop a utility pole carrying a 23,000-volt power line today as onlookers debated ways of rescuing it.

Officials of the Pennsylvania Power & Light Co. said the 60-foot pole at nearby Simpson is too dangerous to climb when power is running through the line. To turn it off, would mean cutting electric supplies from three small towns.

Food has been placed on a crossarm just below the line but so far the cat has shown little inclination to move for the bait.

President Bags Quail In Georgia

THOMASVILLE, Ga., Feb. 9 (AP)—President Eisenhower today bagged three quail in unseasonably warm weather for hunting. He also kept in touch with Washington regarding United Nations attempts to get Israeli forces out of Egypt.

The vacationing President and his host, Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey, ranged the piney woods of the Cabinet officer's big plantation estate for 2½ hours during the morning.

The heat—ranging near 80 degrees by noon—made hunting conditions far from ideal for the scent-sniffing bird dogs, but Eisenhower did bring down three quail by lunch time. The daily limit is twelve. Humphrey had no luck at all—nary a bird.

On return to the Humphrey plantation house for lunch the President put in a telephone call for Secretary of State Dulles in Washington.

James C. Hagerty, White House press secretary, reported the Eisenhower-Dulles conference dealt with U. N. attempts—so far unsuccessful—to get Israel to withdraw its troops from the Gaza Strip and the Gulf of Aqaba area. But Hagerty provided no detail—and gave no hint whether any new strategy was developing.

Wallet Lost In Sea Finds Way Back To U. S. Seaman

QUONSET POINT, R.I., Feb. 9 (UP)—Three and a half months ago an American sailor lost his wallet containing $3, an identification card and family photographs while going ashore from his ship in Brest, France.

Saturday sailor Gossett Haymon Jr. of Akron, O., had the wallet, $3, identification card and photos back.

An aviation electrician's mate third class on the aircraft carrier Antietam, he got his wallet back this way:

A fisherman, idenity unknown, hauled the wallet up in his nets.

He turned it over to a sentry of French naval headquarters in Brest. The sentry delivered it to a Comdr. Roumeas of the French Navy, an aide to the naval base commandant. The commandant forwarded it to Capt. C. J. Vanarsdall Jr. naval attache at the U.S. embassy in Paris.

Capt. Vanarsdall sent the wallet with a letter to Cmdr. John R. Rutledge, commanding officer of Haymon's squadron.

It passed through one more pair hands before reaching Haymon—those of Lt. Cmdr. Gilbert L. Tracy, the squadron's administrative officer.

Atom Power Put In Use At Chicago

CHICAGO, Feb. 9 (AP)—A flow of atomic-generated electric power was put to use today in a ceremony hailed by the nation's top atomic leaders as "an event of historic significance in man's development of the atom for peaceful purposes."

The electricity came from the nation's first nuclear power system designed solely for electric power experiments. It is an experimental boiling water reactor.

The reactor, generating 5,000 kilowatts of electricity, replaces the conventional power used at the Argonne National Laboratory southwest of Chicago. It will remain in operation for a year.

The Argonne reactor, which uses ordinary and enriched uranium as fuel, can operate for a year with a net loss of only six pounds of fissionable material. This compares with an estimated 5,000 tons of coal which would be required to operate an electric generator of similar capacity.

However, scientists said that the cost of producing nuclear power is not yet competitive with electricity developed from coal.

Gibbs Seeking Pension Hikes

Rep. Lawrence Gibbs suggested today slashing administrative costs could provide a $75 monthly old age pension for everyone over 65.

"The welfare fund . . . is a dedicated fund for the poor and unfortunate," said the Ouachita Parish legislator in a statement, adding:

"When so much of this sacred money is consumed by able bodied, high faluting salaried people, I think this phase could be abolished and let each citizen who attains the age of 65 furnish the state with such evidence that would sutain his application, then the state mails to this person . . . $75 per month."

In Baton Rouge, Welfare Commissioner Mary Evelyn Parker declined comment on the proposal.

MARITAL SPLIT

Queen Shows Amusement Over Rumors

LONDON, Feb. 9 (UP)—Queen Elizabeth was amused Saturday at reports of a rift between her and the Duke of Edinburgh.

A member of the royal court said she shrugged off the rumor and gave the impression that her reunion with the dashing duke in Portugal next week after the longest separation of their marriage would effectively squelch further gossip.

"They have not seen each other for four months," the member of the official family said. "And I think it safe to say they will react like any other affectionate couple parted by duty for so long a time."

Anyone with eyes to see will know then how wrong the stories are."

The advance royal party in Lisbon, preparing for the royal tour of Portugal which begins next Saturday, also ridiculed the reports which cropped up Friday in a London dispatch in the Baltimore Sun.

SCRAPS SCHEDULE

Observers close to the royal family said Elizabeth was very much in love with her husband and, as any other wife might do, she decided to scrap the original schedule of her trip to Portugal and fly to Lisbon a day ahead of time to meet him there next Saturday.

British newspapers refused to publicize the story or even the terse three-word Buckingham Palace denial, "it's a lie."

Australian newspapers, however splashed the story over the front page.

The Sydney Daily Mirror headlined "Royal Rift Rumor Rocks World."

The mass circulation Sunday Telegraph in Sydney said "decent people throughout the world will deplore speculation about a possible rift between the queen and the Duke of Edinburgh.

The palace source, who refused to quote the queen directly, said she took the rumors as one of the hazards of being in the public limelight.

GAY AND CAREFREE

The queen herself, appearing gay and carefree, went for a 90-minute ride in a station wagon Saturday morning in Windsor Great Park.

She went to the races at Hurst Park Friday, holding a card marked by a racetrack tout, although she does not bet publicly. He gave her one winner—a 9-5 shot.

She appeared excited by the races and gave no intimation that she might have been worried about her husband.

The queen is accustomed to rumors about her marriage. Also, there is the undeniable fact that the lean, blonde and dashing duke, much more handsome than his photographs would indicate, is as popular with women as many movie stars.

Truman Says Demos 'In Power'

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Feb. 9 (UP)—Former President Truman quipped Saturday that the Democrats don't have to wait to get in power — "they're in power now."

Mr. Truman paused here briefly en route by train to Florida.

In reply to a reporter's question, Mr. Truman said Democrats "hold more governorships than the opposing party and they have control of congress — so they're in power now."

Mr. Truman is on a combined vacation business trip in connection with his Truman Memorial Library. He will vacation at Islamorado, near Key West, and will address a dinner at Key West on Feb. 23 and a luncheon on Feb. 25 in Miami in connection with the library.

"I'm going to Omaha later on a similar occasion," he said, "and that will be enough to raise funds for it."

Mr. Truman was accompanied by his wife.

The train was almost 1 1-2 hours late. Softened roadbeds in Arkansas had made it a "slow train through Arkansas."

Radio Prague Says U. S. Spy Ring Smashed

VIENNA, Feb. 9 (AP) — Radio Prague said today police have smashed a U.S.-directed spy ring in Czechoslovakia.

The broadcast asserted a former assistant air attache at the U. S. legation in Prague, a "Maj. Whitman," was in charge of the ring.

The radio said a number of arrests were made. It named three of the alleged spies: Dr. Jiri Sladecek, a former Czechoslovak employe of the U. S. legation; Miroslav Rezab, a former Ministry of Heavy Industry official, and Ladislav Lebeda, a former police officer.

The arrested men were accused of gathering military, economic and political data and turning them over to Whitman.

Two Texas Cities Vote To Combine

FREEPORT, Tex., Feb. 9 (AP)—Citizens of Freeport and Velasco voted in a special election today to combine their two cities. The consolidation is effective immediately.

The two cities will be called Freeport and Freeport officials will retain office until a city election is held the first Saturday in April to select new officials.

Freeport, a city of about 10,000, and Velasco, a city of about 4,000, were separated by the Brazos River. The middle of the channel was their boundary.

Velasco, which was founded in the 1820's, was one of the oldest cities in Texas. Freeport was founded in 1912.

Researcher Says Tornadoes Can Be Accurately Forecast

STILLWATER, Okla., Feb. 9 (AP)—An Oklahoma A&M College tornado researcher announced today that under certain favorable conditions, tornadoes can be pinpointed with a high degree of accuracy.

Dr. H. L. Jones, who has pioneered in the theory of certain storms carrying high electrical discharges that show tornado possibilities, said today that it may be possible during 1957 to issue severe weather advisories for areas as small as a 30-mile radius or less.

The announcement came after Jones received a report on an Air Weather Service survey of results of Oklahoma A&M's tornado-tracking laboratory.

The report was prepared by Capt. Edwin B. Dixon of the AWS in Kansas City, which was hired to mathematically evaluate Jones findings.

The U. S. Weather Bureau now issues tornado warnings based on certain conditions in which it is known tornadoes can spawn, but may normally cover a large area of a state.

Under Jones' system of "sferics frequency," electronic equipment which constantly monitors the skies records high-frequency electrical discharges from storm clouds. Under a scale developed by Jones, when the "pips" from the instrument register 20 per second or more there is a possibility of tornadoes.

Dixon reported that when the "sferics frequency" reached 20 per second on the laboratory tracking equipment, accuracy in spotting tornadoes approached 90 per cent.

In most cases, the maximum sferics readings—the clues to the possibility of a tornado—came 30 minutes to an hour before the reported time of the twister. This would be ample time to broadcast warnings to the areas in the storm's path, it was pointed out.

The report disclosed that 21 tornado advisories were issued in 17 storm situations last year between February and October on the basis of sferics readings from the A&M station here and direction fixes by satellite stations at Amarillo, Tex., Shreveport, La., and Grandview, Mo.

Of the advisories, nine were proved correct. In six of the seven others there were severe hailstorms or windstorms instead of tornadoes. The 17th could not be verified because it was in the Gulf of Mexico.

U. S. Looks To Nasser For Statement Of Intentions On Israeli Withdrawal

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Feb. 9 (AP)—The United States looked to President Nasser today for a statement of Egyptian intentions which might help the U. N. get Israel out of Egypt.

Arab-Asian delegates at the U. N. Assembly who disclosed the American move said they were not certain that the Egyptian President would make any statement but they were absolutely certain he would not break the cease-fire with a military attack on Israel.

Israel, meanwhile, is holding fast to the Gaza Strip and the Sharm el Sheikh sector of the Gulf of Aqaba until she is certain her rights will be protected against any Egyptian attack. Some delegates said a statement from Nasser disavowing belligerent actions could be used to meet the Israeli demands for guarantees. They were pessimistic on getting this statement, however.

The question of Israel's withdrawal had the attention of the highest American officials. President Eisenhower has discussed it by telephone with Secretary of State Dulles from the President's vacation quarters in Georgia. President Eisenhower has expressed hope that Israel will withdraw and has appealed to Israeli Premier David Ben-Gurion to do so.

There was, however, no hint of a break in Israel's adamant position. The Israelis have said repeatedly that some arrangement must be worked out so that Egyptian guns cannot once more blockade Israeli shipping at the Sharm el Sheikh entrance to the Gulf of Aqaba and that Arab commandos no longer can spring from the Gaza Strip into Israel in destructive raids.

The Gaza Strip and the coast of the Sinai peninsula along the Gulf of Aqaba are all that are left to Israel of the Egyptian territory seized when Israeli soldiers invaded Egypt last October.

The Israeli government received popular support at home for its demands.

Report $50 Million Price-Tag For U. S. Rental Of Arab Base

Observers close to the royal family said Elizabeth was very much in love with her husband and, as any other wife might do, she decided to scrap the original schedule of her trip to Portugal and fly to Lisbon a day ahead of time to meet him there next Saturday.

British newspapers refused to publicize the story or even the terse three-word Buckingham Palace denial, "it's a lie."

Australian newspapers, however splashed the story over the front page.

The Sydney Daily Mirror headlined "Royal Rift Rumor Rocks World."

The mass circulation Sunday Telegraph in Sydney said "decent people throughout the world will deplore speculation about a possible rift between the queen and the Duke of Edinburgh.

The palace source, who refused to quote the queen directly, said she took the rumors as one of the hazards of being in the public limelight.

GAY AND CAREFREE

The queen herself, appearing gay and carefree, went for a 90-minute ride in a station wagon Saturday morning in Windsor Great Park.

She went to the races at Hurst Park Friday, holding a card marked by a racetrack tout, although she does not bet publicly. He gave her one winner—a 9-5 shot.

She appeared excited by the races and gave no intimation that she might have been worried about her husband.

The queen is accustomed to rumors about her marriage. Also, there is the undeniable fact that the lean, blonde and dashing duke, much more handsome than his photographs would indicate, is as popular with women as many movie stars.

SECOND PARLEY PLANNED

CAIRO, Feb. 9 (UP)—A four-man delegation of the Asian Solidarity Committee is planning to propose to Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser that he call a second "Bandung Conference" in Cairo as soon as possible, it was reported Saturday.

Truman Says Demos 'In Power'

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Feb. 9 (UP)—Former President Truman quipped Saturday that the Democrats don't have to wait to get in power — "they're in power now."

Mr. Truman paused here briefly en route by train to Florida.

In reply to a reporter's question, Mr. Truman said Democrats "hold more governorships than the opposing party and they have control of congress — so they're in power now."

Mr. Truman is on a combined vacation business trip in connection with his Truman Memorial Library. He will vacation at Islamorado, near Key West, and will address a dinner at Key West on Feb. 23 and a luncheon on Feb. 25 in Miami in connection with the library.

"I'm going to Omaha later on a similar occasion," he said, "and that will be enough to raise funds for it."

Mr. Truman was accompanied by his wife.

The train was almost 1 1-2 hours late. Softened roadbeds in Arkansas had made it a "slow train through Arkansas."

Radio Prague Says U. S. Spy Ring Smashed

VIENNA, Feb. 9 (AP) — Radio Prague said today police have smashed a U.S.-directed spy ring in Czechoslovakia.

The broadcast asserted a former assistant air attache at the U. S. legation in Prague, a "Maj. Whitman," was in charge of the ring.

The radio said a number of arrests were made. It named three of the alleged spies: Dr. Jiri Sladecek, a former Czechoslovak employe of the U. S. legation; Miroslav Rezab, a former Ministry of Heavy Industry official, and Ladislav Lebeda, a former police officer.

The arrested men were accused of gathering military, economic and political data and turning them over to Whitman.

Two Texas Cities Vote To Combine

FREEPORT, Tex., Feb. 9 (AP)—Citizens of Freeport and Velasco voted in a special election today to combine their two cities. The consolidation is effective immediately.

The two cities will be called Freeport and Freeport officials will retain office until a city election is held the first Saturday in April to select new officials.

Freeport, a city of about 10,000, and Velasco, a city of about 4,000, were separated by the Brazos River. The middle of the channel was their boundary.

Velasco, which was founded in the 1820's, was one of the oldest cities in Texas. Freeport was founded in 1912.

'LIFO' Tax Ruling May Cost Government Billions

NEW YORK, Feb. 9 (AP)—Four little words may mean multi-million-dollar tax savings for many of the nation's big merchants.

They are "last in, first out"—LIFO.

LIFO made headlines this week in a tax case involving R. H. Macy & Co. Judge Alexander Bicks ruled in New York Federal District Court that Macy's is entitled to a 1941 tax refund of $727,523, made possible by the LIFO accounting system.

If the decision stands, Macy's may get a total of nine million dollars in tax rebates for the years 1941-47. If other retailers are successful in pressing similar claims, the total tax loss to Uncle Sam could run as high as two billion dollars.

The government says it will appeal the decision and go to the U.S. Supreme Court if necessary.

What is LIFO? The expression "last in, first out" describes a method by which accountants evaluate the cost of business inventories for tax purposes. The ventories for tax purposs. The cost for the entire year is figured on the basis of the price paid for the last shipment, on the theory that the last inventory taken in is the first to go out. The device eases corporate tax burdens in an inflationary era of rising prices.

Here's how it works:

John Smith runs a small dry goods store. At the start of the year he buys 300 yards of fabric for his piece goods counter, paying $90 or 30 cents a yard. Before the year is out he sells the goods and replenishes his stock by buying 300 yards more of the same material. But the wholesale price has gone up, and instead of 30 cents a yard he pays 40 cents, or $120.

Under the LIFO theory — that the last (and in this case higher priced) material "in" is the first "out"—he is permitted to evaluate his inventory purchases for the entire year on the basis of 40 cents a yard, the last price paid. So he can figure his inventory expense at $240, although the fabric actually cost him only $210.

Shoe and textile manufacturers were the first to use LIFO on a large scale. They adopted it in the late 1930's when prices of hides and cotton were moving up.

Steel and oil companies swung over to LIFO just before Pearl Harbor when World War II was pushing commodity prices sky high. Among the first to give it a whirl were United States Steel Corp. and Standard Oil Co. (New Jersey).

In 1941 the system was incorporated into the Internal Revenue code. Several department stores switched from the traditional FIFO ("first in, first out") method to the new scheme. But federal tax collectors disapproved. The tax people held that LIFO could quite properly be applied to basic raw material inventoris like iron ore, cotton and crude oil but not to the thousands of varied items stocked by the average department store.

It was touch-and-go for retailers until 1947 when Hutzler Bros. department store of Baltimore won an important legal round. A tax court ruling held that LIFO could proberly serve as a basis for evaluating retail inventories.

This paved the way for the use of LIFO by retailers from 1947 on. But stores like Macy's which had adopted it previously sought to make it retroactive. The Internal Revenue Service said "no." That's where the matter stood when the R. H. Macy & Co. case came up for decision.

At issue now are claims for tax refunds for the six years before 1947. Treasury department officials have estimated that if retailers were allowed to use the LIFO method on a retroactive basis back to 1941, the government would have to ante up two billion dollars in tax rebates.
